PREFACE.

Among the events which made the year 1901 notable in the annals of time were these:

The assassination by an anarchist of William McKinley, president of the United States, and the assumption of the chief executive's duties by the vice-president, Theodore Roosevelt, without causing the slightest disturbance in the political, industrial and financial world.

The death of Queen Victoria, bringing to a close the longest and in some respects the most remarkable reign in British history, and the accession to the throne of King Edward VII.

The death of Li Hung Chang, the most prominent figure in recent Chinese history.

The formation of a new and powerful federation, or commonwealth, by the states of Australia.

The culmination of the tendency toward concentration of capital and combination of industrial interests in the organization of the most gigantic of modern trusts, the United States Steel corporation, with a capital of $1,100,000,000.

The giving of princely gifts, especially to the cause of education, by Andrew Carnegie, John D. Rockefeller, D. K. Pearsons and others.

The unfeigned alarm of the nations of Europe at the American "invasion" of their home markets—an alarm apparently justified by the greatest volume of exports in the history of the United States, amounting for the fiscal year ended June 30 to the enormous total of $1,605,219,874.

The facts needful for reference concerning these and numerous other matters relating to the world in general and the United States, Illinois and Chicago in particular are given in the following pages.

Chicago Daily News Almanac 1902.

NOTE.—The time given in this Almanac is local mean time, except when otherwise indicated.

The difference between the amount of money in the country and the amount in circulation represents the money in the treasury. Currency certificates, act of June 8, 1872, are included in the amount of United States notes in circulation in tables for years 1873 to 1891, inclusive; since 1891 they are reported separately.

The person charging this material is responsible for its return to the library from which it was withdrawn on or before the Latest Date stamped below.

Theft, mutilation, and underlining of books are reasons for disciplinary action and may result in dismissal from the University.

WAR OF THE REBELLION RECORDS.

Publication of this colossal work was begun in 1874 and was completed early in 1901. It consists of 128 octavo volumes of about 1,200 pages each and 178 plates. Eleven thousand copies were originally ordered printed, but by subsequent acts of congress the number was increased by about 4,000. Most of them have been distributed among congressmen and officials in the executive departments of the government.

*This and the following table embody such official figures as are available in regard to wheat and corn, together with commercial or other estimates for a number of countries for which official data are not furnished. There are many countries which not only issue no official figures, but for which not even rough estimates, or information upon which to base them, can be had; and these are necessarily omitted from the tables. They are, however, for the most part countries whose production enters to a very limited extent into the world's commerce in the articles named, and the part of the world's production covered by the tables embraces substantially all that is of much commercial importance.

STOCK-MARKET PANIC.

In May, 1901, a struggle took place between James J. Hill, president of the Great Northern railroad, and J. P. Morgan & Co., on one side, and the Harriman interests, represented by Kuhn, Loeb & Co., on the other, for the possession of the Northern Pacific railroad. Speculation in many lines of stock had been exceedingly active prior to that time and a popular craze for speculation had set in. The contest between the two powerful factions added greatly to the excitement, which culminated Thursday, May 9, in a serious panic on the New York stock exchange. Northern Pacific stock was cornered and forced up to the extraordinary price of $1,000 a share. Most of the minor and many of the large speculators lost heavily, though there were no failures, owing to the action of the banks in forming a special loan fund of about $20,000,000 and the offer of holders of Northern Pacific stock to settle at 150. As Northern Pacific went up other stocks went down. The following table shows the effect of the panic on some of the leading securities:

Arizona, Utah, Nevada, Idaho, Washington, Oregon and California.

CENTER OF POPULATION AND ITS MEDIAN POINT.

The center of population is the center of gravity of the population of the country, each individual being assumed to have the same weight. What is known as the median point is the point of intersection of the line dividing the population equally north and south with the line dividing it equally east and west. In computing the former, distance from the center is taken into account, while in the latter it is not. The population of Alaska and Hawaii, though included in the census of 1900, is not included in the following tables (prepared by Henry Gannett, the geographer):

POSITION OF THE CENTER OF POPULATION (1790-1900).

The center of area of the United States, excluding Alaska and Hawaii and other recent accessions, is in northern Kansas, in approximate latitude 39 degrees 55 minutes, and approximate longitude 98 degrees 50 minutes. The center of population is therefore about three-fourths of a degree south and more than thirteen degrees east of the center of area.

DRIFT OF FLOATING BOTTLES.

For several years the United States hydrographic office, with the co-operation of the Russian department of marine, has experimented with floating bottles to ascertain in a general way the direction and velocity of ocean currents. In this manner it has been found that the waters of the south Atlantic move in a westerly direction, while those of the north Atlantic flow east and north. Bottles thrown into the sea between Madeira and the Cape Verde islands have drifted at the average rate of 10.8 miles a day to the south, west and northwest, while those thrown overboard along the coast of North America have drifted to the north-east at the rate of only 5 miles a day. Along the north coast of South America they have been borne along much faster, averaging 21.1 miles a day.

Between the main drifts of the Atlantic, or between 25 degrees and 40 degrees north latitude and 30 degrees to 60 degrees west longitude, there is a region where the currents are feeble and variable, and but few bottles thrown into the sea there are ever recovered.

Of the presidents, Adams, federalist; Polk, Buchanan and Cleveland, democrats; Taylor, whig; Lincoln, Hayes, Garfield and Harrison, republicans, did not, when elected, receive a majority of the popular vote. The highest percentage of popular vote received by any president was 55.97 for Jackson, democrat, in 1828, and the lowest 39.91 for Lincoln, republican, in 1860; Buchanan, democrat, next lowest, with 45.34. Hayes and Harrison, with the exception of John Quincy Adams, who was chosen by the house of representatives, were the only presidents ever elected who did not have a majority over their principal competitors, and Tilden and Cleveland the only defeated candidates who had a majority over the president-elect.

*Prior to 1824 electors were chosen by the legislatures of the different states.

SMALLEST BOOK IN THE WORLD.

What is said to be the smallest book in the world is one written in the Gurmuthi language and originally found in the golden temple at Amritsar, India. It is about the size of a postage stamp and bound in red silk with stiff covers. There is one copy in the British museum and another in the Field museum.

DIFFERENCE IN TIME.

By noting the variation in time between the cities representing the eastern, central, mountain and Pacific divisions in the United States and those in Alaska, Hawaii, Porto Rico and the Philippines and in foreign countries the variation in time between all the other cities in the United States and the places named may be easily calculated. The time in all cases except where otherwise specified is local or actual time.

When it is 12 o'clock noon on Monday, eastern time, in New York the corresponding time in the cities named below is:

Chicago (central time).....	11:00 a. m., Monday
Denver (mountain time).....	10:00 a. m., Monday
S. Francisco (Pac. time).....	9:00 a. m., Monday
Sitka, Alaska.....	7:58 a. m., Monday

AMERICAN HALL OF FAME.

"The Hall of Fame for Great Americans" was built by the University of New York in 1900-1901 from the proceeds of a bequest of $100,000 made for that purpose. The building forms part of the university quadrangle on University heights, overlooking Harlem river. It is designed to contain tablets and other memorials to 150 distinguished native-born Americans who shall have been at least ten years dead. Names are selected by a board of 100 electors made up of educators, historians, publicists, editors and authors. Fifty were to be selected in 1901 and five each year thereafter, but only twenty-nine were agreed upon; the other twenty-one for 1901 will be chosen in 1902. On the 30th of May, 1901, the hall was dedicated and tablets in memory of twenty-nine great Americans were unveiled. The names follow in the order of preference shown them by the electors:

- George Washington.
- Abraham Lincoln.
- Daniel Webster.
- Benjamin Franklin.
- Ulysses S. Grant.
- John Marshall.
- Thomas Jefferson.
- Ralph Waldo Emerson.
- Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.
- Robert Fulton.
- Washington Irving.
- Jonathan Edwards.
- Samuel F. B. Morse.
- David Glasgow Farragut.
- Henry Clay.
- Nathaniel Hawthorne.
- George Peabody.
- Robert E. Lee.
- Peter Cooper.
- Eli Whitney.
- John James Audubon.
- Horace Mann.
- Henry Ward Beecher.
- James Kent.
- Joseph Story.
- John Adams.
- William Ellery Channing.
- Gilbert Stuart.
- Asa Gray.

WEATHER FORECASTS AND SIGNALS.

The weather bureau of the United States department of agriculture publishes daily more than 100,000 weather bulletins, not counting the forecasts in the newspapers. Most of these bulletins are in the form of postal cards printed by postmasters from telegraphic reports and sent by them to outlying towns for display at suitable points. There is also an elaborate system of redistribution by means of telephones and railroads from established centers, so that there are comparatively few accessible places which do not now receive daily weather forecasts within a very short time after the observers have completed their work. The old system of conveying information about the weather by means of flag displays is also in general use.

EXPLANATION OF WEATHER FLAGS.

No. 1. White flag.	No. 2. Blue flag.	No. 3. White and blue flag.	No. 4. Black triangular flag.	No. 5. White flag with black square in center.

Clear or fair weather.	Rain or snow.	Local rain or snow.	Temperature.	Cold wave.

When No. 4 is placed above No. 1, 2 or 3 it indicates warmer; when below, colder; when not displayed, the temperature is expected to remain about stationary. During the late spring and early fall the cold-wave flag is also used to indicate anticipated frosts.

EXPLANATION OF STORM-WARNING FLAGS.

Northwest winds. Southwest winds. Northeast winds. Southeast winds. "Hurricane" signal.

A red flag with a black center indicates that a storm of marked violence is expected. The pennants displayed with the flags indicate the direction of the wind: red, easterly (from northeast to south); white, westerly (from southwest to north). The pennant above the flag indicates that the wind is expected to blow from the northerly quadrants; below, from southerly quadrants.

By night a red light indicates easterly winds, and a white light above a red light, westerly winds.

Two red flags, with black centers, displayed one above the other, indicate the expected approach of tropical hurricanes, and also of those extremely severe and dangerous storms which occasionally move across the lakes and northern Atlantic coast. Hurricane warnings are not displayed at night.

STEAM WHISTLE SIGNALS.

A warning of from fifteen to twenty seconds duration is sounded to attract attention. After this warning the longer blasts (of from four to six seconds duration) refer to weather, and shorter blasts (of from one to three seconds duration) refer to temperature; those for weather are sounded first.

Blasts.	Indicate.
One long.....	Fair weather
Two long.....	Rain or snow
Three long.....	Local rain or snow
One short.....	Lower temperature
Two short.....	Higher temperature
Three short.....	Cold wave

THERMOMETERS COMPARED.

There are three kinds of thermometers, with varying scales, in general use throughout the world—the Fahrenheit, Reaumur and Centigrade. The freezing and boiling points on their scales compare as follows:

Thermometer.	Freezing pt.	Boiling pt.
Fahrenheit	32 degrees	212 degrees
Reaumur	zero	80 degrees
Centigrade	zero	100 degrees

The degrees on one scale are reduced to their equivalents on another by these formulas:

Fahrenheit to Reaumur—Subtract 32, multiply by four-ninths.

Fahrenheit to Centigrade—Subtract 32, multiply by five-ninths.

Reaumur to Fahrenheit—Multiply by nine-fourths, add 32.

Reaumur to Centigrade—Multiply by five-fourths.

Centigrade to Fahrenheit—Multiply by nine-fifths, add 32.

Centigrade to Reaumur—Multiply by four-fifths.

WEIGHTS AND MEASURES USED IN THE UNITED STATES.

MEASURES OF LENGTH.

12 inches = 1 foot.	8 furlongs = 1 mile = 5,280 feet.
3 feet = 1 yard = 36 in'-es.	1.153 miles = 1 geographic mile = 6,085 feet.
5½ yards = 1 rod = 16½ feet.	1.153 miles = 1 nautical(knot) mile = 6,085 feet.
40 rods = 1 furlong = 660 feet.

LIQUID MEASURE.

4 gills = 1 pint.
2 pints = 1 quart.
4 quarts = 1 gallon.
31½ gallons = 1 barrel.
2 barrels = 1 hogshead.

DRY MEASURE.

2 pints = 1 quart.
8 quarts = 1 peck.
4 pecks = 1 bushel.

APOTHECARIES' WEIGHT.

3 scruples = 1 dram.
8 drams = 1 ounce.
12 ounces = 1 pound.

TROY WEIGHT.

20 pennyw's = 1 ounce.
12 ounces = 1 pound.

AVORDUPOIS WEIGHT.

27 11-32 grains = 1 dram.	2,000 lbs = 1 short ton.
16 drams = 1 ounce.	2,240 lbs = 1 long ton.
16 ounces = 1 pound.

SQUARE MEASURE.

144 square inches = 1 square foot.
9 square feet = 1 square yard.
30¼ square yards = 1 square rod.
160 square rods = 1 acre.
640 acres = 1 square mile.

TIME MEASURE.

60 minutes = 1 hour.
24 hours = 1 day.
365 days = 1 year.

METRIC SYSTEM.

The metric system is compulsory in twenty countries, representing more than 300,000,000 inhabitants—Germany, Austria-Hungary, Belgium, Spain, France, Greece, Italy, Netherlands, Portugal, Roumania, Servia, Norway, Sweden, Switzerland, Argentine Republic, Brazil, Chile, Mexico, Peru and Venezuela.

COPYRIGHT REGULATIONS.

The articles specified by law as proper subjects of copyright are: Books, maps, charts, dramatic compositions, musical compositions, engravings, cuts, prints, photographs, photographic negatives, chromos, lithographs, periodicals, paintings, drawings, statuary and models or designs intended to be perfected as works of fine art. Any one desiring to secure a copyright can send to the Librarian of congress for a blank application. This must be filled up according to the printed directions, which will be found plainly and specifically given on the blank itself. A printed or typewritten copy of the title of the article to be copyrighted must accompany the application; in the case of paintings, drawings, statuary or designs, descriptions must be inclosed. On or before the day of publication two complete copies of the book or other article must be sent to the library of congress to perfect the copyright.

The fee for the entry of title of production of a citizen of the United States is 50 cents; for a foreigner, $1; certificate, 50 cents additional in either case. Remittances must be made by money order, express order or bank draft; postage stamps and checks will not be accepted. The copyright is for twenty-eight years, but it may be renewed for fourteen more.

RATES OF POSTAGE AND MONEY ORDERS.

DOMESTIC.

Embraces United States and island possessions of Guam, Hawaii, Porto Rico, Tutuila and Philippines.

FIRST CLASS.—Letters and all written matter, whether sealed or unsealed, and all matter closed against inspection, either by nailing, sewing, wrapping or in any other manner, so that the contents cannot be removed from the wrapper and be returned thereto without mutilating either, are subject to the first-class rate of postage, 2 cents per ounce or fraction thereof.

Special Delivery.—Any article of mailable matter, bearing a 10-cent special-delivery stamp, in addition to the lawful postage, is entitled to immediate delivery on its arrival at the office of address between the hours of 7 a. m. and 11 p. m., if the office be of the free-delivery class; and between the hours of 7 a. m. and 7 p. m. if the office be other than a free-delivery office. To entitle such a letter to immediate delivery, the residence or place of business of the addressee must be within the carrier limits of a free-delivery office and within one mile of any other office.

Postal Cards.—Issued by the government, 1 cent each. The postmaster-general alone is authorized by law to determine the quality, form and size of postal cards, and to prescribe the regulations under which they may be sent in the mails, and it is not within the discretion of others to change the card so adopted. Such change of form or face, such as trimming, punching holes, or mutilation of any kind, will render the stamp impressed thereon valueless, and such mutilated card offered for mailing must have affixed thereto the full postage, viz.: One cent if the message is entirely in print, and the letter rate if it is wholly or partly in writing.

SECOND CLASS.—All regular newspapers, magazines and other periodicals issued at stated intervals not less frequently than four times a year, when mailed by publishers; the postage is 1 cent for each pound. A special rate of 1 cent for four ounces is made for all second-class matter mailed by other than publishers or newsdealers. The following rules promulgated by the postmaster-general went into effect Oct. 1, 1901: Prohibiting the return of unsold copies of periodicals at pound rates, either by news agents to publishers or by one news agent to another; second, excluding anything which is properly a book from the privileges extended to periodicals, no matter whether the book appears under the guise of a serial publication or not; and, third, excluding periodicals that depend for their subscription lists not upon their merits as purveyors of news and literature but upon the offer of premiums.

THIRD CLASS.—Embraces printed books, pamphlets, circulars, engravings, lithographs, proof-sheets with manuscript accompanying same and all matter of the same general character and not having the character of personal correspondence. Circulars produced by the mimeograph, hectograph, electric pen and other similar processes of transfer in imitation of hand or type writing, not having the character of an actual personal correspondence, and easy of recognition, are mailable at the third-class rate of postage when presented to the postoffice or carrier station in not less than 20 identical copies. If mailed elsewhere or in less number, the letter rates of postage must be paid. Matter of the third class must be so wrapped as to be easy of inspection without breaking the seal or mutilating the wrapper. Rate of postage, 1 cent for each two ounces or fraction thereof. Full prepayment compulsory.

FOURTH CLASS.—All mailable matter, like merchandise, not included in the three preceding classes, which is so prepared for mailing as to be easily taken from the wrapper and examined. Rate, 1 cent per ounce or fraction thereof, except seeds, roots, cuttings, bulbs, plants and scions, which are 1 cent per two ounces. Limit of weight, four pounds. Full prepayment compulsory. Liquids and other like injurious matter not admitted, except under some conditions, which may be learned at any postoffice.

Private Mailing Cards.—1. Cards must not exceed in size $3\frac{3}{4}$ by $5\frac{1}{2}$ inches, nor be less than 2 15-16 by 4 15-16.

2. The quality of the cards must be substantially that of the government postal cards.

3. The cards must bear these words at the top of the address side: "Private Mailing Card—Authorized by Act of Congress of May 19, 1898." When sent in foreign mails the words postal card or card postale should also appear. When prepared by printers or stationers for sale they should also bear in the upper right-hand corner of the address side an oblong diagram with the words "Place the postage stamp here," and in the lower left-hand corner the following words should be printed: "This side is for the address."

4. The postage rate applicable to cards for the United States, Canada and Mexico is 1 cent. For other countries the rate is 2 cents.

5. The face of the card is reserved exclusively for postage stamps, postmarks and the address, which may be in writing, printing, by means of a stamp or by an adhesive label of not more than three-fourths of an inch by two inches in size. The sender may in the same manner indicate his name and address on the face or back of the card; and engravings and advertisements may be printed on the front if they do not interfere with a perfectly distinct address.

SUGGESTIONS.—Direct your mail matter to a postoffice, writing the name of the state plainly; and if to a city, add the street and number or postoffice box of the person addressed. Matter not addressed to a postoffice cannot be forwarded. Write or print your name and address, and the contents, if a package, upon the upper left-hand corner of all mail matter. This will insure the immediate return of all first-class matter to you for correction, if improperly addressed or insufficiently paid; and if it is not called for at destination it can be returned to you without going to the dead-letter office. If a letter, it will be returned free. Undeliverable second, third and fourth class matter will not be forwarded or returned without a new prepayment of postage. When a return card appears on this matter either the sender or addressee is requested to send the postage. Register all valuable letters and packages. Registry fee, 8 cents, which, with the postage, must be fully prepaid. Limited indemnity on presentation of sufficient proof will be paid in case of loss of contents from registered matter of the first class.

MONEY-ORDER FEES.—For domestic money orders in denominations of $100 or less the following fees are charged:

For orders for sums not exceeding $2.50.....	3c
For over $2.50 and not exceeding $5.....	5c
For over $5 and not exceeding $10.....	8c

EXISTING AGREEMENTS SUMMARIZED.

FRANCE—The United States reduces the rate of duty on crude tartar from France to 5 per cent ad valorem; on brandies or other spirits to $1.75 per gallon; also a reduction on still wines and vermouth, and on paintings to 15 per cent ad valorem, while the French government gives its minimum tariff rates to canned meats, table fruits, dried fruits, lard, manufactured and prepared pork meats, hops, paving blocks, staves and logs and sawed or squared timber and lumber from the United States.

GERMANY—The United States gives the same tariff rates as those named in the treaty with France on tartar, brandies, still wines and paintings, and the German government gives to the United States the same tariff rates as those given to Belgium, Italy, Austria-Hungary, Roumania, Russia and Switzerland during the existence of the present tariff treaties with them and an-nuls its regulations regarding dried fruits from the United States, providing in their stead a system of inspection on account of the San Jose scale.

PORTUGAL—The reductions on crude tartar, brandies, wines and paintings accorded to Germany and France are given by the United States to Portugal, and the Portuguese government gives to the United States as low rates of duty as those accorded to any other country, except Spain and Brazil, on breadstuffs, lard, mineral oils, agricultural implements and certain machinery for manufacturing.

ITALY—The above-named rates with reference to tartar, brandies, still wines and paintings are given by the United States, and a reduction is made by the Italian government on imports of cotton-seed oil, fish, machinery, scientific instruments, fertilizers and skins.

LARGEST VIADUCT IN THE WORLD.

What is said to be the largest viaduct in the world is that over the Goktelk gorge in Upper Burma, eighty miles from Mandalay. It is made of steel trestle-work, is 325 feet high and 2,260 feet long. It was designed and built by American engineers for the English railway in Burma.

Work was begun Feb. 1, 1900, and the structure was completed in December of the same year.

LIQUOR AND CRIME IN LARGE CITIES.

From report of the department of labor, Washington, D. C. The figures are in most cases for fiscal years ended in 1900, but in some instances they extend to April, 1901.

PRODUCTION OF CRUDE PETROLEUM.

Russia and the United States are the great oil-producing countries of the world. In the year 1900 the former produced 9,833,820 metric tons, or 2,551,318,020 gallons, and the latter 5,329,279 metric tons, or 2,590,405,761 gallons. The two together make about nine-tenths of the world production. American oil is superior in the production of illuminants, while the Russian produces more lubricants. The value of the former is much greater, as the following table, prepared by the bureau of statistics of the treasury department, will show. The figures indicate the value of the exports of mineral oils from the two countries in the years named:

Years.*	United States.	Russia.

UNITED STATES MORTALITY STATISTICS.

(Census year ended May 31, 1900.)

DEATH RATE IN LARGE CITIES.

From the tables prepared by W. A. King, chief statistician for vital statistics, it appears that in the registration areas, or those parts of the country furnishing complete and reliable data, there has been a decrease in the general death rate since 1890 of 1.8 per 1,000 of population. In 1890 the rate in cities of 5,000 or more population was 21 per 1,000; in 1900 the death rate was 18.6 in cities of 8,000 or more population, showing a decrease of 2.4 per 1,000.

The following table shows the death rate per 1,000 in cities having 100,000 or more population:

CAUSES OF DEATH.

In this table is shown the number of deaths from prevalent diseases and from accidents in 1900 and 1890 with the proportion from each cause per 100,000 of population. Consumption in this enumeration includes general tuberculosis, heart disease includes pericarditis; diarrheal diseases include cholera morbus, colitis, dysentery and enteritis; paralysis includes general paralysis of the insane, diseases of the stomach include gastritis and diseases of the liver include jaundice.

JACKSONVILLE FIRE.

On the afternoon of Saturday, May 4, 1901, a fire broke out in Jacksonville, Fla., which by midnight of the same day had destroyed some 1,500 houses, caused a loss of property valued at $11,000,000 and rendered 10,000 persons homeless. Several lives were lost. The area burned over was about two miles long by one wide.

LIBRARIES IN THE UNITED STATES.

[From the report of the commissioner of education.]

In 1900 there were in the United States 5,383 public, society and school libraries containing 1,000 or more volumes each. The total number of volumes in these collections was 44,591,851, or 35 per cent more than in 1890, when the number was 33,051,872. There is one library of the kind named for every 14,118 persons, and there are 59 books for every 100 of population, excluding, of course, all private and small collections. The following table shows the number of libraries exceeding 1,000 volumes in size, the number of volumes and pamphlets, percentage of increase in volumes and number of books issued for home use in 1900:

THE MONROE DOCTRINE.

The famous "Monroe doctrine" was enunciated by President Monroe in his message to congress Dec. 2, 1823. Referring to steps taken to arrange the respective rights of Russia, Great Britain and the United States on the northwest coast of this continent, the president went on to say:

"In the discussions to which this interest has given rise, and in the arrangements by which they may terminate, the occasion has been deemed proper for asserting, as a principle in which the rights and interests of the United States are involved, that the American continents, by the free and independent condition which they have assumed and maintain, are henceforth not to be considered as subjects for future colonization by any European power. * * *
We owe it, therefore, to candor and to the amicable relations existing between the United States and those powers to declare that we should consider any attempt on their part to extend their system to any portion of this hemisphere as dangerous to our peace and safety. With the existing colonies or dependencies of any European power we have not interfered and shall not interfere. But with the governments who have declared their independence and maintain it, and whose independence we have, on great consideration and on just principles, acknowledged, we could not view any interposition for the purpose of oppressing them or controlling in any other manner their destiny by any European power in any other light than as the manifestation of an unfriendly disposition toward the United States."

The doctrine has been accepted and defended by American statesmen, generally speaking, since Monroe's time. It was insisted upon with emphasis by Secretary of State Olney in his letter to Mr. Bayard July 20, 1895, and by President Cleveland in his special message to congress Dec. 17 of the same year, the subject of each document being the position taken by the United States with relation to the boundary dispute between Great Britain and Venezuela.
President Cleveland declared: "It may not be amiss to suggest that the doctrine upon which we stand is strong and sound because its enforcement is important to our peace and safety as a nation and is essential to our free institutions and the tranquil maintenance of our distinctive form of government.
It was intended to apply to every stage of our national life and cannot become obsolete while our republic endures."

AMENDMENTS TO WAR REVENUE LAW OF 1898.

(Act of March 2, 1901.)

Tax on beer, ale, porter and similar fermented liquors reduced from $2 per barrel of thirty-one gallons to $1.60. No discount.

Tobacco and snuff—20 per cent discount of the original tax of 12 cents per pound. This makes the tax $9.60 per 100 pounds.

Cigars weighing more than three pounds per 1,000—$3 in place of $3.60 per 1,000.

Cigars weighing not more than three pounds per 1,000—18 cents a pound in place of $1 per 1,000.

Cigarettes weighing not more than three pounds per 1,000 and of a wholesale value of not more than $2 per 1,000—18 cents per pound in place of $3.60 per 1,000.

Cigarettes weighing not more than three pounds per 1,000 and of a wholesale value of more than $2 per 1,000—36 cents per pound.

Certificates of stock transfers—"Bucket-shop" transactions included.

Sales of products at exchange—Sales of merchandise in actual course of transportation exempt.

Foreign bills of exchange—2 cents for each $100 in place of 4 cents.

Conveyances—Exempted below $2,500; above that sum, 25 cents for each $500. The old tax was 50 cents for conveyances between $100 and $500; above that, 50 cents for each additional $500.

Miscellaneous bonds—Tax repealed except upon indemnity bonds.

Steamship passage tickets—Exempt below $50 in value; for tickets costing $50 or more, 50 cents for each $50. The tax under the old law was $1 for tickets costing not more than $30; for tickets costing between $30 and $60 the tax was $3, and for tickets costing more than $60, $5.

Legacies—All of a charitable, religious, literary or educational character exempt.

Taxes on the following repealed: Medicinal proprietary articles and preparations, chewing gum, bank checks, promissory notes, money orders, export bills of lading, express receipts, telephone and telegraph messages, charter parties, leases, customs-house entry manifests, mortgages, powers of attorney, protests, warehouse receipts, certificates of deposit and commercial brokers.

Amended law went into effect July 1, 1901.

APPLICATIONS FOR PATENTS.

[Condensed from Rules of Practice in the United States patent office.]

A patent may be obtained by any person who has invented or discovered any new and useful art, machine, manufacture or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof not previously patented or described in this or any other country, or more than two years prior to his application, unless the same is proved to have been abandoned. A patent may also be obtained for any new design for a manufacture, bust, statue, auto-relievo or bas-relief; for the printing or woolen, silk or other fabrics; for any new impression, ornament, pattern, print or picture to be placed on or woven into any article of manufacture; and for any new, useful and original shape or configuration of any article of manufacture, upon payment of fees and taking the other necessary steps.

Applications for patents must be in writing, in the English language, and signed by the inventor if alive. The application must include the first fee of $5, a petition, specification and oath; and drawings, model or specimen when required. The petition must be addressed to the commissioner of patents and must give the name and full address of the applicant, must designate by title the invention sought to be patented, must contain a reference to the specifications for a full disclosure of such invention, and must be signed by the applicant.

The specification must contain the following in the order named: Name and residence of the applicant with title of invention; a general statement of the object and nature of the invention; a brief description of the several views of the drawings (if the invention admits of such illustration); a detailed description; claim or claims; signature of inventor and signatures of two witnesses. Claims for a machine and its product and claims for a machine and the process in the performance of which the machine is used must be presented in separate applications, but claims for a process and its product may be presented in the same application.

The applicant, if the inventor, must make oath or affirmation that he believes himself to be the first inventor or discoverer of that which he seeks to have patented. The oath or affirmation must also state of what country he is a citizen and where he resides. In every original application the applicant must swear or affirm that the invention has not been patented to himself or to others with his knowledge or consent in this or any foreign country for more than two years prior to his application, or on an application for a patent filed in any foreign country by himself or his legal representatives or assigns more than seven months prior to his application. If application has been made in any foreign country, full and explicit details must be given. The oath or affirmation may be made before any one who is authorized by the laws of his country to administer oaths.

Drawings must be on white paper with India ink and the sheets must be exactly 10x15 inches in size with a margin of one inch. They must show all details clearly and without the use of superfluous lines.

Applications for reissues must state why the original patent is believed to be defective and tell precisely how the errors were made. These applications must be accompanied by the original patent and an offer to surrender the same, or, if the original be lost, by an affidavit to that effect, and a certified copy of the patent. Every applicant whose claims have been twice rejected for the same reasons may appeal from the primary examiners to the examiners in chief upon the payment of a fee of $10.

The duration of patents is for seventeen years except in the case of design patents, which may be for three and a half, seven or fourteen years as the inventor may elect.

Caveats or notices given to the patent office of claims to inventions to prevent the issue of patents to other persons upon the same invention, without notice to the caveators, may be filed upon the payment of a fee of $10. Caveats must contain the same information as applications for patents.

PROPORTION OF MEN TO WOMEN.

Statisticians in Germany have figured out the proportionate number of men and women in the various countries of the world. They find that Europe, with a population of 334,000,000, has a female excess of 3,750,000. In Asia the excess of males is 16,000,000 in a population of 815,000,000; in Africa more than a million in a population of 27,000,000, in America more than a million in a population of 102,000,000 and in Australia 500,000 in a population of 4,000,000. Out of the 1,283,000,000 inhabitants of the earth who have been enumerated the net excess of males is 15,333,000, or more than 1 per cent.

SUPREME COURT DECISION IN THE INSULAR CASES.

Opinions in all but two of the so-called insular cases were handed down by the United States Supreme court May 27, 1901. Those involving most directly the policy of the government toward the islands acquired through the war with Spain were the De Lima and Downes cases. The former was a suit to recover duties on imports from Porto Rico after the ratification of the treaty of Paris and before the Foraker tariff law went into effect; the latter was a suit to recover duties on imports from Porto Rico after the tariff act became operative.

In the De Lima case the court, after exhaustive reasoning, declared: "We are, therefore, of the opinion that at the time these duties were levied Porto Rico was not a foreign country within the meaning of the tariff laws, but a territory of the United States, that the duties were illegally exacted and that the plaintiffs are entitled to recover them back." Opinion by Justice Brown, Justices Fuller, Gray, Peckham, Harlan and Brewer concurring, and Justices White, Shiras and McKenna dissenting. In the Downes case the court declared: "We are of opinion that the island of Porto Rico is a territory appurtenant and belonging to the United States, but not a part of the United States within the revenue clause of the constitution; that the Foraker act is constitutional so far as it imposes duties upon imports from such island, and that the plaintiff cannot recover back the duties exacted in this case." The court further declared: "We are also of opinion that power to acquire territory by treaty implies not only the power to govern such territory, but to prescribe upon what terms the United States will receive its inhabitants and what their status shall be in what Chief Justice Marshall termed 'the American empire.'" Opinion by Justice Brown, Justices Gray, Shiras, White and McKenna concurring, and Justices Harlan, Fuller, Brewer and Peckham dissenting.

Justice Harlan, in dissenting from the opinion of the court in the Downes case, said: "In my opinion congress has no existence and can exercise no authority outside the constitution. Still less is it true that congress can deal with new territories just as other nations have done or may do with their new territories. This nation is under the control of a written constitution, which is the supreme law of the land, and the only source of the powers which our government or any branch or officer of it may exercise at any time or at any place. The idea that this country may acquire territory anywhere upon the earth by conquest or treaty and hold it as mere colonies or provinces is wholly inconsistent with the spirit and genius as well as with the words of the constitution."

NOTED TRIALS OF 1901.

BARKER-KELLER—Thomas G. Barker was charged with shooting and attempting to kill the Rev. John Keller at Arlington, N. J., Feb. 3, 1901, the motive alleged being an attack upon the defendant's wife. The trial began in Jersey City June 17 and resulted in a verdict of guilty. Barker was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary.

BOSSCHIETER—Walter McAllister, William Death, Andrew Campbell and G. J. Kerr were accused of the murder of Jennie Bosschietter at Paterson, N. J., Oct. 18, 1900. The trial began Jan. 9 and resulted in the conviction of the three first named Jan. 18 of murder in the second degree. Each was sentenced to thirty years in prison. Kerr pleaded guilty and was sent to prison for fifteen years.

DEFENBACH-UNGER—Dr. August M. Unger, Francis W. Brown and Frank H. Smiley were charged with conspiracy to defraud various insurance companies in Chicago by taking out policies on the life of Marie Defenbach between April 12 and Aug. 1, 1900, the total amount applied for being $67,000. Aug. 25 of the same year Miss Defenbach died under suspicious circumstances, and in October Unger, Brown and Smiley were arrested. The trial began May 21, 1901. Smiley pleaded guilty. Unger and Brown were convicted June 10.

EASTMAN—Prof. Charles R. Eastman of Harvard university was charged with the murder of Richard H. Grogan in Cambridge, Mass., July 4, 1900. The trial began April 23 and ended May 11 in the acquittal of the accused.

EDDY—Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, founder of the Christian science church, was charged by Mrs. Josephine Woodbury with libel in having referred to her in a public letter as "the Babylonish woman." The plaintiff asked for $150,000 damages. The trial began in Boston May 29 and ended June 5 in favor of Mrs. Eddy, the case being thrown out of court for lack of admissible evidence.

ELLIS GLENN—Ellis Glenn, a woman who in 1899 had been brought to the Chester (Ill.) penitentiary as a man convicted of forgery at Litchfield, was tried at Parkersburg, W. Va., in July, 1901, on the charge of having raised the figures on a check. More than 100 witnesses were examined and the trial attracted a great deal of attention. Her defense was that her brother Bert had committed all the crimes charged to her and that she had dressed in male attire and gone to prison to save him. The trial resulted July 30 in a disagreement of the jury.

FOSBURGH—Robert Stewart Fosburgh was charged with the murder of his sister, May L., at Pittsfield, Mass., Aug. 20, 1900. The trial began July 18 and ended July 26, 1901, in the discharge of the accused by the court.

HAMILTON-DAY—Frank H. Hamilton, a newspaper writer in Minneapolis, Minn., was charged with killing Leonard Day in that city Nov. 25, 1900. His trial resulted Feb. 20 in a verdict of manslaughter in the first degree, and he was sentenced Feb. 25 to seven years in prison.

HERRON—Prof. George D. Herron of Grinnell, Iowa, noted as a lecturer on religious and social ethics, was tried June 4, 1901, by the Grinnell Congregational association on the charge of conduct unworthy of a gentleman and Christian in abandoning his wife and children and contracting a union with another woman. He was found guilty and expelled from the association.

MOLINEUX—On the 15th of October the Court of Appeals, at Albany, N. Y., granted a new trial to Roland B. Molineux, who was convicted in February, 1900, of the murder of Katherine J. Adams in New York city Dec. 28, 1898. Owing to the high standing of the parties involved and the many mysterious circumstances surrounding the crime, the case has become one of the most noted in the annals of New York.

MORRISON—Jessie Morrison was charged with the murder of Mrs. Olin Castle at El Dorado, Kas., June 22, 1900. She was indicted in July of the same year and tried in December, the jury disagreeing. Her second trial took place in June, 1901, and on the 27th of that month she was found guilty of murder in the second degree.

WEBER-KANTER-LOVELESS CONSPIRACY—David B. Weber, Samuel C. Kanter and Braham H. Loveless were charged with conspiracy to violate the civil-service law in Chicago by secretly helping police sergeants to pass the examination for lieutenants in June, 1900. Weber and Kanter were in the money-lending business, their clients being chiefly policemen and other city employees. Loveless was an attorney who had access to the questions to be asked at the civil-service examinations. These questions he was charged with turning over to Weber and Kanter, who, it was said, sold them to candidates for promotion. The trial began May 31, 1901, and ended June 12 in a verdict of guilty.

PLAGUE AND FAMINE IN INDIA.

Official returns show that nearly 600,000 persons died from the plague in India in the five years ended in March, 1901. Reliable estimates place the loss of life directly resulting from the famine in the last ten years at 13,000,000, the population having increased in that period only 6,000,000 instead of the normal 19,000,000. During the year 1899-1900 the enormous sum of $91,950,000 was spent for the relief of the famine sufferers.

PARTY PLATFORMS.

Nearly all of the platforms adopted at the state conventions held in 1901 dealt with local issues to the exclusion of national questions. That adopted by the democrats of Iowa was a notable exception in that it reaffirmed the Kansas City platform of 1900 as follows:

"We, the democrats of Iowa, in convention assembled, hereby reaffirm the principles of the democratic national platform adopted at Kansas City July 5, 1900, and, without surrendering our convictions or abating our loyalty to our national policies, we believe this campaign to be particularly one that should be confined to state issues."

The Ohio democrats refused to reaffirm the Kansas City platform and the result was another convention of the free-silver men, who put a ticket of their own in the field. The bolters, however, were few in number.

The platform adopted by the Virginia democrats reaffirmed allegiance to the national democratic party and declared admiration for its leaders from Jefferson to Bryan, but otherwise had nothing to say on the silver question. It denounced criminal trusts and illegal combinations of capital.

In the Pennsylvania democratic platform nothing was said about silver or the other issues of the campaign in 1900. Local state issues alone were dealt with. The same was true of the platforms adopted by the democrats of Massachusetts, New Jersey and Rhode Island.

RACE QUESTION IN MARYLAND.

At the Maryland democratic convention the feature of the platform adopted was the following: "The democratic party represents more than 40,000 majority of the white people of Maryland. They, in common with their brethren of other states in which large masses of colored voters have been injected into the body politic, recognize that the peace, good order, personal safety and proper development of our material interests depend upon the control of the commonwealth by its intelligent white residents. Without the aid of the 60,000 colored voters the republican party in Maryland would be a hopeless minority.

We therefore without hesitation proclaim that the success of the democratic party will mean that while we shall deal with perfect fairness in securing all the benefits of good government and full and free opportunities for education to all classes, such action must be taken as to prevent the control of the state government from passing into the hands of those who have neither the ability nor the interest to manage public affairs wisely and well."

ANARCHY DENOUNCED.

At the conventions held after the assassination of President McKinley anarchy was generally denounced by all parties. The Rhode Island republicans declared that anarchy should be dealt with by both state and federal lawmakers.

The New Jersey republicans inserted this as a plank in their platform: "The blow which ended the life of our beloved president was cruel, inhuman and lawless. It was aimed not at the gentle and lovable McKinley, but at the republic and the majesty of law, which guarantee liberty of person and safety of property. Any doctrine which justifies or encourages assassination is utterly hostile to civilization and the welfare of mankind and must be no longer tolerated in this country, and we demand and insist that laws, state and national, be enacted for the effective suppression of such teachings."

Massachusetts democrats declared: "Under our democratic institutions the hand which is raised against the president is in reality directed against popular sovereignty itself. Freedom of speech does not include the right to advocate assassination."

Massachusetts republicans in their platform favored the enactment of such laws as shall visit an adequate and severe penalty upon any person or persons who shall murder, assault or threaten the life of the president or vice-president.

THE ALLIED THIRD PARTY.

At a conference held in Kansas City, Mo., June 19, 1901, a new political organization called "the allied third party" was formed by a number of men representing public-ownership advocates, populists, free-silver republicans, socialists, single taxers and Bryan democrats. A platform was adopted declaring for public ownership of all utilities, rigid control and taxation of railroads, direct legislation by the initiative and referendum, a graduated income tax, legal-tender money issued by the government in sufficient volume for business purposes, that volume to be fixed in proportion to the population; home rule for cities and the election of United States senators by popular vote. J. H. Cook, fusion populist, was chosen chairman and F. S. Kowalski secretary.

THE SOCIALIST PARTIES.

There are two socialist parties in the United States advocating similar measures and both affiliated with the international socialist party. They differ as to tactics. The socialist party indorsing the regular trades union and the socialist labor party advocating a trades union organized on socialistic lines. The first paragraph of the socialist party platform adopted at Indianapolis July 30, 1901, expresses the aims and objects of both parties. It follows:

"The socialist party of America in national convention assembled reaffirms its adherence to the principles of international socialism and declares its aim to be the organization of the working class and those in sympathy with it into a political party, with the object of conquering the powers of government and using them for the purpose of transforming the present system of private ownership of the means of production and distribution into collective ownership by the entire people."

ASSASSINATION OF PRESIDENT M'KINLEY.

William McKinley, twenty-fifth president of the United States, while receiving the public in the Temple of Music at the Pan-American exposition in Buffalo, on the afternoon of Friday, Sept. 6, was shot and mortally wounded by Leon Czolgosz, an anarchist. The assassin, who carried a revolver concealed in a handkerchief, fired twice at close range. One bullet struck the president's breastbone and glanced off, doing no harm; the other passed through the stomach and probably lodged in the muscles of the back, though it was never found. Czolgosz was immediately overpowered and hurried to jail by the men who had been detailed to guard the president, but who were not able to prevent the assault.

After a preliminary examination of his injuries by physicians the wounded executive was removed to the home of Mr. J. G. Milburn, president of the exposition. An operation was performed by Dr. M. D. Mann, with Drs. Roswell Park, Herman Mynter, P. M. Rixey, Eugene Wasdin and other surgeons and physicians assisting, and as the patient seemed to be steadily improving until the supposed critical period had been passed it was thought he would recover. On the 12th the bulletins which were issued at frequent intervals by the doctors were especially hopeful, but shortly after 2 o'clock on the morning of the 13th the president had a sinking spell which caused grave alarm. In the course of the day he rallied slightly and again hope was expressed in the bulletins. Toward evening, however, it was seen that the president was dying. The end came at 2:15 o'clock on the morning of Sept. 14. His last words consciously uttered were: "God's will, not ours, be done."

FUNERAL SERVICES.

On Sunday morning, the 15th, brief religious services were held over the remains and then the body was taken to the city hall, where it lay in state until late in the evening. Nearly 100,000 persons looked upon the face of the dead president. Early the next morning a special funeral train left Buffalo carrying the body, members of the McKinley family, President Roosevelt, cabinet officers and others to Washington. Thousands gathered at the stations along the route to pay their last tribute of respect. Monday night the remains rested in the white house. Tuesday morning, escorted by a large military and civil procession, they were conveyed to the rotunda of the capitol, where funeral services were held in the presence of a distinguished assemblage. The body lay in state until evening, when it was placed on another funeral train and taken to Canton, O., where on Thursday, the 19th, the final impressive services took place. On this day business was almost completely suspended throughout the United States, and for a brief period, while the funeral was in progress in Canton, every form of activity on the railroads, steamship lines and street railways came to a full stop. Services were held in many churches and in distant lands memorial meetings were held.

ASSASSIN'S TRIAL AND EXECUTION.

Leon Czolgosz, after shooting the president, made a confession in which he said he was an anarchist, and as such it was his duty to kill the chief executive. He had no personal feeling against his victim. From papers found on the prisoner and from some of his remarks it was thought he had confederates in the crime, and on the strength of telegrams from Buffalo the police of Chicago arrested the Isaak family and other anarchists in Chicago, but no evidence against them was forthcoming and they were discharged, as was Emma Goldman, the anarchist lecturer, who had likewise been placed under arrest.

Czolgosz was arraigned in court Sept. 16, but refused to answer interrogatories put to him by the county judge, E. K. Emery. The grand jury found a true bill against him and Sept. 23 the trial began in the Superior court at Buffalo, Justice Truman C. White presiding. At the request of the Erie county bar Loran L. Lewis and Robert C. Titus, former justices of the Supreme court of New York, were appointed to defend the prisoner. The latter pleaded guilty, but the plea, under the law of the state, was not allowed to stand and the trial proceeded. No defense other than the possible insanity of the defendant was made, and on the second day he was found guilty of murder in the first degree. Sept. 26 he was formally sentenced to death the week beginning Oct. 28 and the same evening he was removed to Auburn prison. The sentence was carried into effect on the morning of Oct. 29 in the presence of a score of witnesses. Czolgosz, who was unrepentant to the last, was electrocuted in the prison a few minutes after 7 o'clock.

BRITISH POSTOFFICE BANKS.

Dec. 31, 1900, there were 8,439,983 depositors in the postoffice banks of England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales, and the total amount to their credit was $677,748,225, or an average of more than $80 to each depositor. The business of these banks has decreased since 1896 owing to steadily increasing investments in government stocks.

ASSASSINATIONS AND ATTEMPTS.

Following is a list of the more noteworthy of the many murderous attacks, successful or otherwise, made upon national rulers and others in authority within the last fifty years:

Abdul Aziz, sultan of Turkey, killed by Midhat Pasha and others, June 4, 1876.

Albert Edward, prince of Wales, shot at by Sipido, at the Nord station, Brussels, April 4, 1900. Sipido was tried and set free, but subsequently was rearrested in France, brought back and imprisoned.

Alexander II., czar of Russia, killed by the explosion of a bomb thrown by a man who was himself killed by the same bomb, at St. Petersburg, March 13, 1881. Previous attempts upon the czar's life had been made Feb. 17, 1880, by explosion at the winter palace; Dec. 1, 1879, by undermining a railway train; April 14, 1879, by Alexander Solovieff; June 6, 1867, by Berezowski; April 16, 1866, by Karakozow.

Alfonso, king of Spain, attacked by J. O. Moncasi Oct. 25, 1878, and by Francisco Gonzales Dec. 13, 1879.

Amadeus, king of Spain, attacked July 19, 1872, by fifteen men. One of the assailants was killed and two captured.

Barrios, Jose Maria Reyna, president of Guatemala, killed by Oscar Solinger at Guatemala City Feb. 8, 1898. Solinger was pursued and killed.

Bismarck, Prince, attacked by Blind May 7, 1866, and by Kuhlman July 13, 1874.

CRIMES OF ANARCHISTS.

This list includes only the outrages which attracted world-wide attention at the time they were committed. For record of attacks on individuals see "Assassinations and Attempts" in this volume.

Feb. 5, 1880, a mine under the winter palace in St. Petersburg was exploded, killing eleven persons.

Sept. 28, 1883, an attempt was made to explode a dynamite bomb at the unveiling of the Niederwald monument in Germany, at which Emperor William, the crown prince and many other distinguished persons were present. The fuse failed to burn and the explosion did not take place. Remsdorf, Rupsh and Kuchler, anarchists, were tried in Leipzig the following year and sentenced to death for the attempted crime.

May 4, 1886, at a meeting of anarchists in the Haymarket in Chicago a bomb was thrown into the ranks of a large detachment of police who had been ordered to disperse the gathering. Eight officers were fatally wounded and sixty-eight received injuries which disabled many of them for life. Of the anarchists arrested, Lingg committed suicide in jail; Spies, Fischer, Engel and Parsons were executed Nov. 11, 1887; several others were sent to prison, but were subsequently pardoned by Gov. Altgeld.

March 27, 1892, a bomb was exploded in the Rue Clichy in Paris and seven persons were wounded. Ravachol and one of his accomplices in the crime were sentenced to imprisonment for life.

April 25, 1892, Meunier, an anarchist, threw a bomb into the Cafe Vercy in Paris. Six persons were wounded by the explosion. Meunier was sentenced to penal servitude for life.

Sept. 7, 1892, an anarchist threw a bomb into a crowded church in Warsaw, Russian Poland, but was himself the only person killed by the explosion.

In March, 1893, Joseph Pauwels, a Belgian anarchist, planned to throw a bomb into the Church of the Madeleine in Paris while a Lenten service was in progress. A swinging door struck him on the arm under which he was carrying the bomb, causing him to drop it on the floor. He was himself mangled almost beyond recognition. No one else was hurt.

March 21, 1893, an anarchist bomb was exploded at the entrance of a church in Grenoble, France. Twenty persons were injured.

Nov. 8, 1893, Salvador Franch, anarchist, threw a bomb into the Lyceum theater in Barcelona, Spain. Thirty persons were killed and eighty hurt. Franch was executed for the outrage.

Dec. 9, 1893, Auguste Vaillant, anarchist, threw a bomb into the chamber of deputies in Paris. Seven deputies were wounded. Vaillant was guillotined Feb. 5, 1894.

Feb. 12, 1894, Emile Henry, anarchist, threw a bomb into the cafe of the Hôtel Terminus in Paris. Twenty persons were wounded. Henry was guillotined May 20 following.

March 8, 1894, eight persons were injured by the explosion of a bomb thrown in front of the chamber of deputies in Rome.

May 3, 1894, several persons were wounded by a dynamite explosion caused by anarchists in Liege, Belgium. Two anarchists were given life sentences for the crime.

June 7, 1896, a bomb was thrown into a religious procession in Barcelona, Spain. Eleven persons were killed and forty severely injured. More than 300 arrests were made of anarchists supposed to be implicated, and of these thirty-one were executed and many others deported.

SPEED OF ENGINES AND AMERICAN TRAINS.

The London Transport of May 10, 1901, printed figures showing the relative speed of English and American express trains. For distances up to 100 miles the English trains average 41 miles an hour and American trains 42. It is fair to say, though, that the average for this country is brought up by the great speed of the trains between Philadelphia and Atlantic City, otherwise it would fall slightly below that of England. For distances of 100 to 250 miles the average in both cases is about 40 miles an hour. For long distances English express trains average 43.3 and American 35 miles an hour.

THE HOT WAVE OF 1901.

[From report of P. C. Day of the United States weather bureau in the Monthly Weather Review for July, 1901.]

The hot wave of July, 1901, over the central valleys, embracing the great corn belt of the United States, had its inception in the latter part of June and continued with scarcely a break till about the 27th of July, making a record of continuous heat that will probably be the standard for future years. During this period the sky was practically free from clouds and day after day the unobstructed rays of the sun were poured upon the parched and sun-dried earth.

Throughout portions of Missouri and eastern Kansas and Nebraska the daily maximum temperature averaged 100 degrees or more from the 25th of June to the end of July. At Beaver City, Neb., from June 23 to July 31, inclusive, the maximum temperature averaged 104 degrees, and only on three days during the entire period of thirty-nine days did the maximum temperature fall below 100 degrees. At Columbia, Mo., from June 22 to July 25, inclusive, a period of thirty-four days, the maximum temperature averaged over 100 degrees, records probably unsurpassed in the history of the country except in the desert portions of southern California and Arizona. Throughout all the great corn-growing states of the central west all previous records, both of the monthly mean and maximum temperature, were exceeded.

Maximum temperatures of 113 degrees and over were recorded at practically all points in Missouri, and over large sections of eastern Kansas and Nebraska, southern Iowa and Illinois and northern Arkansas and Oklahoma. Maximum temperatures of 110 degrees and over were also recorded in western North and South Dakota and eastern Montana, and over the desert regions of California and Arizona.

The maximum temperatures recorded in some of the larger cities in the United States and in places reporting the greatest degree of heat are shown in the following table:

Place.	Temperature, July.
Baltimore, Md.....	103	2
Bismarck, N. D.....	106	23
Boston, Mass.....	96	3
Chicago, Ill.....	103	21
Cincinnati, O.....	105	21

The greatest mortality from the heat occurred in New York city, where ninety-six persons died from sunstroke July 1 and no fewer than 225 on the following day. Elsewhere the dryness of the air made the excessive heat less fatal.

NATIONAL LEGISLATION.

Epitome of the work accomplished at the second session of the 56th congress, 1900-1901;

AREA AND POPULATION.—The total area of England, Scotland, Ireland, Wales, the Isle of Man and the Channel Islands is 120,979 square miles; the total for the British empire is 11,288,277 square miles. The total population of the empire in 1900 was 395,152,105. This included the 1901 figures for India. In March, 1901, a new census was taken, but the enumerators had not been able to announce the final and corrected figures for all parts of the empire at the end of the year. Those for the united kingdom, India and some of the colonies are, however, available and are given herewith in a summarized form. The following table shows the population of the united kingdom in 1901, compared with the census of 1891:

England	30,805,466	27,483,490
Wales	1,720,609	1,519,037
Scotland	4,471,957	4,025,647
Ireland	4,456,546	4,704,750
Total	41,454,578	37,732,922

The cities of England and Wales having more than 100,000 population each are:

London	4,536,063	Cardiff	164,420
Liverpool	684,947	Sunderland ..	146,565
Manchester ..	543,969	Oldham	137,238
Birmingham .	522,182	Croydon	133,885
Leeds	428,953	Blackburn ...	127,527
Sheffield	380,717	Brighton	123,478
Bristol	328,842	Willesden	114,815
Bradford	279,909	Rhondda	113,735
Westham	267,308	Preston	112,982
Kingston- upon-Thames	240,618	Norwich	111,728

Portsmouth ...	189,160	Halifax	104,933
Bolton	168,205	Southampton.	104,911
		Tottenham ..	102,519

The figures given in the above table for London are for the inner or registration district alone. Including the outer belt of suburban towns, which are within the metropolitan police district, the population of "Greater London" on the 31st of March, 1901, was 6,580,616.

Population of the chief cities of Scotland in 1901:

Glasgow	760,423	Kilmarnock ...	34,161
Edinburgh	316,479	Kirkcaldy	34,064
Dundee	160,871	Perth	32,872

Partick	54,274	Airdrie	22,288
Coatbridge	36,981	Wishaw	20,869

The total population of Ireland in 1901 was 4,456,546, against a total of 4,704,750 in 1891, showing a decrease of 248,204, or 5.3 per cent. The decrease in each of the four provinces was: Leinster, 41,297; Munster, 98,568; Ulster, 38,463; Connaught, 69,876.

The enumerators found 3,310,028 Roman catholics, 579,385 episcopalians, 443,494 presbyterians and 61,255 methodists.

Population of the chief cities of Ireland in 1901:

Dublin	379,861	Drogheda	12,765
Belfast	348,965	Newry	12,587
Cork	75,978	Lurgan	11,777

Waterford	26,743	Sligo	10,862
Galway	13,414	Kilkenny	10,493
Dundalk	13,067

The Dublin figures are for the metropolitan police district. Belfast and Londonderry have increased in population in the last ten years at the rate of 27.8 and 20.1 per cent respectively. Dublin city shows an increase of 7.6 per cent in the same period.

The total population of India in 1901 was 231,085,132. The latest available figures for other parts of the empire follow:

The order is a military organization with patriotic objects, having for its scope the period of American history since national independence. It stands for the needed and honorable principle of national defense against foreign aggression. The principal feature of the order is the perpetuating of the names, as well as the services, of commissioned officers who served in either the war of the revolution, the war with Tripoli, the war of 1812, the Mexican war or the war with Spain. Veteran companionship is conferred upon such officers and hereditary companionship upon their direct lineal descendants in the male line.

*The unreserved lands in Alaska are mostly unsurveyed and unappropriated. †So far as estimated.

NOTE—There are in Porto Rico approximately 892,118 acres of public lands, but identification will be difficult owing to loose and disordered condition of the archives of the island. The land office had not up to December, 1901, been authorized to survey or sell the public land. In the Philippines there is also a large proportion of land belonging to the public domain. Much of it is covered by valuable timber and other parts of it are rich in minerals, but, as in Porto Rico, the documents necessary to identification are either lacking altogether or are in a state of hopeless confusion. Congress has forbidden the sale or lease of public lands in the Philippine islands, and for the present no cutting of timber or mining is permitted.

The Academie Française, or French academy, was instituted in 1635. It is a part of the Institute of France, and its particular function is to conserve the French language, foster literature and encourage genius. The members are forty in number and are popularly known as the "forty immortals."

SMALLEST LIBRARY IN THE WORLD.

According to "La Bibliofilia," the smallest library in the world, not in numbers but in the size of the books it contains, is one of about 1,500 volumes owned by an Italian mining engineer named Solomoni. It is made up of Dutch "liliput" editions which were printed in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries.

The smallest book in the collection is one of 160 pages. It is about an inch square and a little more than one-tenth of an inch in thickness.

WOOL IMPORTED INTO THE UNITED STATES.

More than 98 per cent of the wool brought into the United States is received at New York, Boston and Philadelphia. During the fiscal year ended June 30, 1901, the total amount imported at these ports was 101,518,521 pounds. Of this approximately 22 per cent came from British Australasia, 16 per cent from the united kingdom, 14 per cent from Argentina, 13 per cent from Russia, 9 per cent from the Chinese empire, 8 per cent from Turkey and the remainder from other countries.

THE PHILIPPINE ISLANDS.

The Philippine islands were ceded to the United States by Spain Dec. 10, 1898. Maj.-Gen. Merritt was the first military governor. He was succeeded in August, 1898, by Maj.-Gen. E. S. Otis, who in turn was followed May, 1900, by Maj.-Gen. Arthur MacArthur. The last named remained in office until July 4, 1901, when the military authority was transferred to Gen. A. R. Chaffee. The supreme authority in Philippine affairs is vested in the president of the United States until congress provides for a permanent form of government for the islands. The officers appointed by him are the following:

Civil Governor—William H. Taft.
Vice-Civil Governor—Gen. Luke E. Wright.
Military Governor—Gen. Adna R. Chaffee.
Interior Department—Commissioner D. C. Worcester.
Commerce and Police—Gen. Luke E. Wright.
Justice and Finance—Commissioner H. C. Ide.

Public Instruction—Commissioner B. Moses.

AREA AND POPULATION—The total area of the Philippine archipelago is estimated at about 115,300 square miles and the population at between 8,000,000 and 12,000,000. No accurate surveys have been made of the 2,000 islands in the group and no census has been taken since 1857, so that the figures are merely approximate. In May, 1901, a sanitary census of Manila, taken under the supervision of Lieut. Harry L. Gilchrist, showed that the total population was 244,732, of which number 181,361 were Filipinos, 51,567 Chinese, 3,562 Americans, 2,382 Spaniards and 960 of other nationalities. American soldiers were not included in the count.

COMMERCE—For the nine months ended March 31, 1901, the total imports amounted in value to $22,969,008 as compared with $15,107,148 for the corresponding period in 1900, and the exports to $17,363,188 as compared with $12,928,464 in 1900. Of the imports much the greater portion came from Europe and Asia, Great Britain alone supplying merchandise valued at $5,453,105, while the United States supplied only $2,007,007 worth. By countries the imports and exports for the time named were:

The chief products are hemp, sugar, coffee, tobacco leaf, copra, cigars and indigo. Between 600,000 and 700,000 bales of hemp are exported annually. From 1895 to 1899 the shipments of hemp to the United States have been: 1895, 273,918 bales; 1896, 290,327; 1897, 417,963; 1898, 338,124; 1899, 265,828. The total customs revenues for six months ended June 30, 1901, were $4,281,014.58; for the same period in 1900, $3,108,466.11, and 1899, $2,144,654.26, an increase in 1901 over 1900 of 38 per cent and over 1899 of 100 per cent.

CLIMATE—In May, 1901, the Philippine commission passed an act for the establishment of a weather bureau, and in the future reliable data concerning the climatology of the islands will be available. The following tables showing the normal rainfall and temperature of Manila were prepared by the Manila observatory from data secured during 1883-98 for temperature and 1865-98 for rain.

EDUCATION—In all the peaceful provinces rapid progress was made in 1901 in providing schools and teachers. Nearly 500 men and women were brought from the United States under three-year contracts to engage in the work of educating the natives and their children. It was found impracticable to make any other language than English the medium of imparting knowledge, as the home dialects were too numerous and Spanish was not understood by many.

EVENTS OF THE YEAR.

Jan. 21—Department of public instruction established.

Jan. 31—Act organizing municipal governments passed by the commission.

March 23—Aguinaldo captured by Gen. Funston in Isabella province.

30—Gen. Funston made brigadier-general.

April 9—Aguinaldo signs peace agreement.

19—Aguinaldo issues manifesto to the Fili-

- pinos advising them to submit to the Americans.
- 30—Gens. Tinio and Alejandrino surrender.
- May 17—Gen. Mascardo and 328 men surrender.
- June 16—Gen. Cailles surrenders.
- 21—President McKinley's order establishing civil government and appointing William H. Taft the first governor promulgated.
- 22—Gen. Adna R. Chaffee appointed military governor.
- July 4—The change from military to civil and military government goes into effect.
- 23—Transport loaded with teachers leaves San Francisco for Manila.
- Sept. 28—Forty-eight members of company C, 9th infantry, killed by insurgents at Balangigo, island of Samar.
- Oct. 6—Revised tariff to go into effect Nov. 15 promulgated by the war department.
- 18—Bolomen attack a detachment of the 9th infantry on the island of Samar, killing ten and wounding six men. One hundred of the enemy reported slain.

THE ISLAND OF MINDANAO.

[From official material compiled in the division of insular affairs of the war department.]

States possessions in eastern Asia. The nearest Dutch island is Ariaga, the northernmost of the Carcaralag group, thirty-seven (nautical) miles due south of the Saranganis of Mindanao in the Celebes sea. The mainland of the island is 270 miles from north to south and 386 from east to

The above table, carefully computed from reliable data, shows that Mindanao has an area of from 8,272 to 12,521 square miles more than given it by various authorities, which brings this great island to within close proximity of the size of Luzon.

The mountain system, more or less affected by volcanoes and earthquakes, has for its highest elevation the volcano of Apo, 10,312 feet, and Malindang, 8,560 feet, the average of the higher summits ranging between 3,000 and 8,000. Its chief river, the Pulangui or Grande of Mindanao, in length and volume is one of the finest streams in the archipelago. The Agusan is another large river. It has nine mountain lakes, the largest twenty-one by twelve miles. There are also iron and sulphur springs and thermal waters celebrated for their curative qualities. Its great bays are among the largest and best in the Philippines. Its great intersea channels are lighted. While roads are scarce, it has ample means of transportation along the coast or on its great rivers, where practically all the towns and villages are situated. Of the former 124 range from 500 to 13,874 population. Of the latter there are 400. Of the 264 dependent islands Dinagat is 387 square miles in area, about one-third the size of the state of Rhode Island. It has five other islands with an area from 90 to 190 square miles. Its vegetable products exceed in variety and value those of any of the other islands. In the production of hemp it stands fifth, but with a larger percentage of product to population than elsewhere. The famous spices of the east grow wild and luxuriantly, especially cloves, nutmegs and cinnamon, with its valuable products; rice, sugarcane, cotton, cabanogro, indigo, coffee, tobacco, coconut, corn, sweet potatoes and vegetables.

Its mineral wealth is represented by valuable deposits of coal, working mines of gold and reported copper and platinum. The mineral possibilities of Mindanao are regarded as valuable.

The forests are also valuable. The molave, resembling yellow pine; the valuable teak for shipbuilding, ebony for furniture making, junipers and cypresses exist in abundance. Gum, resin, wax and honey-producing trees and medicinal and dye plants also yield largely.

The natural history of the island is interesting, there being 207 species of birds, among them the singular hornbill, parrots, cockatoos, jungle fowls, kingfishers, pigeons, doves (among them the beautiful red-spotted puanlada), monkeys, deer, caguang (a combination of monkey and bat), wild hogs, "iguanas" (the giant lizard, from six to seven feet in length), snakes (particularly the boa) and crocodiles of great size.

The fruit kingdom is also well represented in the pineapple, mangosteen, sapote, banana, orange, lemon, etc.

Large herds of horses, cattle and caribao are raised. Owing to the dominant Mohammedan religion there are but few domesticated hogs, although the forests abound in the wild variety. There is a little weaving of hemp and cotton fabrics, sufficient for home use. The most important industry is the production and shipment of hemp, forest and sea products. The edible birds' nests (salangane) are gathered in large quantities from the caves along the coasts of the mainland and islands.

The 23d United States infantry, detached from the forces in Sulu, made the first United States military occupation of Mindanao at Zamboanga in November, 1899. This was followed by the establishment of regimental headquarters 31st United States infantry at the same point, the 2d battalion at Cotabato and the 3d at Davao during the month of December, 1899. Stations were established at Polloc, Mati, Parangparang, Baganga, Surigao, Cagayan, Iligan, Misamis and Dapitan between that date and April 4, 1900. From that period subordinate garrisons were stationed at strategic points and operations were conducted in the north against hostile insurgents and in the south and east for the purpose of re-establishing order and government and to regulate intercourse between the Filipinos and Moros.

BATANES AND BABUYANES, MID-OCEAN ISLES.

From official material compiled in the division of insular affairs of the war department the following abstract has been prepared concerning two groups of islands in the channel of commerce which connects the waters of the Pacific and China seas, and occupying the position of outposts on the northern limit of the United States possessions in the far east.

The Batanes, the northernmost of the two, lie 150 nautical or 173 statute miles off Cape Engano, the promontory which terminates the northeastern coast of Luzon. The Babuyan, at the south, lie about midway between these two points. The treaty of peace between the United States and Spain, describing the limits of the possessions thus acquired, designates the northern line to pass "through the middle of the navigable channel of Bashi, from the 118th to the 127th meridian of longitude east of Greenwich." About twenty-three miles south of this line lifts the rocky summit of the most northern of the Batanes. In the Balingtan channel to the southward, within United States jurisdiction and connecting the same seas, are the Babuyan, or "Five Islands."

A steamer pointing her course from San Francisco about southwest by west after traversing 2,100 nautical miles would find herself in port at Honolulu. Resuming her voyage along the parallel of 21 degrees 30 minutes north, due west 4,400 miles, a huge rock rising directly before her would not only be her landmark of entrance to the Bashi or channel of boundary but also the extreme northern land of the Philippine archipelago. This rock, so important to navigators and convenient as a resting place for birds of the sea, is known on the chart as Y'Ami, one of the Batanes group. To navigators approaching the coast of Asia this rock is of great significance. From it they point their courses to Hongkong, on the mainland of China about 462 nautical miles north by west, also to Manila by the northern route in a southerly course 422 nautical miles, and to Singapore, about southwest 1,560 nautical miles. Steamers bound eastward from the same rock lay their course to Yokohama, northeast 2,556 nautical miles, to the United States via Honolulu as already mentioned, to Guam (United States), east-southeast 1,400 nautical miles, and to Apia via Guam, 4,400 nautical miles. The nearest foreign soil is Formosa or the island of Taiwan, in 1895 ceded to Japan as one of the results of the war with China. It lies ninety-three miles northwest of Y'Ami.

The physical characteristics of both groups indicate not only volcanic origin but activity of a comparatively recent date. At the entrance to the port of San Pio Quinto a boiling spring shows evidence of subterranean force. Among the Lidaas rocks, upon which the United States cruiser Charleston became a wreck, is an active volcano, and on the larger islands are volcanic summits 2,450 to 3,200 feet high. In the midst of these elevations are valleys of great fertility, with sloping plains covered with luxuriant vegetation.

The climate of all the islands is salubrious, the mean temperature ranging in the vicinity of 78 degrees. The area of the two groups, comprising thirty-eight islands, is 260 square miles, with an aggregate population of 10,959.

The history of the inhabitants is wrapped in mystery. Their relations linguistically would indicate a long isolation. The little which is known of them suggests descent from the settlements of the piratical Chinese chieftains who were the scourge of the islands off the Asiatic coast when the first Europeans arrived, and continued to be so until very recent years.

Santo Domingo de Basco in Batan and Fuga in the Babuyanès are the chief harbors. The inhabitants, owing to the strong currents and the tempestuous ocean which surrounds them, have but little communication with the mainland. There is no civil government, Spain never having formally established authority on the islands. On January 10, 1900, the United States cruiser Princeton took formal possession at Santo Domingo de Basco, the capital. Since that time this port has been one of the cruising stations for the United States navy.

On the larger islands yams, sweet potatoes, corn, onions, garlic, rice, sugarcane, potatoes, wheat and vegetables are grown successfully. A fine variety of sandstone is the only mineral known. Owing to the heavy winds of the sea the islands are but sparsely timbered. Among the fruits pine-apples and grapes are specially known for their excellent quality.

The chief industry is the raising of cattle, hogs (from which the Babuyanès take their name), goats and horses. The latter, on account of their size and merits, are in great demand throughout the archipelago. The manufacture of lard and coconut oil is also important. From the sugarcane is distilled large quantities of a drink known locally as palec.

The experience of the wrecked crew of the Charleston during their camp at San Pio Quinto on the island of Camiguin of the Babuyanès group demonstrated the friendly spirit of the natives, in return for which a large number of tools and unneeded articles were turned over to them.

CUBA.

Military Governor—Maj.-Gen. Leonard Wood, U. S. A.

Definite steps were taken in the course of the first six months of the year by the congress of the United States and by the constitutional convention of Cuba (see page 254 Daily News Almanac for 1901) to determine the future relations of the two countries. The so-called Platt amendment to the army appropriation bill was adopted by the United States senate Feb. 27 by a vote of 43 yeas to 20 nays and agreed to by the house March 1 by a vote of 159 yeas to 134 nays. The Cuban convention was at first strongly opposed to accepting the conditions laid down by the amendment and sought to have them modified in several material respects, but finally, on the 12th of June, by a vote of 16 to 11, agreed to them without qualifications of any sort. This result was brought about by the report of a commission which had been appointed by the convention and sent to Washington in April to confer with the president on the relations of Cuba and the United States. Briefly, the Platt resolutions provide:

1. That Cuba shall not enter into any treaty or other compact with any foreign power which will impair the independence of Cuba and shall not permit any foreign power to obtain lodgment on the island in any manner.

2. That Cuba shall not incur a public debt beyond the ordinary revenues of the island.

3. That the United States may intervene to preserve Cuban independence and to protect life, property and individual liberty.

4. That all the acts of the United States during the military occupancy of the island shall be ratified.

5. That sanitary plans to prevent the recurrence of epidemics shall be carried out.

6. That the Isle of Pines shall be omitted from Cuban territory, the title thereto being left for future adjustment.

7. That the United States shall be permitted to buy or lease lands for naval or coaling stations on the island at points to be agreed upon.

8. That these provisions shall be embodied in a permanent treaty with the United States.

CONSTITUTION—On the 21st of February the constitution as adopted by the convention was signed by the members of that body. The instrument is in the main like that of the United States. It provides for a republic of six states, coinciding with the six old provinces of Havana, Matanzas, Pinar del Rio, Puerto Principe, Santa Clara and Santiago. The election law occupied the time of the convention until September and had just been completed when President McKinley died. It provided for a general election Dec. 31, 1901, at which representatives in congress, provincial councilors and governors and members of an electoral college are to be chosen by direct vote. The electoral college will meet Feb. 21, 1902, to choose a president and vice-president of the republic and members of the senate, of whom there are to be six from each province. The most prominent candidate for the presidency at the close of the year was Estrada Palma, who represented Cuba in the United States at the time of the revolution. The convention having completed the work for which it was summoned was formally dissolved by Gov.-Gen. Wood Oct. 3.

AREA AND POPULATION—The total area of Cuba is 35,394 square miles. The population in 1899, when the last census was taken, was 1,572,797, distributed among the six provinces as follows:

Havana	424,804	Puerto Pri'cipe	88,234
Matanzas	202,444	Santa Clara	356,536
Pinar del Rio	173,064	Santiago	327,715

Population of principal cities:

Havana	235,981	Matanzas	36,374
Santiago	43,090	Puerto Pri'cipe	25,102
Cienfuegos	30,338	Cardenas	21,940

About 67 per cent of the population is white.

EDUCATION—The public schools of Cuba have been under the direct charge of Lieut. Matthew E. Hanna since 1899 and are rapidly growing in number and efficiency. At the close of the war public education was at a standstill; at the close of 1900 there were in the island 3,567 schoolrooms and the same number of teachers, with a total enrollment of 172,273 pupils. Teachers, schools and pupils were distributed among the provinces as follows:

The average salary per month paid to men teachers is $49.91 and to women $47.73.

IMPORTS AND EXPORTS.—For the twelve months ended June 30, 1901, the total value of imports of merchandise amounted to $65,050,141 and of exports to $63,115,821, showing an excess of exports of only $1,934,320. In the month of June the balance of trade was in favor of Cuba, the exportations exceeding the importations by $234,698. During the six months ended June 30 the balance was for Cuba by the amount of $10,281,052, showing a gain of $15,709,307 over the same period in 1900, when the balance was adverse by $5,428,258. The value of tobacco and manufactures of tobacco exported during the ten months ended April 30, 1901, was $25,372,735, an increase of 84 per cent; of sugar and molasses, $19,976,959, increase 55 per cent; vegetables, fruits and nuts, $1,020,010, increase 111 per cent.

RECEIPTS.—For the eight months ended Aug. 31, 1901, the total customs receipts were $10,455,029.61 as against $10,682,434.29 for the same period in 1900. The total amount of internal revenue collected during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1901, was $671,512.55 as against $634,733.29 in 1900. The total postal revenues for the eleven months ended May 31, 1901, were $340,072, and for the same period of 1900, $197,178.91, showing an increase of $142,893.58, or about 72 per cent.

PORTO RICO.

Porto Rico, according to the decision of the United States Supreme court in the insular cases May 27, 1901, is a territory appurtenant and belonging to the United States, but not a part of the United States within the revenue clause of the constitution. The island was ceded to the United States by Spain Dec. 10, 1898, and was under military rule until the Foraker law went into effect May 1, 1900. (For the provisions of that law see The Daily News Almanac for 1901.) In accordance with the third section of that act, the legislative assembly of Porto Rico having put into operation a system of local taxation to meet the necessities of government, President McKinley on the 25th of July—the anniversary of the landing of American troops on the island in 1898—proclaimed free trade between the United States and Porto Rico.

GOVERNMENT—Civil government, under the provisions of the Foraker act, was established May 1, 1900. The upper house consists of eleven members, six of whom are "cabinet" officers appointed by the president; the lower house is made up of thirty-five delegates elected by the people every two years. The governor, who is appointed by the president, has practically the same duties as the governor of any other territory of the United States. The present officers are: Governor, William H. Hunt; secretary, Charles Hartzell; attorney-general, James S. Harlan.

AREA AND POPULATION—The area of Porto Rico is about 3,600 square miles, and the population, as shown by the military census of 1899, is 953,243. Of these 941,751 are natives. The whites number 595,426 and the colored 369,817. The colored are subdivided into 304,352 mestizos, 59,390 negroes and 75 Chinese. By departments the population is: Aguadilla, 99,645; Arecibo, 162,308; Bayamon, 160,045; Guayama, 111,936; Humacao, 88,501; Mayaguez, 127,566; Ponce, 203,191. The cities having more than 5,000 inhabitants are: San Juan, 32,048; Ponce, 27,952; Mayaguez, 15,187; Arecibo, 8,008; Aguadilla, 6,425; Yauco, 6,108; Guayama, 5,334; Caguas, 5,450.

EDUCATION—In 1901 it was estimated that there were 300,000 children of school age on the island, but of these only 40,000 could be accommodated in the public schools. There were 800 teachers, of whom 145 were Americans. Textbooks, slates and stationery are furnished free. About 72 per cent of the population can neither read nor write, but illiteracy is chiefly confined to the colored races.

COMMERCE—For the year ended June 30,

1901, the total exports from Porto Rico to foreign countries and the United States amounted to $8,663,816, while the imports from all sources amounted to $9,367,230. Of the exports the United States took merchandise valued at $5,581,288; Spain, $583,357;

Cuba, $1,101,046; France, $471,648; Germany, $140,592; Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, etc., $288,612. Of the imports $7,414,50. came from the United States, $808,441 from Spain, $374,837 from the United Kingdom, $166,723 from France and $152,201 from Germany.

TERRITORY OF HAWAII.

The Hawaiian islands were formally annexed to the United States Aug. 12, 1896, and created a territory June 14, 1900. Full details of these events will be found in The Daily News Almanac for 1899 and 1901. The present governor is Sanford B. Dole and the secretary of the territory is Henry E. Cooper. The delegate to congress is Robert W. Wilcox, representing the native independent party. In the territorial legislature the parties stand: Independents, 25; republicans, 13; democrat, 1.

POPULATION—According to the federal census of 1900 the total population of the territory is 154,001. In 1890 it was 89,990. The only large city is Honolulu, which in 1900 had a population of 39,306. By island divisions the population is as follows: Hawaii, 46,843; Kauai and Niihau, 20,734; Lanai and Maui, 25,416; Oahu, 58,504; Molokai, 2,504.

COMMERCE WITH THE UNITED STATES—The total value of the shipments of merchandise from Hawaii to the United States for the twelve months ended June, 1901, was $27,903,058. Brown sugar was the principal item, amounting to 690,877,934 pounds, valued at $27,093,863. The other articles of importance were: Coffee, $239,313; hides and skins, $76,995; fruits, $74,414; raw wool, $99,742; rice, $22,527.

Since the date of the annexation no adequate data of shipments of merchandise from the United States to Hawaii or of imports from the United States into Hawaii have been kept, so no figures can be given.

GUAM.

Ceded to the U. S. by Spain Dec. 10, 1898. Area, about 200 square miles.

Population, about 9,000.

First American governor, Capt. R. P. Leary, U. S. N.

Present (December, 1901) governor, Commander Seaton Schroeder, U. S. N.

*Some of the figures in this table as printed prior to 1896 were taken from reports of the superintendent of Indian schools. As revised, they are all taken from the reports of the commissioner of Indian affairs. Prior to 1882 the figures include the New York schools.

†Indian children attending public schools are included in the average attendance, but the schools are not included in the number of schools.

NATIONAL TRIENNIAL COUNCIL.

Rev. Eugene C. Webster, Congregational House, Boston, Acting Statistical Secretary.

TRIENNIAL COUNCIL.

The eleventh triennial council of the congregational church was held in Portland, Me., Oct. 12-17. Action was taken looking toward renewed effort in missionary work at home and abroad. Provision was made for a congregational house and exhibit at the St. Louis exposition in 1903; the establishment of foundations of a religious character in connection with the great state universities was favored; the appointment of fifteen trustees in place of the special committee to raise funds for ministerial relief was voted and a resolution was passed urging upon the ministers the duty of withholding sanction in the case of marriages of persons who have been divorced on other than scriptural grounds. The next triennial council will be held in Des Moines, Iowa.

TRIENNIAL CONVENTION.

The triennial convention of the protestant episcopal church began in San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 3, and was concluded Oct. 17. Five bishops were nominated: Frederick W. Keator to be bishop of Olympia; Charles C. Pierce to North Dakota to succeed Bishop Edsall; William Cabell Brown to Porto Rico, James Addison Engle to Hankow, China, and Charles H. Brent to the Philippines. Some discussion took place on a proposal to change the name of the denomination, but the matter was left to a joint commission of bishops and deputies. The canon on divorce occupied much of the time of the convention. The house of bishops passed the clause forbidding the remarriage of any divorced person during the lifetime of the other party, but the house of deputies voted against it and the only action taken was to appoint a committee to co-operate with similar committees in other denominations in securing more uniform practice regarding marriage and divorce.

PRESBYTERIAN GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The general assembly of the presbyterian church north was held in Philadelphia beginning May 17. Dr. Henry C. Minton was chosen moderator. The question of creed revision was taken up on the 24th and debated for three days, when it was decided to reappoint the old revision committee with instructions to prepare a brief statement of the reformed, or Calvinistic, faith in plain language, this statement to serve as an explanation of presbyterian belief and not as a substitute for the Westminster confession. Action upon the statement will be taken by the next assembly, to be held May 2, 1902, in New York city. Dr. Minton is chairman of the committee.

General conference held at Des Moines, Iowa, beginning May 29. The statistical secretary reported 1,561 churches, 198,428 members and 1,638 Sunday schools.

CHRISTIAN YOUNG PEOPLE'S UNION.

President—Louis A. Ames, New York, N. Y.

Secretary—Charles N. Barney, Lynn, Mass.
Treasurer—George F. Sears, Chicago.

ZIONIST MOVEMENT.

Reports were presented to the Zionist convention held in Philadelphia June 16-17 showing that some progress had been made in raising funds and creating sentiment looking toward the ultimate return of Jews to Palestine. Emigration from districts in Europe where the race is subjected to persecution has been assisted and several colonies have been established in the holy land.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETY OF CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Organized Feb. 2, 1881.

President—Francis E. Clark, Boston, Mass.

Treasurer—William Shaw, Boston, Mass.

Secretary—John W. Baer, Boston, Mass.

Auditor—F. H. Kidder, Boston, Mass.

Number of societies, 61,427; membership, about 4,000,000.

Vigesimal anniversary celebrated at Portland, Me., Feb. 2, 1901.

THE AMERICAN REVISED BIBLE.

The bible as revised by the American committee was published Aug. 26, 1901. It will be remembered that the revision of 1881-5 was the joint work of English and American scholars but embodying the views of the former in nearly all cases of controversy. The American committee kept up its organization and continued at work, making many changes in the translation, restoring page headings and in other ways revising the revision. In the greater number of cases the changes have been made with the end in view of making the meaning clearer.

MOST POPULAR METHODIST HYMNS.

From a general vote taken by the Methodist Times in the early part of 1901 it appears that the most popular hymn in the English Wesleyan church is "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name." The next nine are: "Jesus, Lover of My Soul."
"Oh, for a Thousand Tongues to Sing."

"Rock of Ages, Cleft for Me."
"Hory, Holy, Holy, Lord God Almighty."
"Abide with Me, Fast Falls the Eventide."
"Nearer, My God, to Thee."
"Sun of My Soul, Thou Savior Dear."
"Come Ye That Love the Lord."
"When I Survey the Wondrous Cross."

ARCTIC AND ANTARCTIC EXPLORATION.

The year 1901 saw several well-equipped expeditions start for the north and south polar regions. These included:

1. The Baldwin-Ziegler expedition, which left Tromsø, Norway, July 16 for Franz Josef land, where winter headquarters were established. The leader, Evelyn Briggs Baldwin, aims to reach the north pole by a route leading through the regions north and northeast of Crown Prince Rudolf land. He has two vessels at his command, the America, formerly the Esquimaux, and the Frithjof, the latter to be used as a supply steamer.

2. The German antarctic expedition under the leadership of Dr. von Drygalski. This sailed from Germany Aug. 11 in the Gruss for Three Island harbor, Royal sound, in the Kerguelen islands. The special object of the expedition is to explore the south polar regions on the Indo-Atlantic side.

3. The British antarctic expedition under command of Capt. Scott, R. N., which sailed from Sydney, N. S. W., in September in the Discovery. This venture is under the auspices of the Royal Geographical society. The party is prepared to remain three years in the antarctic and will make its headquarters on Victoria land and endeavor to excel Borchgrevink's record of 78 degrees 34 minutes south.

4. The Swedish antarctic expedition, led by Dr. Otto Nordenskjöld, which sailed from Gothenberg Oct. 16 in the Antarctic. This party will go by way of Terra del Fuego and will remain away about two years.

The most important discoveries announced were those made by Peary, who has spent two years in the northern part of Greenland and expects to remain there another year. In a letter received in the United States in September he summarized his work thus:

"1. The round of the northern limit of the Greenland archipelago, the most northerly known land in the world; probably the most northerly land.

"2. The highest latitude yet attained in the western hemisphere (83 degrees 50 minutes north).

"3. The determination of the origin of the so-called 'paleocrystic ice' (floe berg), etc."

Lieut. Peary rounded the northern extremity of Greenland in May, 1900, and reached his farthest north in the same month. This point is about 160 miles nearer the pole than the most northerly point attained by Lockwood in 1882. In 1901 he made another journey toward the pole, but did not get far on account of the poor condition of the men and dogs. He will make still another attempt in 1902.

No definite news was received from the north polar expedition in charge of Capt. Otto Sverdrup, though a report was circulated in October that the party had succeeded in reaching the pole. Capt. Sverdrup is using the Fram, Nansen's old ship, in trying to circumnavigate Greenland.

The Russian expedition which sought to reach the pole with the ice-breaker Erma by way of Franz Josef land gave up the attempt in August, 1901, and returned home.

No news was received of the Andree balloon party which left Spitzbergen July 11, 1897.

Most northerly point reached—86 degrees 33 minutes (239 miles from the pole), by Capt. Cagni of the Abruzzi expedition in April, 1900.

Most southerly point reached—86 degrees 50 minutes (770 miles from the pole), by Capt. Borchgrevink in March, 1900.

DEATH OF LI HUNG CHANG.

Li Hung Chang, the Chinese statesman, died at Peking on the morning of Thursday, Nov. 7, 1901. The severe labors attendant upon the settlement with the foreign powers of the complications caused by the Boxer uprising of 1900 proved too great a strain upon his strength and toward the close of October he became seriously ill. In spite of the admonitions of his physicians he continued working up to within a few days of his death.

Earl Li was born Feb. 16, 1822. From 1851 to 1864 he was engaged in putting down the great Taiping rebellion, and in 1867 was made viceroy of Hong-Kuang. The next year he was made grand chancellor, and then, in 1870, viceroy of Chili. His opposition to the war with Japan led to his being stripped of all his honors in 1894, but a year later he was restored to imperial favor. In 1896 he visited Europe and the United States and in 1898 was decorated with the double dragon, a distinction seldom conferred upon Chinese subjects.

At the time of his demise Li Hung Chang bore these official titles: Earl of Su-i of the first rank, tutor of the heir-apparent, grand secretary of the Wen-hua throne hall, minister of commerce, superintendent of the northern trade and governor-general of Chili.

Gen. Grant, who was an intimate friend of Li Hung Chang, ranked him with Gambetta, Beaconsfield and Bismarck.

HEIGHT OF OCEAN WAVES.

Careful measurements made in the south Indian ocean show that the largest waves there average 29.63 feet in height. The highest on record was 37.53 feet. The Scientific American quotes the observations of William Shield during a storm at Peter-head, England, when the wind had a velocity of from fifty to ninety miles an hour. He found that the height of the waves closely approximated 40 feet from trough to crest.

In five states in 1892 the electoral vote was divided: California gave 8 electoral votes for Cleveland and 1 for Harrison and Ohio gave 1 for Cleveland and 22 for Harrison; in Michigan, by act of the legislature, each congressional district voted separately for an elector; in Oregon 1 of the 4 candidates for electors on the people's party ticket was also on the democratic ticket; in North Dakota 1 of the 2 people's party electors cast his vote for Cleveland, this causing the electoral vote of the state to be equally divided between Cleveland, Harrison and Weaver. In 1896 California gave 8 electoral votes to McKinley and 1 to Bryan; Kentucky gave 12 to McKinley and 1 to Bryan.

STRENGTH OF THE NAVY IN 1904.

The approximate dates of the completion of the battleships and cruisers now under construction are given by the secretary of the navy as follows: Battleships: Maine, October, 1902; Missouri, March, 1903; Ohio, May, 1904; Virginia, May, 1904; Nebraska, July, 1904; Georgia, July, 1904; New Jersey, July, 1904; Rhode Island, July, 1904. Armored cruisers: Pennsylvania, January, 1904; West Virginia, February, 1904; California, August, 1904; Colorado, January, 1904; Maryland, February, 1904; South Dakota, August, 1904.

With the completion of the above the navy will have seventeen battleships and eight armored cruisers. The total number of warships of all kinds under construction in December, 1901, was fifty-nine, including besides those mentioned nine cruisers, four monitors, twenty-five torpedo-boat destroyers, nine torpedo boats and seven submarines.

NEW CLASSIFICATION.

In accordance with the act of congress of March 3, 1901, President McKinley issued an order June 7 making the following classifications and assignments to commands afloat:

Torpedo-boat destroyers, torpedo boats, tugs, sailing ships and receiving ships shall not be rated. Other vessels shall be rated by tons of displacement as follows:

First rates—Men-of-war only, of 8,000 tons and above.

Second rates—Men-of-war of 4,000 tons and under 8,000 tons, converted auxiliary vessels of 6,000 tons and above, except colliers, refrigerating ships, distilling ships, tank steamers, repair ships, hospital ships and other vessels constructed or equipped for special purposes.

Third rates—Men-of-war from 1,000 to 4,000 tons and converted and auxiliary vessels from 1,000 to 6,000 tons and colliers, refrigerating ships, supply ships, distilling ships, tank steamers, repair ships, hospital ships and other vessels constructed or equipped for special purposes of 4,000 tons and above.

Fourth rates—All other rated vessels.

ASSIGNMENTS TO COMMANDS AFLOAT.

An admiral to command a fleet.

A rear-admiral to command a fleet or squadron.

A captain to command a division, or ship of the first or second rate, or a ship not rated.

A commander to command a division, a ship of the second or third rate, or a ship not rated.

A lieutenant-commander to command a ship of the third or fourth rate, or a ship not rated.

A lieutenant to command a ship of the fourth rate, a torpedo-boat destroyer, torpedo boat, tug, tender or ship not rated.

A lieutenant, junior grade, to command a torpedo boat, tug, tender or ship not rated.

COMPARATIVE RECORD OF THE COST OF LIVING.

[From Dun's Review.]

The appended table showing the comparative cost of living at different dates was compiled in this way: After taking a list of articles including all the necessaries and a few of the most generally used luxuries of life, the quoted price (wholesale) of each was multiplied by the quantity annually consumed by each individual as shown by statistics, the result being the cost of living for a year if all the articles were purchased on the date of the quotations. For example, if a man bought his entire supply of the necessaries of life on Nov. 1, 1901, they would have cost him $97.43, as against $72.45, July 1, 1897. Three hundred and fifty articles are quoted.

ANGLO-BOER WAR.

Up to the end of November, 1901, the Anglo-Boer war was still in progress, with the end apparently as far off as ever. England had practically the whole of her regular army in the field under Gen. Kitchener, while the Boers under arms were estimated to number from 12,000 to 17,000. Skirmishes of a more or less serious character were of frequent occurrence and heavy losses were inflicted on both sides. In May it was announced by the British war office that the total casualties up to the beginning of the month had been: Officers, 714; men, 14,264. Of the Boer losses no figures are available. The chronology of the more important events of the year follows:

Jan. 2—Lord Roberts arrives in England.

15—Call for 5,000 more men for service in South Africa.

April 16—Steyn re-elected president of the Orange Free State.

May 29—Attack on British forces at Vladfontein; 174 men killed or wounded; Boer loss, 35.

June 3—Willowmore, Cape Colony, attacked by Commandant Scheeper. Boers repulsed.

6—Col. Wilson and scouts defeat 400 Boers near Warm Baths, killing 37 and taking 100 prisoners.

12—Boers capture 200 men of the Victorian mounted rifles at Steenkoolspruit, killing 18.

July 11—President Steyn narrowly escapes capture at Reitz.

Aug. 7—Gen. Kitchener issues a proclamation warning the Boers that if they do not surrender by Sept. 15 they will be banished from South Africa.

12—Gen. Kitchener reports the killing of 39 Boers, the capture of 685 prisoners and the taking of a large amount of ammunition and supplies from the enemy.

16—Boers capture 16 of Gen. French's scouts.

24—Boers show great activity in cutting railroad and telegraph lines in Cape Colony.

31—Boers blow up a train in the Transvaal, killing Col. Vandeleur and 9 men.

Sept. 3—Gen. Dewet issues a proclamation to the effect that all British soldiers found in the Orange River Colony after Sept. 15 will be shot.

18—In a battle near Utrecht Botha captures three companies of British mounted infantry; latter have 2 officers and 15 men killed. At Elandsport the Boers attack a squadron of lancers, killing 3 officers and 20 men and wounding 31.

27—Gen. Botha attacks Fort Itala and is repulsed after an all-day battle. Both sides lose heavily.

28—Returns show that there were 1,268 deaths in the Transvaal prison camps in August and 1,052 in the Orange River Colony camps. Most of the victims were children.

Oct. 9—Martial law declared over the whole of Cape Colony.

11—Gen. Buller's admission that he advised the surrender of Ladysmith causes indignation in England.

22—Gen. Buller relieved of his command and placed on half-pay.

Nov. 1—Boers kill Col. Benson and 8 other officers and wound 169 officers and men near Bethel, eastern Transvaal.

RUSSO-AMERICAN TARIFF CONTROVERSY.

In February, 1901, a sharp controversy arose over the imposition of a countervailing duty of about half a cent a pound on all refined sugars imported into this country from Russia. The action was taken by Secretary Gage under section 5 of the Dingley law of July 24, 1897, which requires the imposition of a duty equivalent to the bounty paid to foreign exporters. Russia paid a bounty of about half a cent per pound to sugar producers and hence when a cargo of Russian sugar was received in New York the countervailing duty was imposed.

Russia took the matter up and retaliated by issuing an order (Feb. 16) placing an additional tariff of 30 per cent net upon American hardware, iron, steel, boilers, pipes, forgings, castings, tools, gas and water meters, dynamos, sewing machines, motors and machinery of all kinds.

The United States added to the irritation of Russia by applying article 626 of the existing tariff law to the petroleum of that country—imposing a duty upon it for the reason that Russia charged a duty upon American petroleum. Russia thereupon increased the duties upon white resin, galipot, brewers' pitch and bicycles imported from this country. It was expected that the contest of retaliation would be carried still farther, but the matter was allowed to rest at this point for the time being.

FRANCO-TURKISH DISPUTE.

Diplomatic relations between France and Turkey were severed in August, 1901, owing to dissensions growing out of the enterprise begun in 1890 by the Constantinople Dock and Quay company. This corporation, composed of Frenchmen, secured the privilege of building a number of wharves in Constantinople, with the right to exact payment from vessels using them. About $7,000,000 was expended by the company, but permission to control the property was then refused by the sultan on the ground that it would make the city too easily accessible to foreign conspirators seeking to overthrow the government. Promises were made that Turkey would buy the docks and thus indemnify the stockholders, but nothing was done and the French concern was unable either to use its property or to collect payment for it.

M. Constans, French minister to Turkey, finding himself unable to accomplish anything by ordinary means, departed from Constantinople Aug. 26, his place being taken by a charge d'affaires. Aug. 30 the sultan issued an irade withdrawing concessions and tax exemptions from the French religious community at Beirut, Syria. Sept. 9 Feridoun Bey, head of the Turkish police in Paris, was ordered to leave the city. Sept. 10 Turkey agreed to pay the Turbini claim and on the 24th offered to settle the Loranda claim, but France deemed the settlement unsatisfactory.

Negotiations carried on through October were equally unsatisfactory, and finally, on the 30th of the month, a French squadron consisting of three battleships and two cruisers, under command of Admiral Caillard, was sent to bring the sultan to terms. The French government at the same time notified all the powers of the purpose of the expedition and no objection was raised in any quarter. Admiral Caillard proceeded as far as the Turkish island of Mitylene and took possession of the principal ports Nov. 7, with the intention of collecting the customs and applying them to the payment of the claims against Turkey. The sultan immediately conceded all the demands of France and on the 10th of November diplomatic relations were resumed.

COLOMBIA-VENEZUELA CONTROVERSY.

Internal revolutions in Colombia and Venezuela led to strained relations, if not actual war, between the republics in July, August, September, October and November. Reports were more or less confusing and uncertain, and it was difficult to arrive at any clear understanding of the controversy. It was evident, however, that the real source of trouble was the contest for supremacy between the liberals and clericals, or conservatives, of the two countries. The party in power in Colombia and the revolutionists in Venezuela are clerical, while President Castro of Venezuela and the Colombian revolutionists are liberal. Gen. Uribe-Uribe, leader of the antigovernment party in Colombia, sought and obtained the assistance of Castro; on the other hand, the revolutionists seeking to overthrow Castro were said to have the active assistance of the government of Colombia. Thus a most complicated situation was created; it was, in fact, a war between two parties in two countries and not between the countries themselves. Developments in the quarrel were as follows:

Aug. 8—Colombians, led by Venezuelan revolutionists, reported to have invaded Venezuela at Las Cambros.

16—Venezuela issues an official memorandum reciting the alleged Colombian invasion and protesting against it.

19—President Castro said to have sent arms and men to Colombian revolutionists at Cucuta.

22—Venezuela sends 800 men to assist Gen. Uribe-Uribe at Rio Hacha.

24—The United States warns both countries to observe international treaties and to keep the isthmus open on pain of intervention; will mediate if requested to do so.

Sept. 7—Venezuelan fleet bombards and captures Rio Hacha.

14—Colombian rebels and Venezuelans reported defeated near La Hacha.

26—Many Venezuelans killed in an engagement at Guajira.

Oct. 1—The Colombian minister in Washington receives a cablegram announcing a victory over Venezuelan troops invading Colombia without a previous declaration of war.

23—Colombian insurgents defeated near Bogota.

Nov. 19—Colon captured by rebels. American marines landed.

29—Colon recaptured by Colombian troops. Rebels surrender.

*Includes scattering, blank and defective votes.

In Kansas the democratic and people's parties had each an electoral ticket, but the names were identical on both. In some counties the clerks gave all the democratic and populist votes to the populist ticket, and in others they were separated as cast. For this reason it is impossible to tell exactly how many votes the democrats cast and how many the populists cast. Of the Bryan vote of 162,601 the returns indicate that 60,185 were cast by the democrats and 102,416 by the populists. There was no Barker, or middle-of-the-road populist, ticket in the field. The same condition of affairs existed four years ago in some states in which the two parties voted for the same electors, but upon separate tickets, as county officers then, as now, combined the votes on electors and credited them all to one or the other party.

NEW YORK CITY ELECTION.

(Nov. 5, 1901.)

In the fall municipal campaign in New York city the two leading candidates for mayor were Seth Low, president of Columbia university and ex-mayor of Brooklyn, and E. M. Shepard, a lawyer in good standing. The former was supported by the republicans, the Citizens' union and the Greater New York Democracy as well as by minor organizations; his opponent was the candidate of the Tammany society, led by Richard M. Croker. Judge William Travers Jerome, fusion candidate for district attorney of Manhattan, was a prominent figure in the campaign, which was conducted with much earnestness and vigor on both sides. The result was a victory for the fusion nominees. The vote for Low and Shepard by boroughs was:

BOROUGH.	Fus. Low.	Tam. Shepard.

BASEBALL.

AMERICAN LEAGUE.

Two strong rival organizations were in the field when the season of 1901 opened. These were the old National league and the American league. The latter withdrew from Indianapolis, Kansas City, Buffalo and Minneapolis and entered Philadelphia, Boston, Baltimore and Washington, thus coming into direct and open competition with the older league. The season proved a profitable one to both organizations, the games being well attended in all cities represented by fairly good teams. The American league season closed Sept. 28 with the Chicago again in the lead. Standing of the clubs:

YACHTING.

TWELFTH CONTEST FOR THE AMERICA'S CUP.

Sir Thomas Lipton with the Shamrock II. was again the challenger in 1901. The Columbia, winner of the contest in 1899, was chosen defender for the second time after a series of trial races with the Constitution, a new boat built by the Herreshoffs especially for the international match. The racing rules were the same as in 1899. The winner of three out of five races was to be given the cup. The course, beginning at Sandy Hook lightship, New York, was thirty miles long and laid out fifteen miles to windward or leeward and return for the first race and over an equilateral triangle for the second, these courses to be alternately used in the succeeding races. Measurements gave the Columbia a time allowance of 43 seconds. The skipper of the Columbia was John Barr and of the Shamrock Capt. Sycamore.

The decisive races were sailed Sept. 28 and Oct. 3 and 4. The attempts to cover the courses within the allotted time of five and one-half hours on Sept. 26 and Oct. 1 failed because of light winds. As will be seen from the time record which follows, the Columbia again won and the cup remains on this side of the Atlantic.

RECORD OF PREVIOUS RACES.

1851--Aug. 22. In this, the year of the great exhibition in London, the Royal Yacht club of England offered a cup to the winner of a yacht race around the Isle of Wight. The course was sixty miles in length and was won by the schooner-yacht America, designed by George Steers for John C. Stevens of the New York Yacht club. The America was 94 feet over all, 88 feet on the water line, 22½ feet beam and 11½ feet draught. There was no time allowance, and the competing yachts ranged in size from a three-masted 392-ton schooner, the Brilliant, to the 47-ton cutter, the Aurora, which came in second in the race. The time of the America was 10 hours and 34 minutes; that of the Aurora was 24 minutes slower. The cup after that became known as the America's cup and has now been successfully defended for fifty years.

1870—Aug. 8, New York Yacht club course: Magic, 3:58:21 Cambria, 4:37:38.

1895—Sept. 7, 15 miles to windward and return, east by south off Point Seabright, N. J.: Defender, 4:57:55; Valkyrie III, 5:08:44; Sept. 11, triangular course, 10 miles in each leg, Valkyrie, 3:55:09; Defender, 3:55:53; won by Defender on a foul. Sept. 13, Defender sailed over course and claimed cup and race; claim allowed.

1899—Oct. 15, 15 miles to windward and return, off Sandy Hook: Columbia, 4:53:53; Shamrock, 5:04:07. Oct. 17, triangular course, ten miles to a leg, Columbia, 3:37:00. Shamrock snapped its topmast. Oct. 20, 15 miles to leeward and return, Columbia, 3:38:09; 3:43:26.

THE CANADA CUP.

The first race for the Canada cup, a trophy valued at $1,000, was sailed at Toledo in 1896 and was won by the Canada of the Royal Canadian Yacht club. The challenging boat was the Vencedor. In 1899 the Genesee of Rochester, representing the Chicago Yacht club, won the cup at Toronto by defeating the defender, Beaver, in the first three races sailed. In 1901 the challenging yacht was the Invader of the Royal Canadian Yacht club of Toronto and the defender the Cadillac of Detroit, flying the colors of the Chicago Yacht club. The races took place at Chicago Aug. 10, 12, 13 and 14. The first was won by the Cadillac, but the Invader won the second, third (on a foul) and fourth, and was awarded the trophy. The measurements of the competing yachts were:

CYCLING ASSOCIATIONS.

League of American Wheelmen—President, M. M. Belding, New York; secretary and treasurer, Abbot Bassett, Boston.

National Cycling Association—President,

George J. Cook; secretary, C. K. McGuire, New York; chairman board of control, A. G. Batchelder, 150 Nassau street, New York.

AUTOMOBILE RACING.

All American track records up to ten miles were broken by Alexander Winton of Cleveland at Grosse Pointe, Detroit, Oct. 24. His fastest mile was made in 1 minute and 6½ seconds. The time for the whole distance was: One mile, 1:06½; two miles, 2:13½; three miles, 3:20½; four miles, 4:27½; five miles, 5:33½; six miles, 6:40½; seven miles, 7:47½; eight miles, 8:54½; nine miles, 10:01½; ten miles, 11:09.

The most notable long-distance race of the year was that from Paris to Berlin June 27-29. The 742 miles between the two cities was traversed by Fournier of Paris in 16 hours and 5 minutes, the average speed being 46½ miles an hour.

The Paris-Bordeaux race which took place May 29 was also won by Henri Fournier, who covered the distance of 348 miles in 8 hours 44 minutes and 44 seconds, the average speed per hour being 40.14 miles. Deducting the distance through towns where slow time had to be made, the average was above 61 miles an hour.

Nov. 16, at Prospect park, Brooklyn, Fournier made a mile in 51½ seconds, which is the world's record for a straight boulevard run.

PUGILISM.

Pugilism received many severe setbacks in the course of the year in the shape of adverse legislation by states and cities. The most serious blow was administered by the governor of Ohio, who refused to let the Jeffries-Ruhlin match, scheduled for Cincinnati in February, take place. The authorities in other states followed the example and boxing was confined to comparatively few places. A list of some of the important contests, exclusive of draws, follows:

June 22 the All-American team met a picked Scotch team at Glasgow and won by a score of 973 to 882. Each team had the use of both barrels. Gilbert and Merrill broke all their targets, Crosby broke 99 and Tripp, Fanning and Helkes 97 each. The best score of their opponents was 96. William R. Crosby of O'Fallon, Ill., was matched against Faulds, the Scotch champion, for $500, the conditions being 100 targets from ground traps and 50 from tower traps. Crosby won with a score of 139 to 134.

TRAP SHOOTING.

The most interesting event of the season of 1901, from a public standpoint, was the clay bird match between two teams of ten men each, representing America and England. The contest took place June 11, 12 and 13 on the Middlesex Gun club's grounds at Welsh Harp, Hendon, England, and proved an easy victory for the Americans. In shooting the latter used only one barrel, while their opponents used two. The stake was $5,000. From the score which follows it will be seen that some changes were made in both teams after the first day:

American team:	1st d.	2d d.	3d d.	Total.

Miss Elizabeth Jeschke of Lake View won the championship for women.

The officers of the congress are: President, Godfred Langhenry; secretary, Samuel Karpf; treasurer, George Strack.

HOCKEY.

The Victoria Hockey club of Winnipeg won the Manitoba and Northwest association championship, and in the games for the Stanley cup at Montreal, played Jan. 29 and 31, won by scores of 4 to 3 and 2 to 1. In the Canadian Amateur Hockey league series the Ottawas were victorious with seven games won, one drawn and one lost. The sport made considerable progress in the United States, especially in the east. The Crescent club won the American league championship series, the score standing:

	Won.	Tied.	Lost.
Crescent	8	—	2
N. Y. A. C.	7	—	3
St. Nicholas	4	3	4
Brooklyn	4	1	6
Hockey Club of New York	3	1	6
Quaker City	2	1	8

Pittsburg won the Western Pennsylvania league series, while Yale carried off championship honors in the Intercollegiate league, with Brown second and Princeton, Columbia and Pennsylvania in the order named. Canadian vs. American games resulted as follows:

Queen's university, 1; Pittsburg A. C., 0.
 Victorias, 6; Pittsburg A. C., 2.
 Ottawas, 3; New York A. C., 1.
 Ottawas, 5; All-New York, 1.

LAWN TENNIS.

Dwight F. Davis and Holcomb Ward won the national championship in doubles for the third time, and thus became the owners of the trophies successfully defended by them. They went to England and tried to wrest the British championship from the Doherty brothers, but in the finals, played July 3, were defeated, 6-2, 4-6, 6-3, 9-7. The games took place at Wimbledon.

In the western championship games, played on the courts of the Kenwood Country club July 8-13, Little and Alexander of Princeton defeated Collins and Waidner, the western champions of 1900. R. D. Little won the championship in singles from Kreigh Collins. Final score in doubles: 6-1, 6-2, 6-4. Final score in singles: 3-6, 6-2, 6-2.

In the national championship tournament at Newport Little and Alexander were defeated Aug. 13 by Ware and Wright. Score: 6-1, 2-6, 6-0, 4-6, 6-1. On Aug. 14 Ware and Wright were defeated by the champions, Davis and Ward. Score in finals: 6-3, 9-7, 6-1.

William A. Larned won the national championship in singles at Newport Aug. 21 by defeating Beals C. Wright in a four-set match, 6-2, 6-8, 8-6, 6-4. Whitman, the champion in 1900, did not defend his title.

W. A. Larned won the Canadian championship in singles at Niagara on the Lake, Ont., July 12.

SKATING.

The amateur speed skating championship meet held at Montreal resulted as follows: 220 Yards—Fred J. Robson, Royal Canadian B. C., Toronto, first; Larry C. Piper, Y. M. C. A., Toronto, second; W. Caldwell, Montreal A. A., third. Time, 20 2-5 seconds.

One Mile—C. Bellefeuille, Rat Portage, first; A. E. Pilbie, Montreal A. A., second; James Drury, Montreal A. A., third. Time, 2 minutes 53 3-5 seconds.

880 Yards—James Drury, Montreal, first; W. Caldwell, Montreal, second; F. J. Robson, Toronto, third. Time, 1 minute 27 2-5 seconds.

Three Miles—Z. P. St. Marie, Montreal, first; F. R. Sagar, New York, second; E. A. Thomas, New York, third. Time, 9 minutes 12 seconds.

Five Miles—E. A. Thomas, New York A. C., first; A. E. Pilbie, Montreal, second; B. Spencer, Montreal, third. Time, 16 minutes 56 2-5 seconds.

BASKET BALL.

The games for the National Amateur Athletic union championship were held in Chicago March 5-12. The following teams entered: Company E, Fond du Lac, Wis.; Silent Five, New York city; Ravenswood Y. M. C. A., Chicago; Stevens Point, Stevens Point, Wis.; Company I, Kenton, O.; West Side Y. M. C. A., Chicago; University of Minnesota, Minneapolis; University of Nebraska, Lincoln, Neb. Ravenswood won with Fond du Lac second.

The Pan-American interscholastic championship games at Buffalo July 12 resulted in favor of the Holyoke high school team at Holyoke, Mass.

The Seventeenth Separate company won the metropolitan championship series played at Flushing April 8-24.

SWIMMING.

The Amateur Athletic union championship events took place at Buffalo July 9. E. C. Schaeffer of Reading, Pa., won the 100, 220 and 440 yard events. He made the last distance in 6 minutes and 26 seconds, the record for America. Otto Wahle established new American records for distances from 660 yards up to a mile, as follows: 660 yards, 10 min. 37½ sec.; old mark, 10 min. 47 sec. 880 yards, 14 min. 21½ sec.; old mark, 14 min. 33 sec. 1,100 yards, 17 min. 59½ sec.; old mark, 18 min. 31½ sec. 1,320 yards, 21 min. 47½ sec.; old mark, 22 min. 45½ sec. 1,540 yards, 25 min. 24 sec.; old mark, 26 min. 18 sec. one mile, 28 min. 52½ sec.; old mark, 29 min. 51½ sec.

SKAT.

The fourth annual congress of the North American Skat league took place in Chicago May 12, 13 and 14. The first prize was won by F. W. Koenig of LaSalle, Ill., the second by Lawrence Damm of Detroit, Mich., and the third by J. E. Green of East St. Louis, Ill. The highest score was made by Max Stern of Chicago—240 points, the limit of the game at single play. The officers of the league are: President, Julius Schiller, Chicago; vice-president, Joseph Guenther, Detroit; treasurer, Charles P. Hagerdorn, Chicago; secretary, A. R. Brandt, Chicago; directors, Robert Schiller of Milwaukee, Richard Werner of Cincinnati, Leopold Schmalz of St. Louis and Dr. Emil Martin of Indianapolis.

CRICKET.

Chicago won the championship of the Northwestern Cricket association in a series of games played at Chicago in the third week in August. The record of games won and lost by the competing teams follows:

Team.	Played.	Won.	Lost.
Chicago	3	3	0
Manitoba	3	2	1
Minnesota	3	1	2
St. Louis	3	0	3

LAKE STEAMERS' RACE.

On June 4, 1901, the sidewheel steamers City of Erie, plying between Cleveland and Buffalo, and the Tashmoo, a Detroit river craft, raced a distance of 94¼ miles on Lake Erie, from Cleveland to Presque Isle. The City of Erie won by 45 seconds, the running time being 4 hours 19 minutes and 9 seconds; highest speed for one hour, 22 7-32 miles. The race was for a purse of $1,000.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

(Delivered to the first session of the Fifty-Seventh Congress.)

To the Senate and House of Representatives: The congress assembles this year under the shadow of a great calamity. On the 6th of September President McKinley was shot by an anarchist while attending the Pan-American exposition at Buffalo, and died in that city on the 14th of that month.

Of the last seven elected presidents he is the third who has been murdered, and the bare recital of this fact is sufficient to justify grave alarm among all loyal American citizens. Moreover, the circumstances of this, the third assassination of an American president, have a peculiarly sinister significance. Both President Lincoln and President Garfield were killed by assassins of types unfortunately not uncommon in history; President Lincoln falling a victim to the terrible passions aroused by four years of civil war and President Garfield to the revengeful vanity of a disappointed office-seeker. President McKinley was killed by an utterly depraved criminal, belonging to that body of criminals who object to all governments, good and bad alike, who are against any form of popular liberty if it is guaranteed by even the most just and liberal laws, and who are as hostile to the upright exponent of a free people's sober will as to the tyrannical and irresponsible despot.

It is not too much to say that at the time of President McKinley's death he was the most widely loved man in all the United States, while we have never had any public man of his position who has been so wholly free from the bitter animosities incident to public life. His political opponents were the first to bear the heartiest and most generous tribute to the broad kindness of nature, the sweetness and gentleness of character which so endeared him to his close associates. To a standard of lofty integrity in public life he united the tender affections and home virtues which are all-important in the make-up of national character. A gallant soldier in the great war for the union, he also shone as an example to all our people because of his conduct in the most sacred and intimate of home relations. There could be no personal hatred of him, for he never acted with aught but consideration for the welfare of others. No one could fail to respect him who knew him in public or private life. The defenders of those murderous criminals who seek to excuse their criminality by asserting that it is exercised for political ends inveigh against wealth and irresponsible power. But for this assassination even this base apology cannot be urged.

President McKinley was a man of moderate means, a man whose stock sprang from the sturdy tillers of the soil, who had himself belonged among the wage-workers, who had entered the army as a private soldier. Wealth was not struck at when the president was assassinated, but the honest toil which is content with moderate gains after a lifetime of unremitting labor, largely in the service of the public. Still less was power struck at in the sense that power is irresponsible or centered in the hands of any one individual. The blow was not aimed at tyranny or wealth. It was aimed at one of the strongest champions the wage-worker has ever had; at one of the most faithful representatives of the system of public rights and representative government who have ever risen to public office. President McKinley filled that political office for which the entire people vote, and no president—not even Lincoln himself—was ever more earnestly anxious to represent the well-thought-out wishes of the people; his one anxiety in every crisis was to keep in closest touch with the people—to find out what they thought and to endeavor to give expression to their thought, after having endeavored to guide that thought aright. He had just been re-elected to the presidency because the majority of our citizens, the majority of our farmers and wage-workers, believed that he had faithfully upheld their interests for four years. They felt themselves in close and intimate touch with him. They felt that he represented so well and so honorably all their ideals and aspirations that they wished him to continue for another four years to represent them.

And this was the man at whom the assassin struck! That there might be nothing lacking to complete the Judas-like infamy of his act, he took advantage of an occasion when the president was meeting the people generally; and, advancing as if to take the hand outstretched to him in kindly and brotherly fellowship, he turned the noble and generous confidence of the victim into an opportunity to strike the fatal blow. There is no baser deed in all the annals of crime.

The shock, the grief of the country, are bitter in the minds of all who saw the dark days while the president yet hovered between life and death. At last the light was stilled in the kindly eyes and the breath went from the lips that even in mortal agony uttered no words save of forgiveness to his murderer, of love for his friends and of unfaltering trust in the will of the Most High. Such a death, crowning the glory of such a life, leaves us with infinite sorrow, but with such pride in what he had accomplished and in his own personal character that we feel the blow not as struck at him but as struck at the nation. We mourn a good and great president who is dead; but while we mourn we are lifted up by the splendid achievements of his life and the grand heroism with which he met his death.

MENACE OF ANARCHY.

When we turn from the man to the nation the harm done is so great as to excite our gravest apprehensions and to demand our wisest and most resolute action. This criminal was a professed anarchist, inflamed by the teachings of professed anarchists and probably also by the reckless utterances of those who, on the stump and in the public press, appeal to the dark and evil spirits of malice and greed, envy and sullen hatred. The wind is sowed by the men who teach such doctrines, and they cannot escape their share of the responsibility for the whirlwind that is reaped. This applies alike to the deliberate demagogue, to the exploiter of sensationalism and to the crude and foolish visionary who, for whatever reason, apologizes for crime or excites aimless discontent.

The blow was aimed not at this president, but at all presidents; at every symbol of government. President McKinley was as emphatically the embodiment of the popular will of the nation expressed through the forms of law as a New England town meeting is in similar fashion the embodiment of the law-abiding purpose and practice of the people of the town. On no conceivable theory could the murder of the president be accepted as due to protest against "inequalities in the social order," save as the murder of all the freemen engaged in a town meeting could be accepted as a protest against that social inequality which puts a malefactor in jail. Anarchy is no more an expression of "social discontent" than picking pockets or wife-beating.

The anarchist, and especially the anarchist in the United States, is merely one type of criminal, more dangerous than any other because he represents the same depravity in a greater degree. The man who advocates anarchy directly or indirectly, in any shape or fashion, or the man who apologizes for anarchists and their deeds, makes himself morally accessory to murder before the fact. The anarchist is a criminal whose perverted instincts lead him to prefer confusion and chaos to the most beneficent form of social order. His protest of concern for workmen is outrageous in its impudent falsity; for if the political institutions of this country do not afford opportunity to every honest and intelligent son of toil, then the door of hope is forever closed against him. The anarchist is everywhere not merely the enemy of system and of progress, but the deadly foe of liberty. If ever anarchy is triumphant, its triumph will last for but one red moment, to be succeeded for ages by the gloomy night of despotism.

For the anarchist himself, whether he preaches or practices his doctrines, we need not have one particle more concern than for any ordinary murderer. He is not the victim of social or political injustice. There are no wrongs to remedy in his case. The cause of his criminality is to be found in his own evil passions and in the evil conduct of those who urge him on, not in any failure by others or by the state to do justice to him or his. He is a malefactor and nothing else. He is in no sense, in no shape or way, a "product of social conditions," save as a highwayman is "produced" by the fact that an unarmed man happens to have a purse. It is a travesty upon the great and holy names of liberty and freedom to permit them to be invoked in such a cause. No man or body of men preaching anarchistic doctrines should be allowed at large any more than if preaching the murder of some specified private individual. Anarchistic speeches, writings and meetings are essentially seditious and treasonable.

I earnestly recommend to the congress that in the exercise of its wise discretion it should take into consideration the coming to this country of anarchists or persons professing principles hostile to all government and justifying the murder of those placed in authority. Such individuals as those who not long ago gathered in open meeting to glorify the murder of King Humbert of Italy perpetrate a crime and the law should insure their rigorous punishment. They and those like them should be kept out of this country; and if found here they should be promptly deported to the country whence they came; and far-reaching provision should be made for the punishment of those who stay. No matter calls more urgently for the wisest thought of the congress.

The federal courts should be given jurisdiction over any man who kills or attempts to kill the president or any man who by the constitution or by law is in line of succession for the presidency, while the punishment for an unsuccessful attempt should be proportioned to the enormity of the offense against our institutions.

Anarchy is a crime against the whole human race, and all mankind should band against the anarchist. His crime should be made an offense against the law of nations, like piracy and that form of man-stealing known as the slave trade, for it is of far blacker infamy than either. It should be so declared by treaties among all civilized powers. Such treaties would give to the federal government the power of dealing with the crime.

A grim commentary upon the folly of the anarchist position was afforded by the attitude of the law toward this very criminal who had just taken the life of the president. The people would have torn him limb from limb if it had not been that the law he defied was at once invoked in his behalf. So far from his deed being committed on behalf of the people against the government, the government was obliged at once to exert its full police power to save him from instant death at the hands of the people. Moreover, his deed worked not the slightest dislocation in our governmental system, and the danger of a recurrence of such deeds, no matter how great it might grow, would work only in the direction of strengthening and giving harshness to the forces of order. No man will ever be restrained from becoming president by any fear as to his personal safety. If the risk to the president's life became great it would mean that the office would more and more come to be filled by men of a spirit which would make them resolute and merciless in dealing with every friend of disorder. This great country will not fall into anarchy, and if anarchists should ever become a serious menace to its institutions they would not merely be stamped out but would involve in their own ruin every active or passive sympathizer with their doctrines. The American people are slow to wrath, but when their wrath is once kindled it burns like a consuming flame.

CORPORATIONS AND TRUSTS.

During the last five years business confidence has been restored and the nation is to be congratulated because of its present abounding prosperity. Such prosperity can never be created by law alone, although it is easy enough to destroy it by mischievous laws. If the hand of the Lord is heavy upon any country, if flood or drought comes, human wisdom is powerless to avert the calamity. Moreover, no law can guard us against the consequences of our own folly. The men who are idle or credulous, the men who seek gains not by genuine work with head or hand but by gambling in any form, are always a source of menace not only to themselves but to others. If the business world loses its head it loses what legislation cannot supply. Fundamentally the welfare of each citizen, and therefore the welfare of the aggregate of citizens which makes the nation, must rest upon individual thrift and energy, resolution and intelligence. Nothing can take the place of this individual capacity; but wise legislation and honest and intelligent administration can give it the fullest scope, the largest opportunity to work to good effect.

The tremendous and highly complex industrial development which went on with ever accelerated rapidly during the latter half of the nineteenth century brings us face to face, at the beginning of the twentieth, with very serious social problems. The old laws and the old customs which had almost the binding force of law were once quite sufficient to regulate the accumulation and distribution of wealth. Since the industrial changes which have so enormously increased the productive power of mankind they are no longer sufficient.

The growth of cities has gone on beyond comparison faster than the growth of the country, and the upbuilding of the great industrial centers has meant a startling increase not merely in the aggregate of wealth but in the number of very large individual and especially of very large corporate fortunes. The creation of these great corporate fortunes has not been due to the tariff nor to any other governmental action, but to natural causes in the business world, operating in other countries as they operate in our own.

The process has aroused much antagonism, a great part of which is wholly without warrant. It is not true that as the rich have grown richer the poor have grown poorer. On the contrary, never before has the average man, the wage-worker, the farmer, the small trader, been so well off as in this country and at the present time. There have been abuses connected with the accumulation of wealth; yet it remains true that a fortune accumulated in legitimate business can be accumulated by the person specially benefited only on condition of conferring immense incidental benefits upon others. Successful enterprise, of the type which benefits all mankind, can only exist if the conditions are such as to offer great prizes as the rewards of success.

The captains of industry who have driven the railway systems across this continent, who have built up our commerce, who have developed our manufactures, have on the whole done great good to our people. Without them the material development of which we are so justly proud could never have taken place. Moreover, we should recognize the immense importance to this material development of leaving as unhampered as is compatible with the public good the strong and forceful men upon whom the success of business operations inevitably rests. The slightest study of business conditions will satisfy any one capable of forming a judgment that the personal equation is the most important factor in a business operation; that the business ability of a man at the head of any business concern, big or little, is usually the factor which fixes the gulf between striking success and hopeless failure.

An additional reason for caution in dealing with corporations is to be found in the international commercial conditions of to-day. The same business conditions which have produced the great aggregations of corporate and individual wealth have made them very potent factors in international commercial competition. Business concerns which have the largest means at their disposal and are managed by the ablest men are naturally those which take the lead in the strife for commercial supremacy among the nations of the world. America has only just begun to assume that commanding position in the international business world which we believe will more and more be hers. It is of the utmost importance that this position be not jeopardized, especially at a time when the overflowing abundance of our own natural resources and the skill, business energy and mechanical aptitude of our people make foreign markets essential. Under such conditions it would be most unwise to cramp or fetter the youthful strength of our nation.

Moreover, it cannot too often be pointed out that to strike with ignorant violence at the interests of one set of men almost inevitably endangers the interests of all. The fundamental rule in our national life—the rule which underlies all others—is that, on the whole and in the long run, we shall go up or down together. There are exceptions; and in times of prosperity some will prosper far more, and in times of adversity some will suffer far more, than others; but, speaking generally, a period of good times means that all share more or less in them, and in a period of hard times all feel the stress to a greater or less degree. It surely ought not to be necessary to enter into any proof of this statement; the memory of the lean years which began in 1893 is still vivid, and we can contrast them with the conditions in this very year which is now closing. Disaster to great business enterprises can never have its effects limited to the men at the top. It spreads throughout, and, while it is bad for everybody, it is worst for those farthest down. The capitalist may be shorn of his luxury, but the wage-workers may be deprived of even bare necessities.

The mechanism of modern business is so delicate that extreme care must be taken not to interfere with it in a spirit of rashness or ignorance. Many of those who have made it their vocation to denounce the great industrial combinations, which are popularly, although with technical inaccuracy, known as "trusts," appeal especially to hatred and fear. These are precisely the two emotions, particularly when combined with ignorance, which unfit men for the exercise of cool and steady judgment. In facing new industrial conditions the whole history of the world shows that legislation will generally be both unwise and ineffective unless undertaken after calm inquiry and with sober self-restraint. Much of the legislation directed at the trusts would have been exceedingly mischievous had it not also been entirely ineffective. In accordance with a well-known sociological law, the ignorant or reckless agitator has been the really effective friend of the evils which he has been nominally opposing. In dealing with business interests, for the government to undertake by crude and ill-considered legislation to do what may turn out to be bad would be to incur the risk of such far-reaching national disaster that it would be preferable to undertake nothing at all. The men who demand the impossible or the undesirable serve as the allies of the forces with which they are nominally at war, for they hamper those who would endeavor to find out in rational fashion what the wrongs really are and to what extent and in what manner it is practicable to apply remedies.

All this is true; and yet it is also true that there are real and grave evils, one of the chief being overcapitalization, because of its many baleful consequences; and a resolute and practical effort must be made to correct these evils.

There is a widespread conviction in the minds of the American people that the great corporations known as trusts are in certain of their features and tendencies hurtful to the general welfare. This springs from no spirit of envy or uncharitableness, nor lack of pride in the great industrial achievements that have placed this country at the head of the nations struggling for commercial supremacy. It does not rest upon a lack of intelligent appreciation of the necessity of meeting changing and changed conditions of trade with new methods, nor upon ignorance of the fact that combination of capital in the effort to accomplish great things is necessary when the world's progress demands that great things be done. It is based upon sincere conviction that combination and concentration should be not prohibited but supervised and within reasonable limits controlled; and in my judgment this conviction is right.

It is no limitation upon property rights or freedom of contract to require that, when men receive from government the privilege of doing business under corporate form which frees them from individual responsibility and enables them to call into their enterprise the capital of the public, they shall do so upon absolutely truthful representations as to the value of the property in which the capital is to be invested. Corporations engaged in interstate commerce should be regulated if they are found to exercise a license working to the public injury. It should be as much the aim of those who seek for social betterment to rid the business world of crimes of cunning as to rid the entire body politic of crimes of violence. Great corporations exist only because they are created and safeguarded by our institutions; and it is therefore our right and our duty to see that they work in harmony with these institutions.

The first essential in determining how to deal with the great industrial combinations is knowledge of the facts—publicity. In the interest of the public the government should have the right to inspect and examine the workings of the great corporations engaged in interstate business. Publicity is the only sure remedy which we can now invoke. What further remedies are needed in the way of governmental regulation or taxation can only be determined after publicity has been obtained by process of law and in the course of administration. The first requisite is knowledge, full and complete—knowledge which may be made public to the world.

Artificial bodies, such as corporations and joint stock or other associations, depending upon statutory law for their existence or privileges, should be subject to proper governmental supervision and full and accurate information as to their operations should be made public regularly at reasonable intervals.

The large corporations, commonly called trusts, though organized in one state, always do business in many states, and often do very little business in the state where they are incorporated. There is utter lack of uniformity in the state laws about them; and as no state has any exclusive interest in or power over their acts it has in practice proved impossible to get adequate regulation through state action. Therefore, in the interest of the whole people, the nation should, without interfering with the power of the states in the matter itself, also assume power of supervision and regulation over all corporations doing an interstate business. This is especially true where the corporation derives a portion of its wealth from the existence of some monopolistic element or tendency in its business. There would be no hardship in such supervision; banks are subject to it, and in their case it is now accepted as a simple matter of course. Indeed, it is probable that supervision of corporations by the national government need not go so far as is now the case with the supervision exercised over them by so conservative a state as Massachusetts in order to produce excellent results.

When the constitution was adopted at the end of the eighteenth century no human wisdom could foretell the sweeping changes, alike in industrial and political conditions, which were to take place by the beginning of the twentieth century. At that time it was accepted as a matter of course that the several states were the proper authorities to regulate, so far as was then necessary, the comparatively insignificant and strictly localized corporate bodies of the day. The conditions are now wholly different and wholly different action is called for. I believe that a law can be framed which will enable the national government to exercise control along the lines above indicated; profiting by the experience gained through the passage and administration of the interstate-commerce act. If, however, the judgment of the congress is that it lacks the constitutional power to pass such an act, then a constitutional amendment should be submitted to confer the power.

SECRETARY OF COMMERCE.

There should be created a cabinet officer, to be known as secretary of commerce and industries, as provided in the bill introduced at the last session of the congress. It should be his province to deal with commerce in its broadest sense, including among many other things whatever concerns labor and all matters affecting the great business corporations and our merchant marine.

The course proposed is one phase of what should be a comprehensive and far-reaching scheme of constructive statesmanship for the purpose of broadening our markets, securing our business interests on a safe basis and making firm our new position in the international industrial world; while scrupulously safeguarding the rights of the wage-worker and capitalist, of investor and private citizen, so as to secure equality as between man and man in this republic.

CHINESE EXCLUSION.

With the sole exception of the farming interest no one matter is of such vital moment to our whole people as the welfare of the wage-workers. If the farmer and the wage-worker are well off it is absolutely certain that all others will be well off, too. It is therefore a matter for hearty congratulation that on the whole wages are higher to-day in the United States than ever before in our history, and far higher than in any other country. The standard of living is also higher than ever before. Every effort of legislator and administrator should be bent to secure the permanency of this condition of things and its improvement wherever possible. Not only must our labor be protected by the tariff, but it should also be protected so far as it is possible from the presence in this country of any laborers brought over by contract, or of those who, coming freely, yet represent a standard of living so depressed that they can undersell our men in the labor market and drag them to a lower level. I regard it as necessary, with this end in view, to re-enact immediately the law excluding Chinese laborers and to strengthen it wherever necessary in order to make its enforcement entirely effective.

OTHER LABOR LEGISLATION.

The national government should demand the highest quality of service from its employees; and in return it should be a good employer. If possible, legislation should be passed in connection with the interstate commerce law which will render effective the efforts of different states to do away with the competition of convict contract labor in the open labor market. So far as practicable under the conditions of government work, provision should be made to render the enforcement of the eight-hour law easy and certain. In all industries carried on directly or indirectly for the United States government women and children should be protected from excessive hours of labor, from night work and from work under unsanitary conditions. The government should provide in its contracts that all work should be done under "fair" conditions, and in addition to setting a high standard should uphold it by proper inspection, extending if necessary to the subcontractors. The government should forbid all night work for women and children as well as excessive overtime. For the District of Columbia a good factory law should be passed; and, as a powerful indirect aid to such laws, provision should be made to turn the inhabited alleys, the existence of which is a reproach to our capital city, into minor streets, where the inhabitants can live under conditions favorable to health and morals.

American wage-workers work with their heads as well as their hands. Moreover, they take a keen pride in what they are doing, so that, independent of the reward, they wish to turn out a perfect job. This is the great secret of our success in competition with the labor of foreign countries.

The most vital problem with which this country, and, for that matter, the whole civilized world, has to deal is the problem which has for one side the betterment of social conditions, moral and physical, in large cities, and for another side the effort to deal with that tangle of far-reaching questions which we group together when we speak of "labor." The chief factor in the success of each man—wage-worker, farmer and capitalist alike—must ever be the sum total of his own individual qualities and abilities. Second only to this comes the power of acting in combination or association with others. Very great good has been and will be accomplished by associations or unions of wage-workers, when managed with forethought and when they combine insistence upon their own rights with law-abiding respect for the rights of others. The display of these qualities in such bodies is a duty to the nation no less than to the associations themselves. Finally, there must also in many cases be action by the government in order to safeguard the rights and interests of all. Under our constitution there is much more scope for such action by the state and the municipality than by the nation. But on points such as those touched on above the national government can act.

When all is said and done, the rule of brotherhood remains as the indispensable prerequisite to success in the kind of national life for which we strive. Each man must work for himself, and unless he so works no outside help can avail him; but each man must remember also that he is indeed his brother's keeper, and that, while no man who refuses to walk can be carried with advantage to himself or any one else, yet that each at times stumbles or halts, that each at times needs to have the helping hand outstretched to him. To be permanently effective aid must always take the form of helping a man to help himself; and we can all best help ourselves by joining together in the work that is of common interest to all.

IMMIGRATION LAWS.

Our present immigration laws are unsatisfactory. We need every honest and efficient immigrant fitted to become an American citizen, every immigrant who comes here to stay, who brings here a strong body, a stout heart, a good head and a resolute purpose to do his duty well in every way and to bring up his children as law-abiding and God-fearing members of the community. But there should be a comprehensive law enacted with the object of working a threefold improvement over our present system. First, we should aim to exclude absolutely not only all persons who are known to be believers in anarchistic principles or members of anarchistic societies, but also all persons who are of a low moral tendency or of unsavory reputation. This means that we should require a more thorough system of inspection abroad and a more rigid system of examination at our immigration ports, the former being especially necessary.

The second object of a proper immigration law ought to be to secure by a careful and not merely perfunctory educational test some intelligent capacity to appreciate American institutions and act sanely as American citizens. This would not keep out all anarchists, for many of them belong to the intelligent criminal class. But it would do what is also in point—that is, tend to decrease the sum of ignorance, so potent in producing the envy, suspicion, malignant passion and hatred of order out of which anarchistic sentiment inevitably springs. Finally, all persons should be excluded who are below a certain standard of economic fitness to enter our industrial field as competitors with American labor. There should be proper proof of personal capacity to earn an American living and enough money to insure a decent start under American conditions. This would stop the influx of cheap labor and the resulting competition which gives rise to so much of bitterness in American industrial life, and it would dry up the springs of the pestilential social conditions in our great cities, where anarchistic organizations have their greatest possibility of growth.

Both the educational and economic tests in a wise immigration law should be designed to protect and elevate the general body, politic and social. A very close supervision should be exercised over the steamship companies which mainly bring over the immigrants, and they should be held to a strict accountability for any infraction of the law.

TARIFF AND RECIPROCITY.

There is general acquiescence in our present tariff system as a national policy. The first requisite to our prosperity is the continuity and stability of this economic policy. Nothing could be more unwise than to disturb the business interests of the country by any general tariff change at this time. Doubt, apprehension, uncertainty, are exactly what we most wish to avoid in the interest of our commercial and material well-being. Our experience in the past has shown that sweeping revisions of the tariff are apt to produce conditions closely approaching panic in the business world. Yet it is not only possible, but eminently desirable, to combine with the stability of our economic system a supplementary system of reciprocal benefit and obligation with other nations. Such reciprocity is an incident and result of the firm establishment and preservation of our present economic policy. It was specially provided for in the present tariff law.

Reciprocity must be treated as the handmaiden of protection. Our first duty is to see that the protection granted by the tariff in every case where it is needed is maintained and that reciprocity be sought for so far as it can safely be done without injury to our home industries. Just how far this is must be determined according to the individual case, remembering always that every application of our tariff policy to meet our shifting national needs must be conditioned upon the cardinal fact that the duties must never be reduced below the point that will cover the difference between the labor cost here and abroad. The well-being of the wage-worker is a prime consideration of our entire policy of economic legislation.

Subject to this proviso of the proper protection necessary to our industrial well-being at home, the principle of reciprocity must command our hearty support. The phenomenal growth of our export trade emphasizes the urgency of the need for wider markets and for a liberal policy in dealing with foreign nations. Whatever is merely petty and vexatious in the way of trade restrictions should be avoided. The customers to whom we dispose of our surplus products in the long run, directly or indirectly, purchase those surplus products by giving us something in return. Their ability to purchase our products should as far as possible be secured by so arranging our tariff as to enable us to take from them those products which we can use without harm to our own industries and labor or the use of which will be of marked benefit to us.

It is most important that we should maintain the high level of our present prosperity. We have now reached the point in the development of our interests where we are not only able to supply our own markets but to produce a constantly growing surplus for which we must find markets abroad. To secure these markets we can utilize existing duties in any case where they are no longer needed for the purpose of protection, or in any case where the article is not produced here and the duty is no longer necessary for revenue, as giving us something to offer in exchange for what we ask. The cordial relations with other nations which are so desirable will naturally be promoted by the course thus required by our own interests.

The natural line of development for a policy of reciprocity will be in connection with those of our productions which no longer require all of the support once needed to establish them upon a sound basis and with those others where either because of natural or of economic causes we are beyond the reach of successful competition.

I ask the attention of the senate to the reciprocity treaties laid before it by my predecessor.

SHIP SUBSIDIES.

The condition of the American merchant marine is such as to call for immediate remedial action by congress. It is discreditable to us as a nation that our merchant marine should be utterly insignificant in comparison to that of other nations which we overtop in other forms of business. We should not longer submit to conditions under which only a trifling portion of our great commerce is carried in our own ships. To remedy this state of things would not only merely serve to build up our shipping interests, but it would also result in benefit to all who are interested in the permanent establishment of a wider market for American products and would provide an auxiliary force for the navy. Ships work for their own countries just as railroads work for their terminal points. Shipping lines if established to the principal countries with which we have dealings would be of political as well as commercial benefit. From every standpoint it is unwise for the United States to continue to rely upon the ships of competing nations for the distribution of our goods. It should be made advantageous to carry American goods in American-built ships.

At present American shipping is under certain great disadvantages when put in competition with the shipping of foreign countries. Many of the fast foreign steamships, at a speed of fourteen knots or above, are subsidized; and all our ships, sailing vessels and steamers alike, cargo carriers of slow speed and mail carriers of high speed, have to meet the fact that the original cost of building American ships is greater than is the case abroad; that the wages paid American officers and seamen are very much higher than those paid the officers and seamen of foreign competing countries, and that the standard of living on our ships is far superior to the standard of living on the ships of our commercial rivals.

Our government should take such action as will remedy these inequalities. The American merchant marine should be restored to the ocean.

NATIONAL FINANCES.

The act of March 14, 1900, intended unequivocally to establish gold as the standard money and to maintain at a parity therewith all forms of money medium in use with us, has been shown to be timely and judicious. The price of our government bonds in the world's market, when compared with the price of similar obligations issued by other nations, is a flattering tribute to our public credit. This condition it is evidently desirable to maintain.

In many respects the national banking law furnishes sufficient liberty for the proper exercise of the banking function, but there seems to be need of better safeguards against the deranging influence of commercial crises and financial panics. Moreover, the currency of the country should be made responsive to the demands of our domestic trade and commerce.

The collections from duties on imports and internal taxes continue to exceed the ordinary expenditures of the government, thanks mainly to the reduced army expenditures. The utmost care should be taken not to reduce the revenues so that there will be any possibility of a deficit; but, after providing against any such contingency, means should be adopted which will bring the revenues more nearly within the limit of our actual needs. In his report to the congress the secretary of the treasury considers all these questions at length, and I ask your attention to the report and recommendations.

I call special attention to the need of strict economy in expenditures. The fact that our national needs forbid us to be niggardly in providing whatever is actually necessary to our well-being should make us doubly careful to husband our national resources, as each of us husbands his private resources, by scrupulous avoidance of anything like wasteful or reckless expenditure. Only by avoiding spending money on what is needless or unjustifiable can we legitimately keep our income to the point required to meet our needs that are genuine.

INTERSTATE COMMERCE.

In 1887 a measure was enacted for the regulation of interstate railways, commonly known as the interstate commerce act. The cardinal provisions of that act were that railway rates should be just and reasonable and that all shippers, localities and commodities should be accorded equal treatment. A commission was created and endowed with what were supposed to be the necessary powers to execute the provisions of this act.

The law was largely an experiment. Experience has shown the wisdom of its purposes, but has also shown, possibly, that some of its requirements are wrong, certainly that the means devised for the enforcement of its provisions are defective. Those who complain of the management of the railways allege that established rates are not maintained; that rebates and similar devices are habitually resorted to; that these preferences are usually in favor of the large shipper; that they drive out of business the smaller competitor; that while many rates are too low, many others are excessive, and that gross preferences are made, affecting both localities and commodities. Upon the other hand, the railways assert that the law by its very terms tends to produce many of these illegal practices by depriving carriers of that right of concerted action which they claim is necessary to establish and maintain nondiscriminating rates.

The act should be amended. The railway is a public servant. Its rates should be just to and open to all shippers alike. The government should see to it that within its jurisdiction this is so and should provide a speedy, inexpensive and effective remedy to that end. At the same time it must not be forgotten that our railways are the arteries through which the commercial lifeblood of this nation flows. Nothing could be more foolish than the enactment of legislation which would unnecessarily interfere with the development and operation of these commercial agencies. The subject is one of great importance and calls for the earnest attention of the congress.

AGRICULTURE.

The department of agriculture during the past fifteen years has steadily broadened its work on economic lines and has accomplished results of real value in upbuilding domestic and foreign trade. It has gone into new fields until it is now in touch with all sections of our country and with two of the island groups that have lately come under our jurisdiction, whose people must look to agriculture as a livelihood. It is searching the world for grains, grasses, fruits and vegetables specially fitted for introduction into localities in the several states and territories where they may add materially to our resources. By scientific attention to soil survey and possible new crops, to breeding of new varieties of plants, to experimental shipments, to animal industry and applied chemistry, very practical aid has been given our farming and stock-growing interests. The products of the farm have taken an unprecedented place in our export trade during the year that has just closed.

FOREST RESERVES.

Public opinion throughout the United States has moved steadily toward a just appreciation of the value of forests, whether planted or of natural growth. The great part played by them in the creation and maintenance of the national wealth is now more fully realized than ever before.

Wise forest protection does not mean the withdrawal of forest resources, whether of wood, water or grass, from contributing their full share to the welfare of the people, but, on the contrary, gives the assurance of larger and more certain supplies. The fundamental idea of forestry is the perpetuation of forests by use. Forest protection is not an end of itself; it is a means to increase and sustain the resources of our country and the industries which depend upon them. The preservation of our forests is an imperative business necessity. We have come to see clearly that whatever destroys the forest, except to make way for agriculture, threatens our well-being.

The practical usefulness of the national forest reserves to the mining, grazing, irrigation and other interests of the region in which the reserves lie has led to a widespread demand by the people of the west for their protection and extension. The forest reserves will inevitably be of still greater use in the future than in the past. Additions should be made to them whenever practicable and their usefulness should be increased by a thoroughly businesslike management.

At present the protection of the forest reserves rests with the general land office, the mapping and description of their timber with the United States geological survey and the preparation of plans for their conservative use with the bureau of forestry, which is also charged with the general advancement of practical forestry in the United States. These various functions should be united in the bureau of forestry, to which they properly belong. The present diffusion of responsibility is bad from every standpoint. It prevents that effective co-operation between the government and the men who utilize the resources of the reserves without which the interests of both must suffer. The scientific bureaus generally should be put under the department of agriculture. The president should have by law the power of transferring lands for use as forest reserves to the department of agriculture. He already has such power in the case of lands needed by the departments of war and the navy.

The wise administration of the forest reserves will be not less helpful to the interests which depend on water than to those which depend on wood and grass. The water supply itself depends upon the forest. In the arid region it is water, not land, which measures production. The western half of the United States would sustain a population greater than that of our whole country to-day if the waters that now run to waste were saved and used for irrigation. The forest and water problems are perhaps the most vital internal questions of the United States.

Certain of the forest reserves should also be made preserves for the wild forest creatures. All of the reserves should be better protected from fires. Many of them need special protection because of the great injury done by live stock, above all by sheep. The increase in deer, elk and other animals in the Yellowstone park shows what may be expected when other mountain forests are properly protected by law and properly guarded. Some of these areas have been so denuded of surface vegetation by overgrazing that the ground breeding birds, including grouse and quail, and many mammals, including deer, have been exterminated or driven away. At the same time the water-storing capacity of the surface has been decreased or destroyed, thus promoting floods in times of rain and diminishing the flow of streams between rains.

In cases where natural conditions have been restored for a few years vegetation has again carpeted the ground, birds and deer are coming back, and hundreds of persons, especially from the immediate neighborhood, come each summer to enjoy the privilege of camping. Some at least of the forest reserves should afford perpetual protection to the native fauna and flora, safe havens of refuge to our rapidly diminishing wild animals of the larger kinds, and free camping grounds for the ever-increasing numbers of men and women who have learned to find rest, health and recreation in the splendid forests and flower-clad meadows of our mountains. The forest reserves should be set apart forever for the use and benefit of our people as a whole and not sacrificed to the short-sighted greed of a few.

RESERVOIRS AND IRRIGATION.

The forests are natural reservoirs. By restraining the streams in flood and replenishing them in drought they make possible the use of waters otherwise wasted. They prevent the soil from washing, and so protect the storage reservoirs from filling up with silt. Forest conservation is therefore an essential condition of water conservation.

The forests alone cannot, however, fully regulate and conserve the waters of the arid region. Great storage works are necessary to equalize the flow of streams and to save the flood waters. Their construction has been conclusively shown to be an undertaking too vast for private effort. Nor can it be best accomplished by the individual states acting alone. Far-reaching interstate problems are involved; and the resources of single states would often be inadequate. It is properly a national function, at least in some of its features. It is as right for the national government to make the streams and rivers of the arid region useful by engineering works for water storage as to make useful the rivers and harbors of the humid region by engineering works of another kind. The storing of the floods in reservoirs at the headwaters of our rivers is but an enlargement of our present policy of river control, under which levees are built on the lower reaches of the same streams.

The government should construct and maintain these reservoirs as it does other public works. Where their purpose is to regulate the flow of streams the water should be turned freely into the channels in the dry season to take the same course under the same laws as the natural flow.

The reclamation of the unsettled arid public lands presents a different problem. Here it is not enough to regulate the flow of streams. The object of the government is to dispose of the land to settlers who will build homes upon it. To accomplish this object water must be brought within their reach.

The pioneer settlers on the arid public domain chose their homes along streams from which they could themselves divert the water to reclaim their holdings. Such opportunities are practically gone. There remain, however, vast areas of public land which can be made available for homestead settlement, but only by reservoirs and main-line canals impracticable for private enterprise. There irrigation works should be built by the national government. The lands reclaimed by them should be reserved by the government for actual settlers, and the cost of construction should, so far as possible, be repaid by the land reclaimed. The distribution of the water, the division of the streams among irrigators, should be left to the settlers themselves in conformity with state laws and without interference with those laws or with vested rights. The policy of the national government should be to aid irrigation in the several states and territories in such manner as will enable the people in the local communities to help themselves, and as well stimulate needed reforms in the state laws and regulations governing irrigation.

The reclamation and settlement of the arid lands will enrich every portion of our country, just as the settlement of the Ohio and Mississippi valleys brought prosperity to the Atlantic states. The increased demand for manufactured articles will stimulate industrial production, while wider home markets and the trade of Asia will consume the larger food supplies and effectually prevent western competition with eastern agriculture. Indeed, the products of irrigation will be consumed chiefly in upbuilding local centers of mining and other industries, which would otherwise not come into existence at all. Our people as a whole will profit, for successful home-making is but another name for the upbuilding of the nation.

The necessary foundation has already been laid for the inauguration of the policy just described. It would be unwise to begin by doing too much, for a great deal will doubtless be learned, both as to what can and what cannot be safely attempted, by the early efforts, which must of necessity be partly experimental in character. At the very beginning the government should make clear, beyond shadow of doubt, its intention to pursue this policy on lines of the broadest public interest. No reservoir or canal should ever be built to satisfy selfish personal or local interests; but only in accordance with the advice of trained experts, after long investigation has shown the locality where all the conditions combine to make the work most needed and fraught with the greatest usefulness to the community as a whole. There should be no extravagance, and the believers in the need of irrigation will most benefit their cause by seeing to it that it is free from the least taint of excessive or reckless expenditure of the public moneys.

Whatever the nation does for the extension of irrigation should harmonize with and tend to improve the condition of those now living on irrigated land. We are not at the starting point of this development. Over two hundred millions of private capital has already been expended in the construction of irrigation works, and many million acres of arid land reclaimed. A high degree of enterprise and ability has been shown in the work itself, but as much cannot be said in reference to the laws relating thereto. The security and value of the homes created depend largely on the stability of titles to water; but the majority of these rest on the uncertain foundation of court decisions rendered in ordinary suits at law. With a few creditable exceptions, the arid states have failed to provide for the certain and just division of streams in times of scarcity. Lax and uncertain laws have made it possible to establish rights to water in excess of actual uses or necessities, and many streams have already passed into private ownership or a control equivalent to ownership.

Whoever controls a stream practically controls the land it renders productive, and the doctrine of private ownership of water apart from land cannot prevail without causing enduring wrong. The recognition of such ownership, which has been permitted to grow up in the arid regions, should give way to a more enlightened and larger recognition of the rights of the public in the control and disposal of the public water supplies. Laws founded upon conditions obtaining in humid regions, where water is too abundant to justify hoarding it, have no proper application in a dry country.

In the arid states the only right to water which should be recognized is that of use. In irrigation this right should attach to the land reclaimed and be inseparable therefrom. Granting perpetual water rights to others than users, without compensation to the public, is open to all the objections which apply to giving away perpetual franchises of the public utilities of cities. A few of the western states have already recognized this and have incorporated in their constitutions the doctrine of perpetual state ownership of water.

The benefits which have followed the unaided development of the past justify the nation's aid and co-operation in the more difficult and important work yet to be accomplished. Laws so vitally affecting homes as those which control the water supply will only be effective when they have the sanction of the irrigators; reforms can only be final and satisfactory when they come through the enlightenment of the people most concerned. The larger development which national aid insures should, however, awaken in every arid state the determination to make its irrigation system equal in justice and effectiveness to that of any country in the civilized world. Nothing could be more unwise than for isolated communities to continue to learn everything experimentally, instead of profiting by what is already known elsewhere. We are dealing with a new and momentous question in the pregnant years while institutions are forming and what we do will affect not only the present but future generations.

Our aim should be not simply to reclaim the largest area of land and provide homes for the largest number of people but to create for this new industry the best possible social and industrial conditions; and this requires that we not only understand the existing situation but avail ourselves of the best experience of the time in the solution of its problems. A careful study should be made, both by the nation and the states, of the irrigation laws and conditions here and abroad. Ultimately it will probably be necessary for the nation to cooperate with the several arid states in proportion as these states by their legislation and administration show themselves fit to receive it.

HAWAII, PORTO RICO AND CUBA.

In Hawaii our aim must be to develop the territory on the traditional American lines. We do not wish a region of large estates tilled by cheap labor; we wish a healthy American community of men who themselves till the farms they own. All our legislation for the islands should be shaped with this end in view; the well-being of the average home-maker must afford the true test of the healthy development of the islands. The land policy should as nearly as possible be modeled on our homestead system.

It is a pleasure to say that it is hardly more necessary to report as to Porto Rico than as to any state or territory within our continental limits. The island is thriving as never before and it is being administered efficiently and honestly. Its people are now enjoying liberty and order under the protection of the United States and upon this fact we congratulate them and ourselves. Their material welfare must be as carefully and jealously considered as the welfare of any other portion of our country. We have given them the great gift of free access for their products to the markets of the United States. I ask the attention of the congress to the need of legislation concerning the public lands of Porto Rico.

In Cuba such progress has been made toward putting the independent government of the island upon a firm footing that before the present session of the congress closes this will be an accomplished fact. Cuba will then start as her own mistress, and to the beautiful Queen of the Antilles, as she unfolds this new page of her destiny, we extend our heartiest greetings and good wishes. Elsewhere I have discussed the question of reciprocity. In the case of Cuba, however, there are weighty reasons of morality and of national interest why the policy should be held to have a peculiar application, and I most earnestly ask your attention to the wisdom—indeed, to the vital need—of providing for a substantial reduction in the tariff duties on Cuban imports into the United States. Cuba has in her constitution affirmed what we desired, that she should stand, in international matters, in closer and more friendly relations with us than with any other power; and we are bound by every consideration of honor and expediency to pass commercial measures in the interest of her material well-being.

PHILIPPINE PROBLEM.

In the Philippines our problem is larger. They are very rich tropical islands, inhabited by many varying tribes, representing widely different stages of progress toward civilization. Our earnest effort is to help these people upward along the stony and difficult path that leads to self-government. We hope to make our administration of the islands honorable to our nation by making it of the highest benefit to the Filipinos themselves; and as an earnest of what we intend to do we point to what we have done. Already a greater measure of material prosperity and of governmental honesty and efficiency has been attained in the Philippines than ever before in their history.

It is no light task for a nation to achieve the temperamental qualities without which the institutions of free government are but an empty mockery. Our people are now successfully governing ourselves because for more than a thousand years they have been slowly fitting themselves, sometimes consciously, sometimes unconsciously, toward this end. What has taken us thirty generations to achieve we cannot expect to see another race accomplish out of hand, especially when large portions of that race start very far behind the point which our ancestors had reached even thirty generations ago. In dealing with the Philippine people we must show both patience and strength, forbearance and steadfast resolution. Our aim is high. We do not desire to do for the islanders merely what has elsewhere been done for tropic peoples even by the best foreign governments. We hope to do for them what has never before been done for any people of the tropics—to make them fit for self-government after the fashion of the really free nations.

History may safely be challenged to show a single instance in which a masterful race such as ours, having been forced by the exigencies of war to take possession of an alien land, has behaved to its inhabitants with the disinterested zeal for their progress that our people have shown in the Philippines. To leave the islands at this time would mean that they would fall into a welter of murderous anarchy. Such desertion of duty on our part would be a crime against humanity. The character of Gov. Taft and of his associates and subordinates is a proof, if such be needed, of the sincerity of our effort to give the islanders a constantly increasing measure of self-government, exactly as fast as they show themselves fit to exercise it. Since the civil government was established not an appointment has been made in the islands with any reference to considerations of political influence, or to aught else save the fitness of the man and the needs of the service.

In our anxiety for the welfare and progress of the Philippines it may be that here and there we have gone too rapidly in giving them local self-government. It is on this side that our error, if any, has been committed. No competent observer, sincerely desirous of finding out the facts and influenced only by a desire for the welfare of the natives, can assert that we have not gone far enough. We have gone to the very verge of safety in hastening the process. To have taken a single step farther or faster in advance would have been folly and weakness and might well have been crime. We are extremely anxious that the natives shall show the power of governing themselves. We are anxious, first, for their sakes, and, next, because it relieves us of a great burden. There need not be the slightest fear of our not continuing to give them all the liberty for which they are fit.

The only fear is lest in our overanxiety we give them a degree of independence for which they are unfit, thereby inviting reaction and disaster. As fast as there is any reasonable hope that in a given district the people can govern themselves self-government has been given in that district. There is not a locality fitted for self-government which has not received it. But it may well be that in certain cases it will have to be withdrawn because the inhabitants show themselves unfit to exercise it; such instances have already occurred. In other words, there is not the slightest chance of our failing to show a sufficiently humanitarian spirit. The danger comes in the opposite direction.

There are still troubles ahead in the islands. The insurrection has become an affair of local banditti and marauders, who deserve no higher regard than the brigands of portions of the old world. Encouragement, direct or indirect, to these insurgents stands on the same footing as encouragement to hostile Indians in the days when we still had Indian wars. Exactly as our aim is to give to the Indian who remains peaceful the fullest and amplest consideration, but to have it understood that we will show no weakness if he goes on the war-path, so we must make it evident, unless we are false to our own traditions and to the demands of civilization and humanity, that, while we will do everything in our power for the Filipino who is peaceful, we will take the sternest measures with the Filipino who follows the path of the insurrecto and the ladrone.

The heartiest praise is due to large numbers of the natives of the islands for their steadfast loyalty. The Macabebes have been conspicuous for their courage and devotion to the flag. I recommend that the secretary of war be empowered to take some systematic action in the way of aiding those of these men who are crippled in the service and the families of those who are killed.

The time has come when there should be additional legislation for the Philippines. Nothing better can be done for the islands than to introduce industrial enterprises. Nothing would benefit them so much as throwing them open to industrial development. The connection between idleness and mischief is proverbial, and the opportunity to do remunerative work is one of the surest preventives of war. Of course no business man will go into the Philippines unless it is to his interest to do so; and it is immensely to the interest of the islands that he should go in. It is therefore necessary that the congress should pass laws by which the resources of the islands can be developed, so that the franchises (for limited terms of years) can be granted to companies doing business in them and every encouragement be given to the incoming of business men of every kind.

Not to permit this is to do a wrong to the Philippines. The franchises must be granted and the business permitted only under regulations which will guarantee the islands against any kind of improper exploitation. But the vast natural wealth of the islands must be developed, and the capital willing to develop it must be given the opportunity. The field must be thrown open to individual enterprise, which has been the real factor in the development of every region over which our flag has flown. It is urgently necessary to enact suitable laws dealing with general transportation, mining, banking, currency, homesteads and the use and ownership of the lands and timber. These laws will give free play to industrial enterprise, and the commercial development which will surely follow will afford to the people of the islands the best proofs of the sincerity of our desire to aid them.

PACIFIC CABLE.

I call your attention most earnestly to the crying need of a cable to Hawaii and the Philippines, to be continued from the Philippines to points in Asia. We should not defer a day longer than necessary the construction of such a cable. It is demanded not merely for commercial but for political and military considerations.

Either the congress should immediately provide for the construction of a government cable or else an arrangement should be made by which like advantages to those accruing from a government cable may be secured to the government by contract with a private cable company.

ISTHMIAN CANAL TREATY.

No single great material work which remains to be undertaken on this continent is of such consequence to the American people as the building of a canal across the isthmus connecting North and South America. Its importance to the nation is by no means limited merely to its material effects upon our business prosperity; and yet with a view to these effects alone it would be to the last degree important for us immediately to begin it. While its beneficial effects would perhaps be most marked upon the Pacific coast and the gulf and south Atlantic states, it would also greatly benefit other sections. It is emphatically a work which it is for the interest of the entire country to begin and complete as soon as possible; it is one of those great works which only a great nation can undertake with prospects of success and which when done are not only permanent assets in the nation's material interests but standing monuments to its constructive ability.

I am glad to be able to announce to you that our negotiations on this subject with Great Britain, conducted on both sides in a spirit of friendliness and mutual good will and respect, have resulted in my being able to lay before the senate a treaty which, if ratified, will enable us to begin preparations for an isthmus canal at any time, and which guarantees to this nation every right that it has ever asked in connection with the canal. In this treaty the old Clayton-Bulwer treaty, so long recognized as inadequate to supply the base for the construction and maintenance of a necessarily American ship canal, is abrogated. It specifically provides that the United States alone shall do the work of building and assume the responsibility of safeguarding the canal and shall regulate its neutral use by all nations on terms of equality from any quarter. The signed treaty will at once be laid before the senate and if approved the congress can then proceed to give effect to the advantages it secures us by providing for the building of the canal.

THE MONROE DOCTRINE.

The true end of every great and free people should be self-respecting peace; and this nation most earnestly desires sincere and cordial friendship with all others. Over the entire world, of recent years, wars between the great civilized powers have become less and less frequent. Wars with barbarous or semibarbarous peoples come in an entirely different category, being merely a most regrettable but necessary international police duty which must be performed for the sake of the welfare of mankind. Peace can only be kept with certainty where both sides wish to keep it; but more and more the civilized peoples are realizing that condition of just and intelligent regard for the rights of others which will in the end, as we hope and believe, make world-wide peace possible. The peace conference at The Hague gave definite expression to this hope and belief and marked a stride toward their attainment.

This same peace conference acquiesced in our statement of the Monroe doctrine as compatible with the purposes and aims of the conference.

The Monroe doctrine should be the cardinal feature of the foreign policy of all the nations of the two Americas, as it is of the United States. Just seventy-eight years have passed since President Monroe in his annual message announced that "the American continents are henceforth not to be considered as subjects for future colonization by any European power." In other words, the Monroe doctrine is a declaration that there must be no territorial aggrandizement by any non-American power at the expense of any American power on American soil. It is in nowise intended as hostile to any nation in the old world. Still less is it intended to give cover to any aggression by one new-world power at the expense of any other. It is simply a step, and a long step, toward assuring the universal peace of the world by securing the possibility of permanent peace on this hemisphere.

During the last century other influences have established the permanence and independence of the smaller states of Europe. Through the Monroe doctrine we hope to be able to safeguard like independence and secure like permanence for the lesser among the new world nations.

This doctrine has nothing to do with the commercial relations of any American power save that it in truth allows each of them to form such as it desires. In other words, it is really a guaranty of the commercial independence of the Americas. We do not ask under this doctrine for any exclusive commercial dealings with any other American state. We do not guarantee any state against punishment if it misconducts itself, provided that punishment does not take the form of the acquisition of territory by any non-American power.

Our attitude in Cuba is a sufficient guaranty of our own good faith. We have not the slightest desire to secure any territory at the expense of any of our neighbors. We wish to work with them hand in hand, so that all of us may be uplifted together, and we rejoice over the good fortune of any of them, we gladly hail their material prosperity and political stability and are concerned and alarmed if any of them falls into industrial or political chaos. We do not wish to see any old world military power grow up on this continent or to be compelled to become a military power ourselves. The people of the Americas can prosper best if left to work out their own salvation in their own way.

THE NAVY.

The work of upbuilding the navy must be steadily continued. No one point of our policy, foreign or domestic, is more important than this to the honor and material welfare and above all to the peace of our nation in the future. Whether we desire it or not we must henceforth recognize that we have international duties no less than international rights. Even if our flag were hauled down in the Philippines and Porto Rico, even if we decided not to build the isthmian canal, we should need a thoroughly trained navy of adequate size, or else be prepared definitely and for all time to abandon the idea that our nation is among those whose sons go down to the sea in ships. Unless our commerce is always to be carried in foreign bottoms we must have war craft to protect it.

Inasmuch, however, as the American people have no thought of abandoning the path upon which they have entered, and especially in view of the fact that the building of the isthmian canal is fast becoming one of the matters which the whole people are united in demanding, it is imperative that our navy should be put and kept in the highest state of efficiency and should be made to answer to our growing needs. So far from being in any way a provocation to war, an adequate and highly trained navy is the best guaranty against war. the cheapest and most effective peace insurance. The cost of building and maintaining such a navy represents the very lightest premium for insuring peace which this nation can possibly pay.

Probably no other great nation in the world is so anxious for peace as we are. There is not a single civilized power which has anything whatever to fear from aggressiveness on our part. All we want is peace; and toward this end we wish to be able to secure the same respect for our rights from others which we are eager and anxious to extend to their rights in return, to insure fair treatment to us commercially and to guarantee the safety of the American people.

Our people intend to abide by the Monroe doctrine and to insist upon it as the one sure means of securing the peace of the western hemisphere. The navy offers us the only means of making our insistence upon the Monroe doctrine anything but a subject of derision to whatever nation chooses to disregard it. We desire the peace which comes as of right to the just man armed; not the peace granted on terms of ignominy to the craven and the weakling.

It is not possible to improvise a navy after war breaks out. The ships must be built and the men trained long in advance. Some auxiliary vessels can be turned into makeshifts which will do in default of any better for the minor work, and a proportion of raw men can be mixed with the highly trained, their shortcomings being made good by the skill of their fellows; but the efficient fighting force of the navy when pitted against an equal opponent will be found almost exclusively in the warships that have been regularly built and in the officers and men who, through years of faithful performance of sea duty, have been trained to handle their formidable but complex and delicate weapons with the highest efficiency. In the late war with Spain the ships that dealt the decisive blows at Manila and Santiago had been launched from two to fourteen years and they were able to do as they did because the men in the conning towers, the gun turrets and the engine rooms had through long years of practice at sea learned how to do their duty.

Our present navy was begun in 1882. At that period our navy consisted of a collection of antiquated wooden ships, already almost as out of place against modern war vessels as the galleys of Alcibiades and Hamular—certainly as the ships of Tromp and Blake. Nor at that time did we have men fit to handle a modern man-of-war. Under the wise legislation of the congress and the successful administration of a succession of patriotic secretaries of the navy, belonging to both political parties, the work of upbuilding the navy went on and ships equal to any in the world of their kind were continually added; and what was even more important, these ships were exercised at sea singly and in squadrons until the men aboard them were able to get the best possible service out of them. The result was seen in the short war with Spain, which was decided with such rapidity because of the infinitely greater preparedness of our navy than of the Spanish navy.

While awarding the fullest honor to the men who actually commanded and manned the ships which destroyed the Spanish sea forces in the Philippines and in Cuba, we must not forget that an equal meed of praise belongs to those without whom neither blow could have been struck. The congressmen who voted years in advance the money to lay down the ships, to build the guns, to buy the armor plate; the department officials and the business men and wage-workers who furnished what the congress had authorized; the secretaries of the navy who asked for and expended the appropriations; and finally the officers who, in fair weather and foul, on actual sea service, trained and disciplined the crews of the ships when there was no war in sight—all are entitled to a full share in the glory of Manila and Santiago and the respect accorded by every true American to those who wrought such signal triumph for our country. It was forethought and preparation which secured us the overwhelming triumph of 1898. If we fail to show forethought and preparation now there may come a time when disaster will befall us instead of triumph; and should this time come the fault will rest primarily not upon those whom the accident of events puts in supreme command at the moment but upon those who have failed to prepare in advance.

There should be no cessation in the work of completing our navy. So far ingenuity has been wholly unable to devise a substitute for the great war craft whose hammering guns beat out the mastery of the high seas. It is unsafe and unwise not to provide this year for several additional battleships and heavy armored cruisers, with auxiliary and lighter craft in proportion; for the exact numbers and character I refer you to the report of the secretary of the navy. But there is something we need even more than additional ships, and this is additional officers and men. To provide battleships and cruisers and then lay them up, with the expectation of leaving them unmanned until they are needed in actual war, would be worse than folly; it would be a crime against the nation.

To send any warship against a competent enemy unless those aboard it have been trained by years of actual sea service, including incessant gunnery practice, would be to invite not merely disaster but the bitterest shame and humiliation. Four thousand additional seamen and 1,000 additional marines should be provided; and an increase in the officers should be provided by making a large addition to the classes at Annapolis. There is one small matter which should be mentioned in connection with Annapolis. The pretentious and unmeaning title of "naval cadet" should be abolished; the title of "midshipman," full of historic association, should be restored.

Even in time of peace a warship should be used until it wears out, for only so can it be kept fit to respond to any emergency. The officers and men alike should be kept as much as possible on blue water, for it is there only they can learn their duties as they should be learned. The big vessels should be maneuvered in squadrons containing not merely battleships but the necessary proportion of cruisers and scouts. The torpedo boats should be handled by the younger officers in such manner as will best fit the latter to take responsibility and meet the emergencies of actual warfare.

Every detail ashore which can be performed by a civilian should be so performed, the officer being kept for his special duty in the sea service. Above all, gunnery practice should be unceasing. It is important to have our navy of adequate size, but it is even more important that ship for ship it should equal in efficiency any navy in the world. This is possible only with highly drilled crews and officers, and this in turn imperatively demands continuous and progressive instruction in target practice, ship handling, squadron tactics and general discipline. Our ships must be assembled in squadrons actively cruising away from harbors and never long at anchor. The resulting wear upon engines and hulls must be endured; a battleship worn out in long training of officers and men is well paid for by the results, while, on the other hand, no matter in how excellent condition, it is useless if the crew be not expert.

We now have seventeen battleships appropriated for, of which nine are completed and have been commissioned for actual service. The remaining eight will be ready in from two to four years, but it will take at least that time to recruit and train the men to fight them. It is of vast concern that we have trained crews ready for the vessels by the time they are commissioned. Good ships and good guns are simply good weapons, and the best weapons are useless save in the hands of men who know how to fight with them. The men must be trained and drilled under a thorough and well-planned system of progressive instruction, while the recruiting must be carried on with still greater vigor. Every effort must war efficiency and a proper efficiency of the officer—the command of men. The leading graduates of the naval academy should be assigned to the combatant branches, the line and marines.

Many of the essentials of success are already recognized by the general board, which, as the central office of a growing staff, is moving steadily toward a proper war efficiency and a proper efficiency of the whole navy, under the secretary. This general board, by fostering the creation of a general staff, is providing for the official and then the general recognition of our altered conditions as a nation and of the true meaning of a great war fleet, which meaning is, first, the best men, and, second, the best ships.

The naval militia forces are state organizations and are trained for coast service, and in the event of war they will constitute the inner line of defense. They should receive hearty encouragement from the general government.

But in addition we should at once provide for a national naval reserve, organized and trained under the direction of the navy department and subject to the call of the chief executive whenever war becomes imminent. It should be a real auxiliary to the naval seagoing peace establishment and offer material to be drawn on at once for manning our ships in time of war. It should be composed of graduates of the naval academy, graduates of the naval militia, officers and crews of coastline steamers, longshore schooners, fishing vessels and steam yachts, together with the coast population about such centers as life-saving stations and lighthouses.

The American people must either build and maintain an adequate navy or else make up their minds definitely to accept a secondary position in international affairs, not merely in political but in commercial matters. It has been well said that there is no surer way of courting national disaster than to be "opulent, aggressive and unarmed."

THE ARMY.

It is not necessary to increase our army beyond its present size at this time. But it is necessary to keep it at the highest point of efficiency. The individual units who as officers and enlisted men compose this army are, we have good reason to believe, at least as efficient as those of any other army in the entire world. It is our duty to see that their training is of a kind to insure the highest possible expression of power to these units when acting in combination.

The conditions of modern war are such as to make an infinitely heavier demand than ever before upon the individual character and capacity of the officer and the enlisted man and to make it far more difficult for men to act together with effect. At present the fighting must be done in extended order, which means that each man must act for himself and at the same time act in combination with others with whom he is no longer in the old-fashioned elbow-to-elbow touch. Under such conditions a few men of the highest excellence are worth more than many men without the special skill which is only found as the result of special training applied to men of exceptional physique and morale. But nowadays the most valuable fighting man and the most difficult to perfect is the rifleman who is also a skillful and daring rider.

The proportion of our cavalry regiments has wisely been increased. The American cavalryman, trained to maneuver and fight with equal facility on foot and on horseback, is the best type of soldier for general purposes now to be found in the world. The ideal cavalryman of the present day is a man who can fight on foot as effectively as the best infantryman and who is in addition unsurpassed in the care and management of his horse and in his ability to fight on horseback.

A general staff should be created. As for the present staff and supply departments, they should be filled by details from the line, the men so detailed returning after awhile to their line duties. It is very undesirable to have the senior grades of the army composed of men who have come to fill the positions by the mere fact of seniority. A system should be adopted by which there shall be an elimination grade by grade of those who seem unfit to render the best service in the next grade. Justice to the veterans of the civil war who are still in the army would seem to require that in the matter of retirements they be given by law the same privileges accorded to their comrades in the navy.

The process of elimination of the least fit should be conducted in a manner that would render it practically impossible to apply political or social pressure on behalf of any candidate, so that each man may be judged purely on his own merits. Pressure for the promotion of civil officials for political reasons is bad enough, but it is tenfold worse where applied on behalf of officers of the army or navy. Every promotion and every detail under the war department must be made solely with regard to the good of the service and to the capacity and merit of the man himself. No pressure, political, social or personal, of any kind will be permitted to exercise the least effect in any question of promotion or detail; and if there is reason to believe that such pressure is exercised at the instigation of the officer concerned it will be held to militate against him. In our army we cannot afford to have rewards or duties distributed save on the simple ground that those who by their own merits are entitled to the rewards get them, and that those who are peculiarly fit to do the duties are chosen to perform them.

Every effort should be made to bring the army to a constantly increasing state of efficiency. When on actual service no work save that directly in the line of such service should be required. The paper work in the army, as in the navy, should be greatly reduced. What is needed is proved power of command and capacity to work well in the field. Constant care is necessary to prevent dry rot in the transportation and commissary departments.

Our army is so small and so much scattered that it is very difficult to give the higher officers (as well as the lower officers and the enlisted men) a chance to practice maneuvers in mass and on a comparatively large scale. In time of need no amount of individual excellence would avail against the paralysis which would follow inability to work as a coherent whole under skillful and daring leadership. The congress should provide means whereby it will be possible to have field exercises by at least a division of regulars, and if possible also a division of national guardsmen, once a year. These exercises might take the form of field maneuvers, or, if on the gulf coast or the Pacific or Atlantic seaboard, or in the region of the great lakes, the army corps when assembled could be marched from some inland point to some point on the water, there embarked, disembarked after a couple of days' journey at some other point and again marched inland. Only by actual handling and providing for men in masses while they are marching, camping, embarking and disembarking will it be possible to train the higher officers to perform their duties well and smoothly.

A great debt is owing from the public to the men of the army and navy. They should be so treated as to enable them to reach the highest point of efficiency, so that they may be able to respond instantly to any demand made upon them to sustain the interests of the nation and the honor of the flag. The individual American enlisted man is probably on the whole a more formidable fighting man than the regular of any other army. Every consideration should be shown him, and in return the highest standard of usefulness should be exacted from him. It is well worth while for the congress to consider whether the pay of enlisted men upon second and subsequent enlistments should not be increased to correspond with the increased value of the veteran soldier.

Much good has already come from the act reorganizing the army passed early in the present year. The three prime reforms, all of them of literally incalculable value, are, first, the substitution of four-year details from the line for permanent appointments in the so-called staff divisions; second, the establishment of a corps of artillery with a chief at the head; third, the establishment of a maximum and minimum limit for the army. It would be difficult to overestimate the improvement in the efficiency of our army which these three reforms are making and have in part already effected.

The reorganization provided for by the act has been substantially accomplished. The improved conditions in the Philippines have enabled the war department materially to reduce the military charge upon our revenue and to arrange the number of soldiers so as to bring this number much nearer to the minimum than to the maximum limit established by law. There is, however, need of supplementary legislation. Thorough military education must be provided and in addition to the regulars the advantages of this education should be given to the officers of the national guard and others in civil life who desire intelligently to fit themselves for possible military duty. The officers should be given the chance to perfect themselves by study in the higher branches of this art. At West Point the education should be of the kind most apt to turn out men who are good in actual field service; too much stress should not be laid on mathematics, nor should proficiency therein be held to establish the right of entry to a corps d'elite. The typical American officer of the best kind need not be a good mathematician, but he must be able to master himself, to control others and to show boldness and fertility of resource in every emergency.

Action should be taken in reference to the militia and to the raising of volunteer forces. Our militia law is obsolete and worthless. The organization and armament of the national guard of the several states, which are treated as militia in the appropriations by the congress, should be made identical with those provided for the regular forces. The obligations and duties of the guard in time of war should be carefully defined and a system established by law under which the method of procedure of raising volunteer forces should be prescribed in advance. It is utterly impossible in the excitement and haste of impending war to do this satisfactorily if the arrangements have not been made long beforehand. Provision should be made for utilizing in the first volunteer organizations called out the training of those citizens who have already had experience under arms and especially for the selection in advance of the officers of any force which may be raised, for careful selection of the kind necessary is impossible after the outbreak of war.

That the army is not at all a mere instrument of destruction has been shown during the last three years. In the Philippines, Cuba and Porto Rico it has proved itself a great constructive force, a most potent implement for the upbuilding of a peaceful civilization.

No other citizens deserve so well of the republic as the veterans, the survivors of those who saved the union. They did the one deed which if left undone would have meant that all else in our history went for nothing. But for their steadfast prowess in the greatest crisis of our history all our annals would be meaningless and our great experiment in popular freedom and self-government a gloomy failure. Moreover, they not only left us a united nation but they left us also as a heritage the memory of the mighty deeds by which the nation was kept united. We are now indeed one nation, one in fact as well as in name; we are united in our devotion to the flag which is the symbol of national greatness and unity; and the very completeness of our union enables us all, in every part of the country, to glory in the valor shown alike by the sons of the north and the sons of the south in the times that tried men's souls.

The men who in the last three years have done so well in the East and West Indies and on the mainland of Asia have shown that this remembrance is not lost. In any serious crisis the United States must rely for the great mass of its fighting men upon the volunteer soldiery who do not make a permanent profession of the military career; and whenever such a crisis arises the deathless memories of the civil war will give to Americans the lift of lofty purpose which comes to those whose fathers have stood valiantly in the forefront of the battle.

MERIT SYSTEM.

The merit system of making appointments is in its essence as democratic and American as the common-school system itself. It simply means that in clerical and other positions where the duties are entirely non-political all applicants should have a fair field and no favor, each standing on his merits as he is able to show them by practical test. Written competitive examinations offer the only available means in many cases for applying this system. In other cases, as where laborers are employed, a system of registration undoubtedly can be widely extended. There are, of course, places where the written competitive examination cannot be applied, and others where it offers by no means an ideal solution, but where under existing political conditions it is, though an imperfect means, yet the best present means of getting satisfactory results.

Wherever the conditions have permitted the application of the merit system in its fullest and widest sense the gain to the government has been immense. The navy yards and postal service illustrate, probably better than any other branches of the government, the great gain in economy, efficiency and honesty due to the enforcement of this principle.

I recommend the passage of a law which will extend the classified service to the District of Columbia, or will at least enable the president thus to extend it. In my judgment all laws providing for the temporary employment of clerks should hereafter contain a provision that they be selected under the civil-service law.

It is important to have this system obtain at home, but it is even more important to have it applied rigidly in our insular possessions. Not an office should be filled in the Philippines or Porto Rico with any regard to the man's partisan affiliations or services, with any regard to the political, social or personal influence which he may have at his command; in short, heed should be paid to absolutely nothing save the man's own character and capacity and the needs of the service.

The administration of these islands should be as wholly free from the suspicion of partisan politics as the administration of the army and navy. All that we ask from the public servant in the Philippines or Porto Rico is that he reflect honor on his country by the way in which he makes that country's rule a benefit to the peoples who have come under it. This is all that we should ask, and we cannot afford to be content with less.

The merit system is simply one method of securing honest and efficient administration of the government, and in the long run the sole justification of any type of government lies in its proving itself both honest and efficient.

CONSULAR SERVICE.

The consular service is now organized under the provisions of a law passed in 1856, which is entirely inadequate to existing conditions. The interest shown by so many commercial bodies throughout the country in the reorganization of the service is heartily commended to your attention. Several bills providing for a new consular service have in recent years been submitted to the congress. They are based upon the just principle that appointments to the service should be made only after a practical test of the applicant's fitness, that promotions should be governed by trustworthiness, adaptability and zeal in the performance of duty, and that the tenure of office should be unaffected by partisan considerations.

The guardianship and fostering of our rapidly expanding foreign commerce, the protection of American citizens resorting to foreign countries in lawful pursuit of their affairs, and the maintenance of the dignity of the nation abroad, combine to make it essential that our consuls should be men of character, knowledge and enterprise. It is true that the service is now, in the main, efficient, but a standard of excellence cannot be permanently maintained until the principles set forth in the bills heretofore submitted to the congress on this subject are enacted into law.

THE INDIANS.

In my judgment the time has arrived when we should definitely make up our minds to recognize the Indian as an individual and not as a member of a tribe. The general allotment act is a mighty pulverizing engine to break up the tribal mass. It acts directly upon the family and the individual. Under its provisions some 60,000 Indians have already become citizens of the United States. We should now break up the tribal funds, doing for them what allotment does for the tribal lands; that is, they should be divided into individual holdings. There will be a transition period during which the funds will in many cases have to be held in trust. This is the case also with the lands. A stop should be put upon the indiscriminate permission to Indians to lease their allotments. The effort should be steadily to make the Indian work like any other man on his own ground. The marriage laws of the Indians should be made the same as those of the whites.

In the schools the education should be elementary and largely industrial. The need of higher education among the Indians is very, very limited. On the reservations care should be taken to try to suit the teaching to the needs of the particular Indian. There is no use in attempting to induce agriculture in a country suited only for cattle raising where the Indian should be made a stock grower. The ration system, which is merely the corral and the reservation system, is highly detrimental to the Indians. It promotes beggary, perpetuates pauperism and stifles industry. It is an effectual barrier to progress. It must continue to a greater or less degree as long as tribes are herded on reservations and have everything in common. The Indian should be treated as an individual—like the white man. During the change of treatment inevitable hardships will occur; every effort should be made to minimize these hardships, but we should not because of them hesitate to make the change. There should be a continuous reduction in the number of agencies.

In dealing with the aboriginal races few things are more important than to preserve them from the terrible physical and moral degradation resulting from the liquor traffic. We are doing all we can to save our own Indian tribes from this evil. Wherever by international agreement this same end can be attained as regards races where we do not possess exclusive control every effort should be made to bring it about.

EXPOSITIONS.

I bespeak the most cordial support from the congress and the people for the St. Louis exposition to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the Louisiana purchase. This purchase was the greatest instance of expansion in our history. It definitely decided that we were to become a great continental republic, by far the foremost power in the western hemisphere. It is one of three or four great landmarks in our history—the great turning points in our development. It is eminently fitting that all our people should join with heartiest good will in commemorating it, and the citizens of St. Louis, of Missouri, of all the adjacent region are entitled to every aid in making the celebration a noteworthy event in our annals. We earnestly hope that foreign nations will appreciate the deep interest our country takes in this exposition and our view of its importance from every standpoint and that they will participate in securing its success. The national government should be represented by a full and complete set of exhibits.

The people of Charleston, with great energy and civic spirit, are carrying on an exposition which will continue throughout most of the present session of the congress. I heartily commend this exposition to the good will of the people. It deserves all the encouragement that can be given it. The managers of the Charleston exposition have requested the cabinet officers to place thereat the government exhibits which have been at Buffalo, promising to pay the necessary expenses. I have taken the responsibility of directing that this be done, for I feel that it is due to Charleston to help her in her praiseworthy effort. In my opinion the management should not be required to pay all these expenses. I earnestly recommend that the congress appropriate at once the small sum necessary for this purpose.

The Pan-American exposition at Buffalo has just closed. Both from the industrial and the artistic standpoint this exposition has been in a high degree creditable and useful not merely to Buffalo but to the United States. The terrible tragedy of the president's assassination interfered materially with its being a financial success. The exposition was peculiarly in harmony with the trend of our public policy, because it represented an effort to bring into closer touch all the peoples of the western hemisphere and give them an increasing sense of unity. Such an effort was a genuine service to the entire American public.

EDUCATION.

The advancement of the highest interests of national science and learning and the custody of objects of art and of the valuable results of scientific expeditions conducted by the United States have been committed to the Smithsonian institution. In furtherance of its declared purpose—for the "increase and diffusion of knowledge among men"—the congress has from time to time given it other important functions. Such trusts have been executed by the institution with notable fidelity. There should be no halt in the work of the institution, in accordance with the plans which its secretary has presented, for the preservation of the vanishing races of great North American animals in the national zoological park. The urgent needs of the national museum are recommended to the favorable consideration of the congress.

Perhaps the most characteristic educational movement of the past fifty years is that which has created the modern public library and developed it into broad and active service. There are now over 5,000 public libraries in the United States, the product of this period. In addition to accumulating material they are also striving by organization, by improvement in method and by co-operation to give greater efficiency to the material they hold, to make it more widely useful, and by avoidance of unnecessary duplication in process to reduce the cost of its administration.

In these efforts they naturally look for assistance to the federal library, which, though still the library of congress, and so entitled, is the one national library of the United States. Already the largest single collection of books on the western hemisphere, and certain to increase more rapidly than any other through purchase, exchange and the operation of the copyright law, this library has a unique opportunity to render to the libraries of this country—to American scholarship—service of the highest importance. It is housed in a building which is the largest and most magnificent yet erected for library uses. Resources are now being provided which will develop the collection properly, equip it with the apparatus and service necessary to its effective use, render its bibliographic work widely available and enable it to become not merely a center of research but the chief factor in great co-operative efforts for the diffusion of knowledge and the advancement of learning.

For the sake of good administration, sound economy and the advancement of science the census office as now constituted should be made a permanent government bureau. This would insure better, cheaper and more satisfactory work, in the interest not only of our business but of statistical, economic and social science.

POSTAL SERVICE.

The remarkable growth of the postal service is shown in the fact that its revenues have doubled and its expenditures have nearly doubled within twelve years. Its progressive development compels constantly increasing outlay, but in this period of business energy and prosperity its receipts grow so much faster than its expenses that the annual deficit has been steadily reduced from $11,411,779 in 1897 to $3,923,727 in 1901. Among recent postal advances the success of rural free delivery wherever established has been so marked, and actual experience has made its benefits so plain, that the demand for its extension is general and urgent.

It is just that the great agricultural population should share in the improvement of the service. The number of rural routes now in operation is 6,009, practically all established within three years, and there are 6,000 applications awaiting action. It is expected that the number in operation at the close of the current fiscal year will reach 8,600. The mail will then be daily carried to the doors of 5,700,000 of our people who have heretofore been dependent upon distant offices, and one-third of all that portion of the country which is adapted to it will be covered by this kind of service.

The full measure of postal progress which might be realized has long been hampered and obstructed by the heavy burden imposed on the government through the entrenched and well-understood abuses which have grown up in connection with second-class mail matter. The extent of this burden appears when it is stated that while the second-class matter makes nearly three-fifths of the weight of all the mail, it paid for the last fiscal year only $4,294,445 of the aggregate postal revenue of $111,631,193. If the pound rate of postage, which produces the large loss thus entailed, and which was fixed by the congress with the purpose of encouraging the dissemination of public information, were limited to the legitimate newspapers and periodicals actually contemplated by the law, no just exception could be taken. That expense would be the recognized and accepted cost of a liberal public policy deliberately adopted for a justifiable end. But much of the matter which enjoys the privileged rate is wholly outside of the intent of the law and has secured admission only through an evasion of its requirements or through lax construction. The proportion of such wrongly included matter is estimated by postal experts to be one-half of the whole volume of second-class mail. If it be only one-third or one-quarter, the magnitude of the burden is apparent. The postoffice department has now undertaken to remove the abuses so far as is possible by a stricter application of the law, and it should be sustained in its effort.

AFFAIRS IN CHINA.

Owing to the rapid growth of our power and our interests on the Pacific, whatever happens in China must be of the keenest national concern to us.

The general terms of the settlement of the questions growing out of the anti-foreign uprisings in China of 1900, having been formulated in a joint note addressed to China by the representatives of the injured powers in December last, were promptly accepted by the Chinese government. After protracted conferences the plenipotentiaries of the several powers were able to sign a final protocol with the Chinese plenipotentiaries on the 7th of last September, setting forth the measures taken by China in compliance with the demands of the joint note, and expressing their satisfaction therewith. It will be laid before the congress with a report of the plenipotentiary on behalf of the United States, Mr. William Woodville Rockhill, to whom high praise is due for the tact, good judgment and energy he has displayed in performing an exceptionally difficult and delicate task.

The agreement reached disposes in a manner satisfactory to the powers of the various grounds of complaint, and will contribute materially to better future relations between China and the powers. Reparation has been made by China for the murder of foreigners during the uprising and punishment has been inflicted on the officials, however high in rank, recognized as responsible for or having participated in the outbreak. Official examinations have been forbidden for a period of five years in all cities in which foreigners have been murdered or cruelly treated, and edicts have been issued making all officials directly responsible for the future safety of foreigners and for the suppression of violence against them.

Provisions have been made for insuring the future safety of the foreign representatives of Peking by setting aside for their exclusive use a quarter of the city which the powers can make defensible and in which they can if necessary maintain permanent military guards; by dismantling the military works between the capital and the sea; and by allowing the temporary maintenance of foreign military posts along this line. An edict has been issued by the emperor of China prohibiting for two years the importation of arms and ammunition into China. China has agreed to pay adequate indemnities to the states, societies and individuals for the losses sustained by them and for the expenses of the military expeditions sent by the various powers to protect life and restore order.

Under the provisions of the joint note of December, 1900, China has agreed to revise the treaties of commerce and navigation and to take such other steps for the purpose of facilitating foreign trade as the foreign powers may decide to be needed.

The Chinese government has agreed to participate financially in the work of bettering the water approaches to Shanghai and to Tientsin, the centers of foreign trade in central and northern China, and an international conservancy board, in which the Chinese government is largely represented, has been provided for the improvement of the Shanghai river and the control of its navigation. In the same line of commercial advantages a revision of the present tariff on imports has been assented to for the purpose of substituting specific for ad valorem duties, and an expert has been sent abroad on the part of the United States to assist in this work. A list of articles to remain free of duty, including flour, cereals and rice, gold and silver coin and bullion, has also been agreed upon in the settlement.

During these troubles our government has unwaveringly advocated moderation and has materially aided in bringing about an adjustment which tends to enhance the welfare of China and to lead to a more beneficial intercourse between the empire and the modern world, while in the critical period of revolt and massacre we did our full share in safeguarding life and property, restoring order and vindicating the national interest and honor. It behooves us to continue in these paths, doing what lies in our power to foster feelings of good will, and leaving no effort untried to work out the great policy of full and fair intercourse between China and the nations, on a footing of equal rights and advantages to all. We advocate the "open door" with all that it implies; not merely the procurement of enlarged commercial opportunities on the coasts but access to the interior by the waterways with which China has been so extraordinarily favored. Only by bringing the people of China into peaceful and friendly community of trade with all the peoples of the earth can the work now auspiciously begun be carried to fruition. In the attainment of this purpose we necessarily claim parity of treatment under the conventions throughout the empire for our trade and our citizens with those of all other powers.

PAN-AMERICAN CONGRESS.

We view with lively interest and keen hopes of beneficial results the proceedings of the Pan-American congress, convoked at the invitation of Mexico, and now sitting at the Mexican capital. The delegates of the United States are under the most liberal instructions to co-operate with their colleagues in all matters promising advantage to the great family of American commonwealths, as well in their relations among themselves as in their domestic advancement in their intercourse with the world at large.

My predecessor communicated to the congress the fact that the Weil and L'Abra awards against Mexico have been adjudged by the highest courts of our country to have been obtained through fraud and perjury on the part of the claimants, and that in accordance with the acts of the congress the money remaining in the hands of the secretary of state on these awards has been returned to Mexico. A considerable portion of the money received from Mexico on these awards had been paid by this government to the claimants before the decision of the courts was rendered. My judgment is that the congress should return to Mexico an amount equal to the sums thus already paid to the claimants.

The death of Queen Victoria caused the people of the United States deep and heartfelt sorrow, to which the government gave full expression. When President McKinley died our nation in turn received from every quarter of the British empire expressions of grief and sympathy no less sincere. The death of the Empress Dowager Frederick of Germany also aroused the genuine sympathy of the American people, and this sympathy was cordially reciprocated by Germany when the president was assassinated. Indeed, from every quarter of the civilized world we received, at the time of the president's death, assurances of such grief and regard as to touch the hearts of our people. In the midst of our affliction we reverently thank the Almighty that we are at peace with the nations of mankind and we firmly intend that our policy shall be such as to continue unbroken these international relations of mutual respect and good will.

THE ISTHMIAN CANAL.

MAP SHOWING NICARAGUA CANAL ROUTE.

Great Britain refused to ratify the Hay-Pauncefote canal treaty of 1900 on the ground that the amendments made by the United States senate nullifying the neutrality provisions were unsatisfactory. After the adjournment of congress in March negotiations were entered into for a new treaty and early in the fall an agreement was reached. The document was signed by Secretary Hay and Lord Pauncefote Nov. 18, 1901, and laid before the senate by the president Dec. 4. At the same time the report of the isthmian canal commission favoring the Nicaragua route for the canal was sent to congress. The commission estimates the total cost of the undertaking at $189,864,062 and the time for the completion of the work at eight years, including two years of preparation. The total length of the Nicaragua route is 183.66 miles. The Panama route is 49.09 miles long and the report estimates the cost of completing the canal at $144,233,358, but as the concession cannot be secured for less than $109,141,000 the route is rejected.

HAY-PAUNCEFOTE TREATY.

The text of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty of 1901 is as follows:

The United States of America and his majesty Edward VII. of the united kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and of the British dominions beyond the seas, king and emperor of India, being desirous to facilitate the construction of a ship canal to connect the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, by whatever route may be considered expedient, and to that end to remove any objection which may arise out of the convention of the 19th of April, 1850, commonly called the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, to the construction of such canal under the auspices of the government of the United States without impairing the "general principle" of neutralization established in article 8 of that convention, have for that purpose appointed as their plenipotentiaries:

The president of the United States; John Hay, secretary of state of the United States of America, and his majesty Edward VII. of the united kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and of the British dominions beyond the seas, king and emperor of India; the Rt.-Hon. Lord Pauncefote, G. C. B., G. C. M. G., his majesty's ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary to the United States;

Who, having communicated to each other their full powers, which were found to be in due and proper form, have agreed upon the following articles:

Article I. The high contracting parties agree that the present treaty shall supersede the aforementioned convention of the 19th of April, 1850.

Art. II. It is agreed that the canal may be constructed under the auspices of the government of the United States, either directly at its own cost or by gift or loan of money to individuals or corporations or through subscription to or purchase of stock or shares, and that, subject to the provisions of the present treaty, the said government shall have and enjoy all the rights incident to such construction, as well as the exclusive right of providing for the regulation and management of the canal.

Art. III. The United States adopts as the basis of the neutralization of such ship canal the following rules, substantially as embodied in the convention of Constantinople, signed the 28th of October, 1888, for the free navigation of the Suez canal, that is to say:

1. The canal shall be free and open to the vessels of commerce and of war of all nations observing these rules on terms of entire equality, so that there shall be no discrimination against any nation or its citizens or subjects in respect of the conditions or charges of traffic or otherwise. Such conditions and charges of traffic shall be just and equitable.

2. The canal shall never be blockaded nor shall any right of war be exercised nor any act of hostility be committed within it. The United States, however, shall be at liberty to maintain such military police along the canal as may be necessary to protect it against lawlessness and disorder.

3. Vessels of war of a belligerent shall not revictual nor take any stores in the canal except so far as may be strictly necessary, and the transit of such vessels through the canal shall be effected with the least possible delay in accordance with the regulations in force, and with only such intimation as may result from the necessities of the service. Prizes shall be in all respects subject to the same rules as vessels of war of the belligerents.

4. No belligerent shall embark or disembark troops, munitions of war or warlike materials used in the canal, except in case of accidental hindrance of the transit, and in such case the transit shall be resumed with all possible dispatch.

5. The provisions of this article shall apply to waters adjacent to the canal, within three marine miles of either end. Vessels of war of a belligerent shall not remain in such waters longer than twenty-four hours at any one time, except in case of distress, and in such case shall depart as soon as possible; but a vessel of war of one belligerent shall not depart within twenty-four hours from the departure of a vessel of war of the other belligerent.

6. The plant, establishments, buildings and all works necessary to the construction, maintenance and operation of the canal shall be deemed to be parts thereof for the purpose of this treaty, and in time of war, as in time of peace, shall enjoy complete immunity from attack or injury by belligerents and from acts calculated to impair their usefulness as part of the canal.

Art. IV. It is agreed that no change of territorial sovereignty or of international relations of the country or countries traversed by the before-mentioned canal shall affect the general principle of neutralization or the obligation of the high contracting parties under the present treaty.

Art. V. The present treaty shall be ratified by the president of the United States, by and with the advice and consent of the senate thereof, and by his Britannic majesty, and the ratifications shall be exchanged at Washington or at London at the earliest possible time within six months from the date hereof.

In faith whereof the respective plenipotentiaries have signed this treaty and hereto affixed their seals.

Done in duplicate at Washington, the eighteenth day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and one.

JOHN HAY (Seal).

PAUNCEFOTE (Seal).

The treaty was ratified by the senate Dec. 16 by a vote of 72 to 6.

PHILIPPINE CASE DECISION.

Dec. 2, 1901, the Supreme court decided two more of the so-called "insular cases," one applying directly to the Philippine islands and the other to Porto Rico and both supplementing the decisions made earlier in the year, the substance of which will be found elsewhere in this volume. That affecting the Philippines was known as the "fourteen diamonds case." A soldier bought some diamonds in the islands and on his arrival in Chicago the gems were seized for nonpayment of duties under the Dingley tariff act. The decision of the lower court that duty must be paid was reversed by the Supreme court, which held that the Philippines became domestic territory immediately upon the ratification of the treaty of peace and that in the absence of legislation by congress duties levied upon the products of the islands were illegal. The right of congress to pass laws for the regulation of the territories was declared to be unrestricted, coming from the constitution itself. It may therefore, if it sees fit, provide a special tariff on goods going to or coming from the Philippines, but until laws are passed no duties can be imposed.

The Porto Rican decision was that relating to the "second Dooley case," involving the legality of the tax at San Juan on goods coming to Porto Rico from the United States. It was decided that this was not an export duty, as Porto Rico was domestic territory, and that the imposition of the tax under the Foraker act was legal.

In the Philippine case Chief Justice Fuller gave the decision, Justices Brown, Brewer, Harlan and Peckham concurring; Justices Gray, Shiras, White and McKenna dissented. In the Porto Rico case Justice Brown gave the decision, Justices Gray, Shiras, White and McKenna concurring and Justices Fuller, Brewer, Harlan and Peckham dissenting.

AFFAIRS IN CHINA.

TERMS OF THE PROTOCOL.

Following is a translation of the essential paragraphs in the protocol signed by the plenipotentiaries of the foreign powers and of China on the 7th of September:

1. Relates to the appointment of Tsai Feng, Prince Chun, to convey to the emperor of Germany the regrets of the Chinese government for the assassination of Baron von Ketteler and the provisions for erecting a monument to his memory on the spot where he was killed in Peking.

2. Relates to the punishments inflicted upon the principal authors of the outrages and crimes committed against the foreign governments and their citizens.

3. Relates to the apology to be conveyed to Japan for the assassination of Mr. Sugiyama.

4. Relates to the erection of expiatory monuments in various cemeteries at a cost to China of 15,000 taels.

5. China has agreed to prohibit the importation into its territory of arms and ammunition, as well as of materials exclusively used for the manufacture of arms and ammunition. An imperial edict has been issued on the 25th of August, 1901, forbidding said importation for a term of two years. New edicts may be issued subsequently extending this by other successive terms of two years in case of necessity recognized by the powers.

6. By an imperial edict dated the 29th of May, 1901, his majesty the emperor of China agreed to pay the powers an indemnity of 450,000,000 Haikwan taels. This sum represents the total amount of the indemnities for states, companies or societies, private individuals and Chinese referred to in article 6 of the note of Dec. 22, 1900.

(a) These 450,000,000 constitute a gold debt calculated at the rate of the Haikwan tael to the gold currency of each country, as indicated below:

HAIKWAN TAEI EQUALS:

Marks	3.055
Austro-Hungarian crown.....	3.595
Gold dollar.....	0.742
Francs	3.750
Pound sterling.....	0.3800
Yen	1.407
Netherlands florin.....	1.796
Gold ruble (17.424 dollars fine)	1.412

This sum in gold shall bear interest at 4 per cent per annum, and the capital shall be reimbursed by China in thirty-nine years (in a manner indicated in an annexed plan of amortization). Capital and interest shall be payable in gold or at the rates of exchange corresponding to the dates at which the different payments fall due. The amortization shall commence the 1st of January, 1902, and shall finish at the end of the year 1940. The amortizations are payable annually, the first payment being fixed on the 1st of January, 1903. Interest shall run from the 1st of July, 1901, but the Chinese government shall have the right to pay off within a term of three years beginning January, 1902, the arrears of the first six months ending the 31st of December, 1901, on condition, however, that it pays compound interest at the rate of 4 per cent per annum on the sums the payments of which shall have thus been deferred. Interest shall be payable semiannually, the first payment being fixed on the 1st of July, 1902.

(b) The service of the debt shall take place in Shanghai, in the following manner: Each power shall be represented by a delegate on a commission of bankers authorized to receive the amount of interest and amortization which shall be paid to it by the Chinese authorities designated for that purpose, to divide it among the interested parties and to give a receipt for the same.

(c) The Chinese government shall deliver to the doyen of the diplomatic corps at Peking a bond for the lump sum, which shall subsequently be converted into fractional bonds bearing the signatures of the delegates of the Chinese government designated for that purpose. This operation and all those relating to issuing of the bonds shall be performed by the above-mentioned commission, in accordance with the instructions which the powers shall send their delegates.

(d) The proceeds of the revenues assigned to the payment of the bonds shall be paid monthly to the commission.

(e) The revenues assigned as security for the bonds are the following: The balance of the revenues of the imperial maritime customs after payment of the interest and amortization of preceding loans secured on these revenues, plus the proceeds of the raising to 5 per cent effective of the present tariff on maritime imports, including articles until now on the free list, but exempting foreign rice, cereals and flour, gold and silver bullion and coin; the revenues of the native customs, administered in the open ports by the imperial maritime customs; the total revenues of the salt gabelle, exclusive of the fraction previously set aside for other foreign loans. The raising of the present tariff on imports to 5 per cent effective is agreed to on the conditions mentioned below. It shall be put in force two months after the signing of the present protocol, and no exception shall be made except for merchandise shipped not more than ten days after the said signing. All duties levied on imports ad valorem shall be converted as far as possible and as soon as may be into specific duties. This conversion shall be made in the following manner: The average value of merchandise at the time of its landing during the three years 1897, 1898 and 1899—that is to say, the market price less the amount of import duties and incidental expenses—shall be taken as the basis for the valuation of merchandise. Pending the result of the work of conversion, duties shall be levied ad valorem. The beds of the rivers Peiho and Whangpoo shall be improved with the financial participation of China.

7. The Chinese government has agreed that the quarter occupied by the legations shall be considered as one specially reserved for their use and placed under their exclusive control, in which Chinese shall not have the right to reside and which may be made defensible. [The limits of the quarter are specified.]

8. The Chinese government has consented to raze the forts of Taku and those which might impede free communication between Peking and the sea; steps have been taken for carrying this out.

9. The Chinese government has conceded the right to the powers in the protocol annexed to the letter of the 16th of January.

1901, to occupy certain points, to be determined by an agreement between them, for the maintenance of open communication between the capital and the sea. The points occupied by the powers are: Huangsun, Langfang, Yangtsun, Tientsin, Chunliang Cheng, Tongku, Lutai, Tongsshan, Lanchou, Changli, Ch'inwang Tao, Shanhaikwan.

10. The Chinese government has agreed to post and have published during two years in all district cities the following imperial edicts:

(a) Edict of the 1st of February, 1901, prohibiting forever, under pain of death, membership in any antiforeign society.

(b) Edicts of the 13th and 21st of February, 29th of April and 19th of August, enumerating the punishments inflicted on the guilty.

(c) Edict of the 19th of August, 1901, prohibiting examinations in all cities where foreigners were massacred or subjected to cruel treatment.

(d) Edict of the 1st of February, 1901, declaring all governors-general, governors and provincial or local officials responsible for order in their respective districts, and that in case of new antiforeign troubles or other infractions of the treaties which shall not be immediately repressed and the authors of which shall not have been punished these officials shall be immediately dismissed without possibility of being given new functions or new honors. The posting of these edicts is being carried on throughout the empire.

11. The Chinese government has agreed to negotiate the amendments deemed necessary by the foreign governments to the treaties of commerce and navigation and the other subjects concerning commercial relations, with the object of facilitating them. [The steps taken for the improvement of the Peiho and Whangpoo rivers are specified.]

12. An Imperial edict of the 24th of July, 1901, reformed the office of foreign affairs, tsung-li yamen, on the lines indicated by the powers; that is to say, transformed it into a ministry of foreign affairs (wai-wu pu), which takes precedence over the six other ministries of state; the same edict appointed the principal members of this ministry. [The remainder of the paragraph relates to the modification of the court ceremonial as regards the reception of foreign representatives, makes the French text of the protocol official and provides for the evacuation of the city of Peking and the province of Chili.]

Peking, 7th September, 1901.

CHRONOLOGY OF THE YEAR.

The Boxer outbreak in China in the spring of 1900, which resulted in foreign intervention and the occupation of Peking by the troops of the United States, Germany, France, Great Britain, Russia, Japan and Italy, was followed in 1901 by protracted negotiations in regard to indemnities for the losses sustained by the legations, missionaries and other foreigners. Conclusions were arrived at with difficulty owing to the usual dilatory tactics of the Chinese and the distance of the fugitive court from the old capital, but the main question was settled in July, when the powers agreed to accept

China's offer to pay an indemnity of 450,000,000 taels (equivalent to about $325,000,000). Other details of the settlement will be found in the following chronology of events:

Jan. 1—Execution of the Chinese soldier who killed Baron von Ketteler, German minister to China.

14—Prince Ching and Li Hung Chang, by order of the court, sign the joint note of the powers providing for the preliminary conditions of peace and arranging for future negotiations. Death of twelve officials concerned in the Boxer massacres demanded.

Feb. 6—Foreign ministers at Peking agree to except Prince Tuan, Duke Lan and Tung Fu Siang from the list of officials to be executed.

25—Ying Lien and Chao Shu Chao, Boxer leaders, reported to have killed themselves in compliance with the edict.

26—Chi Siu and Hsu Cheng Yo beheaded in Peking in compliance with the edict.

March 9—Russia in practical possession of Manchuria.

17—Peace negotiations hampered by Chinese concessions to Russia in Manchuria.

26—Chinese officials refuse to sign the Russian-Manchurian treaty owing to the opposition of the powers.

April 5—Russia withdraws Manchurian treaty to avoid war with Japan.

25—Dowager empress appoints a board of regents to manage the empire. Minister Conger arrives at San Francisco. Defends Dr. Ament against the charge of looting.

May 9—Indemnity claims amounting to 450,000,000 taels presented to the Chinese.

22—Gen. Chaffee and the 9th United States infantry leave Peking. Preparations made to withdraw other foreign troops.

June 3—Count von Waldersee departs from Peking. Gen. Chaffee and troops arrive at Manila.

10—The United States refuses to enter into a joint agreement to guarantee the Chinese indemnity.

July 26—China's offer to pay 450,000,000 taels as indemnity is formally accepted by representatives of the powers. Interest is to be paid at the rate of 4 per cent per annum, the whole of the principal and debt to be liquidated by 1940.

27—New Chinese foreign office created, with Prince Ching at the head.

Aug. 12—Agreement reached that wheat and flour are to be admitted into China free of duty.

20—Final protocol of the powers presented to China.

Sept. 4—Emperor William receives, through Prince Chun, the apology of China for the murder of Baron von Ketteler.

6—Protocol signed at Peking.

Sept. 22—The province of Chili turned over to China.

Oct. 6—Emperor and empress dowager leave Sigan Fu on their return to Peking.

Nov. 2—Announcement made that China has decided to recall Wu Ting-fang, minister to the United States. Attempt made to murder the empress.

4—Chinese court rejects the new treaty with Russia submitted by Li Hung Chang.

YALE BICENTENNIAL.

Yale university, which received its first charter from the colonial assembly of Connecticut toward the close of 1701, celebrated its bicentennial Oct. 20-23, 1901. Hundreds of alumni and many distinguished men from various parts of the world participated in the exercises.

On the last day honorary degrees were conferred upon President Theodore Roosevelt, Marquis Ito of Japan, Admiral Sampson, Richard Olney, Archbishop Ireland, Bishop Henry C. Potter, Secretary John Hay, William Dean Howells, Samuel L. Clemens, Chief Justice Melville W. Fuller and numerous other noted men, including several eminent foreign scholars.

WASHINGTON MEMORIAL INSTITUTION.

The Washington Memorial institution was organized in 1901 by the Washington Academy of Sciences and the George Washington Memorial association, for the purpose of making available at all times the scientific and other resources of the government for advanced study and research and to co-operate with universities, colleges and individuals to this end.

The institution receives no government support, but is incorporated under a law of congress approved March 3, 1901, providing the required facilities for study in the various departments.

The officers are: President, Daniel C. Gilman; president of board of trustees, Charles D. Walcott; secretary, Nicholas Murray Butler; treasurer, Charles J. Bell.

ROCKEFELLER INSTITUTE.

Steps were taken in 1901 to organize the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, so named in honor of its founder, John D. Rockefeller. It is to be located in the city of New York.

The officers are: President, Dr. William H. Welch; secretary, Dr. Emmett Holt; treasurer, Dr. C. A. Herter. Directors: Drs. H. M. Briggs, Theobald Smith and Simon Flexner.

PAN-AMERICAN CONGRESS.

Delegates from the republics of North, Central and South America met in the City of Mexico Oct. 23 and began their series of conferences by adopting resolutions advising Colombia and Venezuela to settle their differences without resorting to war. Senor Gera-raro Ragaigoso of Mexico was elected president Nov. 2, and the congress then proceeded to consider matters affecting the mutual relations of the republics, such as arbitration, extradition, better postal facilities, means of curbing anarchy, an international customs union and other means for promoting a greater degree of friendliness among the great and small powers of the American continent.

THE SCHLEY INQUIRY.

In July, 1901, a climax was reached in the Schley-Sampson controversy as to the respective merits of the commanders in the Santiago campaign when the third volume of Edgar S. Maclay's "History of the United States Navy" appeared. In this book Rear-Admiral Schley was severely criticised for his conduct before and during the fight with Cervera's fleet. He was charged with disobedience of orders in refusing to proceed to Santiago and with cowardice in turning the Brooklyn away from the Spanish fleet when it came out of the harbor.

July 22 Schley wrote a letter to Secretary Long of the navy department asking for an investigation, and three days later the request was complied with. Admiral Dewey and Rear-Admirals Kimberly and Benham were appointed to serve on the court, with Capt. S. C. Lemly as judge advocate. Kimberly was unable to serve and Rear-Admiral Howison was appointed to succeed him, but the latter was objected to by Schley as prejudiced and Rear-Admiral Ramsay took his place.

Secretary Long issued the precept to the court defining the scope of the investigation July 26 and directed the inquiry to begin Sept. 12, but in the meantime the assassination of President McKinley occurred and it was the 20th of September before the hearing of testimony began. Judge Jere Wilson of Washington and ex-Congressman I. Rayner represented Schley. On the 24th Judge Wilson died very suddenly, causing a temporary delay in the proceedings. Witnesses unfavorable to Schley occupied the time up to Oct. 2 and witnesses for him up to the first part of November. Schley himself was on the stand Oct. 24-30. Nov. 7 the arguments were concluded.

The verdict, announced Dec. 13, was as follows:

Commodore Schley, in command of the flying squadron, should have proceeded with utmost dispatch off Cienfuegos, and should have maintained a close blockade of that port.

He should have endeavored on May 23, at Cienfuegos, to obtain information regarding the Spanish squadron by communicating with the insurgents at the place designated in the memorandum delivered to him at 8:15 a. m. of that date.

He should have proceeded from Cienfuegos to Santiago de Cuba with all dispatch and should have disposed his vessels with a view of intercepting the enemy in any attempt to pass the flying squadron.

He should not have delayed the squadron for the Eagle.

He should not have made the retrograde turn westward with his squadron.

He should have promptly obeyed the navy department's order of May 25.

He should have endeavored to capture or destroy the Spanish vessels at anchor near the entrance of Santiago harbor on May 29 and 30.

He did not do his utmost with the force under his command to capture or destroy the Colon and other vessels of the enemy which he attacked on May 31.

By commencing the engagement on July 3 with the port battery and turning the Brooklyn around with port helm, Commodore Schley caused it to lose distance and position with the Spanish vessels—especially with the Vizcaya and Colon.

The turn of the Brooklyn to starboard was made to avoid getting it into dangerous proximity to the Spanish vessels. The turn was made toward the Texas and caused that vessel to stop and back its engines to avoid possible collision.

Admiral Schley did injustice to Lieutenant-Commander A. C. Hodgson in publishing only a portion of the correspondence which passed between them.

Commodore Schley's conduct in connection with the events of the Santiago campaign prior to June 1, 1898, was characterized by vacillation, dilatoriness and lack of enterprise.

His official reports regarding the coal supply and the coaling facilities of the flying squadron were inaccurate and misleading.

His conduct during the battle of July 3 was self-possessed, and he encouraged, in his own person, his subordinate officers and men to fight courageously.

GEORGE DEWEY,
 Admiral U. S. N., President.

SAMUEL C. LEMLY,
 Judge-Advocate General U. S. N., Judge Advocate.

In the opinion of the undersigned, the passage from Key West to Cienfuegos was made by the flying squadron with all possible dispatch, Commodore Schley having in view the importance of arriving off Cienfuegos with as much coal as possible in the ships' bunkers.

The blockade of Cienfuegos was effective. Commodore Schley in permitting the steamer Adula to enter the port of Cienfuegos expected to obtain information concerning the Spanish squadron from it when it came out.

The passage from Cienfuegos to a point about twenty-two miles south of Santiago was made with as much dispatch as was possible while keeping the squadron a unit.

The blockade of Santiago was effective.

Commodore Schley was the senior officer of our squadron off Santiago when the Spanish squadron attempted to escape on the morning of July 3, 1898. He was in absolute command and is entitled to the credit due to such commanding officer for the glorious victory which resulted in the total destruction of the Spanish ships.

GEORGE DEWEY,
 Admiral U. S. N., President.

SAMUEL C. LEMLY,
 Judge-Advocate General U. S. N., Judge Advocate.

The Supreme Court.

The Supreme court consists of seven judges, elected for the term of nine years, one from each of the seven districts into which the state is divided. The election is held in June of the year in which any term expires.

The state was formerly divided into three grand divisions which have been consolidated by act of legislature. The three clerks elected from the old divisions hold over until the end of their terms in 1902, after which only one will be elected.

MARCONI SIGNALS ACROSS THE ATLANTIC.

By means of the wireless system of telegraphy elaborated by Marconi, the Italian inventor, signals were sent across the Atlantic ocean Dec. 11 and 12, 1901. The European station was at Poldhu, near the Lizard, in Cornwall, England, and that on this side at St. John's, N. F. Only the letter "S" was telegraphed, but according to the inventor the possibility of sending messages across the ocean without the use of cables or wires was fully demonstrated. The distance between the stations was about 1,700 miles.

*McDonough and Schuyler reported together and credited to Schuyler in 1830. Peoria and Putnam reported together and credited to Putnam in 1830.

†Madison county at one time occupied half the northern part of the state. It was greatly reduced in size between 1820 and 1830.

Of the 102 counties in the state all but six have increased in population during the decade 1890-1900, the counties showing the largest percentages of increase being Cook, 54.2 per cent; Lake, 42.3 per cent; Rock Island, 31.8 per cent; Vermilion, 31.5 per cent; St. Clair, 30.2 per cent; Boone, 29.4 per cent; Kankakee, 29.3 per cent, and Pulaski, 28.1 per cent.

The six counties showing a decrease are Brown, Greene, Jersey, Jo Daviess, Kendall and Pope.

CHICAGO POLICE MAGISTRATES.

Police magistrates are selected from the list of justices of peace and appointed by the mayor. The fees collected by them are turned over to the city. They have jurisdiction in criminal cases where the punishment is by imprisonment in the house of correction or by a fine not exceeding $200. In cases where the penalty is imprisonment in the jail or penitentiary, and when sufficient evidence is presented, they hold the accused to the grand jury.

WILL SUIT YOUR CUSTOMERS IF YOU EQUIP YOUR OFFICE WITH

SUPERIOR COPPER-MIXED TYPE

Better still, you will make a good profit on the work. Our customers say SUPERIOR COPPER-MIXED TYPE is so much more durable than any other that they can cut their allowance for depreciation of plant in half, and still keep the office in better physical condition than it would be with twice the amount spent for new material were any other type used.

With twice the durability and much greater lightness you are saving in two ways—you get more for your money and buy less frequently.....

POPULATION OF CHICAGO BY WARDS.

[Census of 1900.]

NOTE—The figures in this and the succeeding tables are for the wards as they were constituted in 1900, when the federal census was taken. Early in 1901 the boundaries were changed (see map) and as no census has been taken since then no reliable figures for the new wards can be given.

CITY DIRECTORY ESTIMATE.

The Chicago city directory for 1901 estimated the population at 2,080,000. In making this computation the publishers used the ratio of population to the number of names in the city directory, as established by the United States census of 1890, as the first member of an arithmetical proportion in which the third member is the number of directory names for 1901 and the unknown quantity the population. The number of names in the directory was 606,700, an increase of 22,700 over the preceding year. The health department in preparing the vital statistics in Chicago estimated the city's population in midyear 1901 at 1,758,025.

FRANCHISE ASSESSMENT DECISION.

In November, 1900, the Chicago Teachers' federation began proceedings for a mandamus compelling the state board of equalization of Illinois to assess the property of corporations at the same proportion of its market value as that at which it assesses the property of individuals. The case was decided in favor of the teachers by Judge Owen P. Thompson of the Sangamon county Circuit court and it was then appealed to the state Supreme court. On the 24th of October, 1901, a decision was given fully sustaining that of the lower court. In substance it was held that in making the assessments of the capital stock of corporations, including franchises, it is proper to add the market or fair cash value of the capital stock to the market or fair cash value of the debt of the corporation, excluding from such debt the indebtedness for current expenses, and to deduct from the result the aggregate amount of the equalized or assessed valuation of all the tangible property of said corporation.

In the petition for the mandamus twenty-three traction, gas, telephone and other public-service companies doing business in Chicago were specifically named, but the decision requires the board of equalization to follow the same rule in assessing the property of all corporations not expressly exempted by statute.

ABDUCTION OF ELLEN M. STONE.

Miss Ellen M. Stone, a missionary of the American (congregational) board, was captured by brigands in the Balkan mountains or Turkish Macedonia Sept. 3 while traveling with a party of twelve persons, including Mme. Tsilka, wife of an Albanian missionary. They had started from Bansko for Diunia and were passing through a defile in the hills when they were surrounded and made prisoners by a band of about forty masked men. No indignities were offered and no property was taken from the captives, but Miss Stone and Mme. Tsilka were held for ransom, while the others were liberated. Steps were taken to secure her release, both by the United States government through diplomatic channels and by the American board through efforts to raise the sum demanded ($10,000), but week after week elapsed without any result being achieved. Neither the Turkish nor the Bulgarian government would acknowledge responsibility and each accused the other of shielding the kidnapers.

THE PHILLIPS MAY CORN DEAL.

The feature of the Chicago grain market in the first half of the year was the May corn deal managed by George H. Phillips. Backed by western traders and others, he began buying heavily in February, when the price of corn was a little below 40 cents, and aided by a shortage in the supply and the weather conditions gradually forced the price up to 44½ cents on March 30. The culminating point was reached May 15, when May corn was quoted at 60 cents, and two days later the campaign was virtually closed. Though the deal was apparently a success George H. Phillips & Co. suspended business Aug. 1 in order to straighten out the books of the firm.

TAXATION IN CHICAGO.

List of the eighteen boards making annual levies within the city limits:

1. STATE TAX—For state purposes. The governor, auditor and treasurer constitute the board which ascertains the rate per cent required to produce the amount of taxes levied by the general assembly. "The state school tax" is levied in the same manner. The rate for all state purposes varies from 50 to 60 cents on the $100 assessed valuation.
2. COUNTY TAX—The county board levies the taxes for all county purposes, the aggregate of which is limited to 75 cents on the $100.
3. CITY TAX—The city council, acting with the mayor, levies the taxes for all city purposes.
4. SCHOOL TAX—The city council and the mayor make a separate levy for this purpose.
5. LIBRARY TAX—The city council and the mayor make a separate levy for this purpose. The levy is 10 cents on the $100.
6. SANITARY DISTRICT—The tax is levied by the board of trustees. The rate now is 50 cents on the $100.
- 7-13. SOUTH TOWN, WEST TOWN, NORTH TOWN, HYDE PARK, LAKE, JEFFERSON, LAKE VIEW—There are seven townships lying wholly within the city limits. Each has a town board, consisting of the assessor, supervisor, collector and justices of the peace, which makes the levies for town purposes. These boards have not made levies the last two years, having been enjoined on the ground that their actions were extravagant and illegal.

A township consolidation act was passed by the last legislature and will be submitted to the electors at the next city election; if adopted the duties of these several town boards will be transferred to the city council.

14. SOUTH PARK SYSTEM—The south park commissioners levy for park purposes in the towns of South Chicago, Hyde Park and Lake. The last rate was 38 cents on the $100.
15. WEST PARK SYSTEM—The West Chicago park commissioners levy for park purposes in the town of West Chicago. The last rate was $1.15 on the $100.
16. LINCOLN PARK—The Lincoln park commissioners are not "corporate authorities," the Lincoln park act not having been adopted by popular vote. The levy for Lincoln park is therefore made by the supervisors of the north town and Lake View.
17. RIDGE PARK—A small park district in Rogers Park, organized under the law providing for local park districts by popular vote. The board of five commissioners levies for the district, its last levy being $1 on the $100.
18. THE NORTH SHORE PARK DISTRICT—Organized the same as Park Ridge. The last levy was 42 cents on the $100.

COMBINED INDEX

OF FIRST SEVENTEEN VOLUMES (1885 TO 1901 INCLUSIVE) OF THE CHICAGO DAILY NEWS ALMANAC.

NOTE—The figures following the year are the page numbers of that volume.

Back numbers of THE DAILY NEWS ALMANAC are available for every year since 1890 with the exception of the issue of 1897.

The first five issues—for the years 1885, 1886, 1887, 1888 and 1889, are bound in one volume, half morocco, library style. This volume is sold only to purchasers of complete sets of the almanac. A complete set embraces the library volume and a cloth-bound issue for each succeeding year. In figuring the price for a complete set, add $1.50 for the library volume to the sum total for the issues of succeeding years at 50 cents each. Orders should be addressed to THE DAILY NEWS, 123 5th avenue, Chicago.

R. HOE & CO.'S

NEW COMBINATION SUPPLEMENT PRESS

This machine is designed to meet the demands of newspapers requiring a simple, efficient and moderate-priced Stereotype Perfecting Press for 4, 6, 8, 10 and 12 page papers. It gives a running speed per hour of

10,000 8, 10 or 12 page papers, with all the leaves inset, pasted if desired, and the papers delivered folded and counted. The 8, 10 and 12 page papers are produced from a single set of plates.

Similar machines are also made to print 16-page papers, as well as the other products mentioned above.
